A SETTLER'S SUICIDE.

Driven Ito Death by the Persecution of Laud Grant Hattroads A deplorable instance of the result of landgrant railroad persecution of settlers has been brought to light in the case of E. L. Logwood, a settler on land withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific railroad in California Logwood's homestead entry was allowed by Commissioner Sparks, the land having een excepted from the railroad grant by prior settlement claim. The company did not oppose the settler's proof and under the rules of the department it could not thereafter antagonize his claim. But the attorneys for the company filed an appeal to the secretary of the interior, submitted arguments and notified the settler of their action, although they knew that an appeal did not lie in the case. The settler was not willing to purchase his home from the railroad company, which had no right to the land, but relied upon the land office to protect him. Commissioner pose the settler's proof and under the rules had no right to the land, but relied upon the land office to protect him. Commissioner Sparks rejected the company's appeal and ordered a patent to issue to the settler. Then the attorney for the Southern Pacific railroad company appeared with an appeal and printed argument, which he sent to the settler on the ground that the land was also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific road. This appeal was the Southern Pacific road. This appeal was rejected by the commissioner, for the reasons that the land being within the granted limits of the Atlantic & Pacific could not be claimed by the Southern Pacific, a ruling well known to the latter company, and as the case before the office was one between the settler and the Atlantic & Pacific the Southern Pacific was not a party and had no standing as an appellant. These proceedings and the dilatory motions of the railroad attorneys consumed much time. The case was, however, finally cleared of all encumbrances, and a patent was issued to the settler and delivered to his attorney in Wash-ington, who forwarded it to California. This ington, who forwarded it to California. This gentleman has just received a letter from the adminstrator of Logwood's estate, who says that upon the receipt of the brief of the attorney for the Southern Pacific railroad company Logwood became despondent and perhaps insans. At all events, Logwood, he says, wound up by committing suicide, saying that he might have a show with one railroad, but could not possibly beat twe.

This case is regarded at the department as emphasizing the necessity for the contem-emphasizing the necessity for the contem-plated action of the department, under the order of the president in the Guilford Miller case, to remove the grasp of railroad com-panies from public lands within railroad indemnity under indemnity withdrawais which, as stated by Commissioner Sparks in his annual report to Congress, are used to compel settlers to purchase rathroad waivers or relinquishments when the companies have no right to the land. The Callthompion Suisance. EDS. INTELLIGENCER: - Doesn't it often occur to you that the ractio of allow ng a rude gang of unmanner; boys and would-be men to surround the house of a new couple with gongs, bells, borns, atcal s, yells, "horse-fiddles" to any indefinite extent and to keep up the racket as long as they please, is an unmitigated evil? And should it be tolerated? For the sake of the amusement of a party of boisterous fellows, fully one third of our town must suffer the penalty of the hideous outcry. This custom ought to be superseded. It causes disorder, disgust, and, If there be sickness or death in the neighborhood, distress. It is a bid for intemperance and riot. It is inappropriate. The young people assailed so rudely have just made the hollest and most important step of their lives; and that they should be thus jarred and jostled as a "joke" is both impolite and impolitic. We are sure that the good sense of both the young and the old will join with us in urging our officers to keep our streets pure from such evil. OBSERVER.

The project to start a profusional base ball club in this city has been abandoned because a sufficient number of gustiemen could not be induce to invest their money. There were some who were willing to "put up" liberally but others who declare that they admire the game are only willing to pay their quarter dollar entrance money. They say that they then know where they stand, and probably no one will doubt their words.

To show how liberal the "lovers" of ball are in this city it is only necessary to cite one instance. The other day at the Ironsides grounds, while a game was in progress, the manager of a visiting team, who was standing near the open seats, asked for change for a $5 note. A fellow, who was standing outside the fence, on a pile of bricks, at once banded the necessary change over the fence. He kept his eye on the game, did not lose a point of the game and held fast to his free perch on the bricks.
