Next Week at the College.
We are on the eve of the greatest event in the history of our local college, for tomorrow morning the centennial exercises of Franklin and Marshall college are begun with a baccalaureate sermon by the president of the institution.

Next week the citizens of this town should turn aside a little from their regular avocations, and lend a hand toward pushing along the local educational snowball. Franklin and Marshall college deserves well of the people of Lancaster. It never has been a suppliant for the city's alms, and has been a source of material financial benefit to the city.

Is the illness feigned?
It is an open question whether the crown prince of Germany was really thought to be in a dangerous condition, or whether the parade of medical gentlemen of eminence and the talk about cancer of the throat were not started with the deliberate purpose of arousing popular sympathy for the heir apparent to the German throne.

Observe the Fourth.
Columbia is to have an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. It held a town meeting, discussed plans and has appointed committees to carry out an interesting programme.

Chandler Agais.
It was thought that the country was through with William E. Chandler, who now looks to the political surface as the Republican caucus nominee for United States senator in New Hampshire.

A Horse Frightened to Death.
Mr. Bardell, a citizen of Murphy Hills, W. Va., was riding a fine blooded horse up the street Wednesday evening when he came suddenly upon a band of Arabs and performing feats.

A Tax Middle.
We have a very slipshod mode of legislation in this state. An act of assembly was recently passed repealing the tax upon household furniture, pleasure carriages and watches.

CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN, of Harrisburg, has been appointed speaker by Collector Man- goniga.

THE LAWYER swears by the cook books. We swear at those.

THE LAWYER suggests that the building of the new jail be deferred until the next county commission takes their seat.

CLEVELAND and Hill have taken breakfast together, and the delegation from New York will be sold for the re-nomination of the "man of destiny."

THE pension bureau exhibits those results to draw the cries of the sectional strikers. From March 17, 1885, to March 31, 1887, 356 new appointments were made, of which number 174 were ex-Union soldiers.

THE Torians are again playing the gag law in Parliament in the Irish debate. A cause that wins by such methods can have in it nothing intrinsically good.

A SEPARATE volume of the consular reports for April treats exhaustively the fishery interests of the United States and trade with Canada.

SECRETARY BAYARD tells Minister West that England's mendicants must stay out of this country. But the poor and the mendicant must not be confounded.

DR. BARD is again playing the gag law in Parliament in the Irish debate. A cause that wins by such methods can have in it nothing intrinsically good.

What They See Like in the Place Where They Live These Days.
The building establishment, or, as we call it, the building trade, is in a state of depression.
