Rehearsing the Music for To-Morrow.

The rehearsal of the choruses for to-morrow's programme at Fulton opera house, this morning, was a brilliant success. The schools sing in four parts with a degree of confidence and with such precision and volume of tone as is simply remarkable. Prof. Matz, as constructor in music in the high schools, has never presented a finer musical programme, nor a better drilled chorus. The music will be a great feature of the programme to-morrow. The high school orchestra, under Prof. Thorbahn, gave good support to the chorus to-day.

Queer Designation for Dickens.

From the New York Tribune.

Here is a literary anecdote which the husband of an admired piano player, well known in New York, recently sent to a friend:

Scene, Vienna—Time, the present.—Frau H. H. finds the Vienna library system a failure, and casually mentions the fact to her landlady, who is the proud possessor of a shelf full of books, and, as Theophrastus says, "occasionally occupies the same room with them."

The first question: "Well, what would you like?" is naturally answered by another: "Well, what have you got?" Suddenly the landlady is illuminated by an idea.

"Boots is the thing!"

"Boots? Who is Boots?"

"Boots, the English novelist. Don't you know him?"

"No," (hesitatingly) "I believe not." (Painful pause in which "Boots" own countrywomen feels that she must disown him and her own reputation as an intelligent being at the same time. But it can't be helped.)

"No; I really never heard of Boots."

"That's singular. I am very fond of Boots, the English—your—novelist. Boots—you must read him."

"Boots???"

"Yes, Boots, Bay—oh—i:ot—Boots. He wrote 'Uneven Tweest,' and—"

"Oh!!"

John Jasper's Sermon.

The Rev. John Jasper says he has preached his famous "Sun do move" sermon about a hundred times. "I preached it first," he says, "in 1878. Since then I have had offers from all over this country and from London, Paris and other preach it; but I refused them all 'cause I didn't think it would be right to leave my people. One man offered me $400 to go to London and preach the sermon. He even said he would pay me the money first, and that I wouldn't have to walk a step between here and Europe, and wouldn't have to walk a step after I got there." He is now very old, but hale and vigorous. "Soon after I first delivered this sermon here in Richmond," he says, "I went to Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia, and when I came back a great revival was going on, and one day I baptized 301 people without coming out of the water. That laid me up for awhile. Never had but three attacks of sickness in my life. Since I was sick last December my appetite has not been as good as it used to be. Yes, I'm in mighty good health for an old man like me."

St. Mary's Coming Picnic.

Indications are to the effect that the St. Mary's Sunday school picnic at Pennryn Park on Tuesday, July 12, will be the big picnic event of the season. A Raspberry Festival.

The Presbyterian Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Sunday-school of the Presbyterian church, will be held on Friday next at Rocky Springs. Coaches will leave the church at 8 and 10 a m, and 2 p. m. All the enrolled members of the Sabbath school will have free tickets. All other persons can get tickets at L. B. Herr's bookstore, or at the church before the coaches leave, for 35 cents. If the day is stormy the picnic will be postponed until further notice.

Decorative Art Work.

At the office of the Singer Sewing Machine company, No. 146 East King street, may be seen some of the finest decorative art work ever seen in this city. All the work was executed on the new high arm Singer sewing machine, and many of the pieces are truly wonderful. There are mantel lambrequins, sofa pillows, banners, bannerettes, table scarfs, screens, toilet setts, etc., worked in silk and floss, and yarns of various kinds and colors and of the most exquisite designs. There is a gentleman's portrait and a life-size figure of a setter dog worked in silk by the sewing machine, that are as fine as oil paintings and worthy of a place in any parlor. A life-size wax figure, dressed in elaborately embroidered toilette, attracts much attention. The exhibition is a beautiful one, and it is amazing that such fine art work can be executed on a sewing machine; and yet we are assured that an ordinarily expert sewer on the Singer machine can very soon learn how to execute fine art work. The exhibition will remain open until Saturday evening.

Amusements.

The Grand Opera House.—All is bustle and confusion in the Grand opera house, West King street, which is being prepared for the opening on Saturday evening. Miss Adele Carleton and company will appear in "Fogg's Ferry," and no expense will be spared to make the production a success. The scenic effects are nearing completion and they will include besides the prismatic fountain and mill the explosive scene, exposing to the full view of the audience a steamer on the Mississippi river, illuminated with electric lights, smoke stacks and escapement pipes, wheels, etc., all in working order.
