CARVER'S WONDROUS WORK. BERAT GUNTING AT M'GRARD'S PARK

MUNDAY AFTERNOOM. Over Five Hundred People Witness the Rullbitton of Dr. Carver and Mr. Brower. Some Fine Shooting by Them With the Mills and shotgus,

On Monday afternoon about five bundred people paid admission to McGrann's park, where Dr. W. C. Carver and J. L. Brewer, the renowned gunners, gave an exhibition of shooting. In addition to this number several lences. The exhibition was the finest in the line that has ever been seen in this city and no person who attended went away dissatis-fied. The pair of crack shots seemed to be at their best and they certainly astonish people by their marvelous work. Dr. Carver is a splendid specimen of a man. He is over six feet in height with big, broad shoulders and very powerful looking. He is full of fun and picasant to all. Mr. Brewer, as every one knows, is a remarkably fine abot and is a fit companion of the renowned

The exhibition began shortly before 4 o'clock and Dr. Carver first showed what effect a builet had upon a brick. An attenwith a rifle the doctor broke them to pieces. After breaking the bricks with the first bullet he would break one or more of the pieces with a second shot, before they reached the Next the doctor fired at oranges tossed in the sir, and it was funny to see how the bullets affected them. They were pieces of them could be found. The doctor next ried his skill shooting at pieces of money in the air. On account of the high wind it was rather difficult to prevent the coins from doctor succeeded in hitting a number of them, bending and tearing them up in queer shapes. One doltar was knocked so far that it was lost sight of, and the owner who sat in the grand stand will not see the eagle upon it again. The doctor was just as successful with half dollars, and they were sent whizring through the air in all directions. This shooting was done with rifles.

The next event was the shooting of balls in the air by Mesers, Carver and Brewer. They used repeating shotguns and did remarkably fine work. Mr. Brewer really showed that he was almost as fine at that kind of shooting as the doctor. The balls were first thrown in the air singly by the attendants. and they were broken in rapid succession Finally they were thrown in pairs and threes, and each gunner succeeded in breaking ail before they reached the ground. At last five were tossed up, and Carver broke them all with as many loads while they were in the air.

Next came the big event of the day. Dr Carver announced that he would attempt the feat of breaking 1,000 balls in 65 minutes. He said that the best record for that kind of shooting was 68 minutes for 1,000 balls. He would attempt to break it in 65 or less. The doctor started in his work at exactly 17 minutes after 4 o'clock according to Dr. Mc Cankey's watch. The balls used were of composition of large and small size and yellow colored glass balls. Two attendants threw the balls in the air in different directions, one relieving the other as they became tired. Two men loaded the guns (which were repeating shot weapons) for a time, but they were unable to do it fast enough and a third was called upon. Considerable time was lost on this account. It soon became evident that the doctor would accomplish the feat and in all probability do a great deal better. This he did do for at the end of total principles he had broken the 1,000 balls ad had only missed is. The record at the end At first their conversation partook of the of each five minutes was as follows: 5, 166; 10, 227; 13, 345; 20, 469; 25, 575; 30, 659; 35, 763; 40, 864; 45, 964; 46%; 1,000 When the feat had been accomplished and the time announced powers, in addition to his great skill as a marksman. The work is very tiresome and At times the barrels of the guns were so ho that they could not be touched by the person attending to the loading.

Although this is the best shooting of this kind ever done, Dr. Carver says he could do t much quicker if he had more guns. Yes terday he used four, and one of them did not work as it should. For accomplishing this foat the doctor will receive a prize of $1,000 from the Spencer Firearms company.

The capitalists interested in the completion of the South Pennsylvania railroad have determined to reopen the case in the couris with a view to obtaining a determination of it and going ahead with the completion of the line. At a recent meeting held in this city it was also decided to have the property cold under a foreloseure of the mortgage which had been issued upon it, and to have a reorganization effected upon a basic of 4 instead of 6 per cent. This course was pursued with reference to the Beech Creek railroad, and that property was successfully reorganized.

Prior to the departure of ex-President Gowen, of the Reading railroad company, for Kurope a meeting of the bondholders of the South Pennsylvania railroad company was held in New York, at which the following committee was appointed to ascertain the sentiment of the bondholders upon completing the road: F. L. Stetaon, of New York; F. R. Gowen, of this city; George F. Beer, of Reading, and Messra. Housteter and Phippa, of Pittaburg. These gentlemen were intrusted with authority to make a suitable offer for the interests of those bondholders who do not desire to go on with the completion of the road. Mr. Beer was charged with portion of the work in Eastern Pennsylvania and New York, and Messra. Hostetter and Phipps with the work in the western part of the state. The duties of those bondholders and New York, and Messra. Hostetter and Phipps with the work in the western part of the state. The duties of the committee have been completed, and it is stated that it has made an informal report to the effect that it finds very little opposition made by bondholders to bearing a pro rata share in the completion of the road.

The matter of reaching this city and New York by the new line from Harrisburg has been fully inquired into by lawyers. This portion of the haut will be done over the Reading tracks, under a contract executed between the two lines sometime ago. This contract, it is believed, is still in force, and the only release that the Reading could secure from it would be by a forcelosure.

"Now, if I liked—" but he got no further, when she lost all patience, and exclaimed:
"Love! love! love! Don't say like; it's love I want. The man I call husband must love me every moment of his life!"
During this colloquy their heads had been dropped closer and closer together. As his lady love gave utterance to the above outburst of feeling he allowed his arm to fall to his charmer's waist.

The hand did not seem satisfied with its position, for it immediately began a sort of installment movement under one of the arms.

Lily gave a half frightened forward movement, as though about to reprove the boldness of the man at her side, but on closer observation it became apparent that her change of base was merely a ruse to facilitate matters and give greater freedom of action.

The Wood Progressing Finely in This Locali Drouth Seriously Affecting the Crops in Ohio and Wisconsin-Reports from New York, Philadelphia and Haltimore,

From all sections of Lancaster and adje ing counties the reports are to the effect that the '87 tobacco crop is growing gloriously, large harvest will be gathered.

Reports from Ohio and Wisconsin on the other hand are to the effect that the drouth has been so severe to the tobacco growing possibly be secured, while, if the drouth continues, little or none will be barvested in

The New York Market.

The week passed rather quietly. The trade celebrated the Fourth of July from the second till the sixth. After that the trade second till the sixth. After that the trade feit good over the reports of the growing to bacco crops in Ohio and Wisconsin; these growing crops in fact have stopped growing from excessive drought and other natural causes, and the probable yield is reported as about failing short fifty per cent. This, of course, will make a large gap in the estimated result of the 1857 crop, and investors in the '85 are not exactly weeping over it. Then, too, Sumatra is going up rapidly, just now, all of which tends to inspire the seed leaf trade, with notions of coming large business and fine prospects. Bethis as it may, nothing exists which can even faintly point toward any decline in prices for seed leaf. The stock sold during the week, inclusive of its feative portion, was nearly all old tobacco, several hundred cases of '85 Housatonics being the exception. The price paid for the latter is variously reported at from 20 to 23 cents.

Sumatra suffered from the holiday trade intermission, bringing the sales up to about 250 bales, partly old, partly new. The thin—75 cents duty—goods sell as well, if not better, than the medium texture tobaccos. The difference in duty is always made up by the excess in the yield: and, altogether, manufacturers are very much satisfied with the present mode of assessing duties. The reports from Amsterdam show an emphatic increase in prices, and also but small purchases by Amsterdam buyers. Evidently prices out there are not all settled, and the coming sales may show either a decline or increase in figures. The spirit of our large Wall

From the Tobacco Leaf.

Cigar Leaf—The most noteworthy feature in this market is the increasing activity in new goods, bids being made and quickly refused. Holders are very firm. Sales of 1886 Connecticut broad leaf, amounting, perhaps, to 600 cases, have been reported at full figures. Of 1886 fine home trade Ohio, of which but little is grown annually, several hundred cases were sold.

From close estimates it is reported that the old stocks of seed of all grades in this market are as follows: 3,000 cases Pennsylvania broad leaf, 1,000 cases Little Dutch, 1,000 cases Ohio broad leaf, and 2,200 cases Connecticut. The latest news from Ohio is extremely discouraging, the drouth having affected the From the Tobacco Lenf.

discouraging, the drouth having affected the plants in the beds and fields most seriously. Sumaira—The market showed a fair degree of activity this week and 280 bales were sold at from $1.35 to $1.65. Unsettled colors retard the sale of new goods. Some 4,200 bales were sold at Rotterdam on the 1st inst. and higher prices than those obtained at the sale on the 224 uit, were realized. As high as $1.36 was paid by American buyers for tobacco which will pass at 35 cents duty.

Seed Leaf-The outlook for leaf sultable for cigars is promising. There is beyond doubt some excellent leaf among the growth of 'wi, while it is an established fact that there is less old stock in store than for many years, so that packers and holders of new leaf have a flattering prospect in store for mar-gins. You find them siready not anxious to name price, preferring to hold back offerings and wait for future developments. Parties

The market for Maryland tobacco con-tinues active, and sales of 500 or 600 hbds considering the comparatively light receipts, is held to be a fair business. Some common grades have brought good prices. There is more inquiry for Ohlo and the market has a firmer tone, in view of the short crop procpect. The sales this week were 15 hhds for export and 4 for home consumption.

LANCASTER, PA., TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1887.

Attendants.

A New York dispatch of July 10 says a living woman for whom the crematory furnace was at its fiercest heat of 2,700 degrees Fahrenheit, and for whom the alum sheet was already prepared, is with her husband and children, although on Thursday last she lay in her coffin in a room adjoining the vault lay in her coffin in a room adjoining the vault where incineration is done. It was a case horrible to contemplate, and will make evident the need of still more stringent laws to govern this new feature in sanitary welfare. Ex-Coroner Hughes is president of the Mount Oliyet Crematory association, which, in the form of a Grecian temple, is located in a lovely garden spot at Fresh Pond, Long Island. Dr. Hughes vouches for the correctness of this story, but witholds both the name of the physician who signed the death certificate and that of the lady. In the former case he gave his promise only after the most urgent appeals, and then he only consented to keep the story until the annual report is published in October, when his obligation as president of the case of the story until the annual report is published.

in October, when his obligation as president of the crematory make it necessary for him to print the facts, and even then, out of motives of consideration that prevail in every man's breast, he will suppress the name of the unfortunate, yet, at the same time, happy family that had the dead restored to life.

On the day mentioned a casket containing the body of a woman arrived at the crematory. It came from Fifth avenue, not far from the Hotel Windsor. Accompanying it were the widower, children and a half dozen relatives. The casket was carried into the reception room, and by its side was placed a costly silver urn in which the ashes were to be subsequently placed for final keeping.

costly silver urn in which the ashes were to be subsequently piaced for final keeping. After a simple service the lid of the coffin was removed and the mourners, one by one, took a last tearful look. The lid was replaced and the floral emblems were again placed on the coffin.

The widower and weeping children were led away to the carriages, and the dead was left to the crematory assistants for incineration. When they were gone President Hughes and his men removed the entire lid and he then sent them to prepare the alum sheet for enveloping the body and to swing the chilled steel craftle into position before the glowing furnace doors. While they were absent President Hughes turned to a small mirror, and while arranging his tie he was started by a faint voice at his back saying: "Where am 1.7"

Turning quickly, he saw the woman sit-

Turning quickly, he saw the woman sit-ting bolt upright in her casket, staring di-rectly at him. When he gathered his scattered wits he realized that prompt action was needed, and stepping to her side he said familiarly: "You are with friends." She had already swung her legs out of the casket, and was looking in a dazed way at the urn and was looking in a dazed way at the urn and then at her satin burial robes. Assisting her out of the dreadful coffin and encircling her with one arm, he carefully kept her head turned from her resting place, and half led, half carried her to a cheerful bed room overhead, occupied by the superintendent and his wife. Soft breezes were coming in the window, and a cheery canary bird in an alcoyer wang a song of loy. canary bird in an alcove sang a song of joy.
While the superintendent's wife removed the garments of death and put the lady to bed, President Hughes hurried away, and redrink had the effect of bringing a flush to the cheeks of the patient, succeeded immediately by a quiet doze. The telegraph was brought into requisition and the husband was soon back at the crematory with a set of his wife's apparel. While he was yet on his way his wife awakened from her nsp and asked: "Whose clothes am I wearing?" They were those of the crematory, but that fact was ingeniously concealed in the reply, which seemed to satisfy her. The severest task was when the husband arrived, when they tried to school him into self-control for the interview. The course of procedure agreed upon was carried out to the letter. The husband went into the room with the usual inquiry as to how she drink had the effect of bringing a flush to room with the usual inquiry as to how she felt, and said that, if she considered herself strong enough, they would return to the city; that, in his opinion, she had stayed long enough in the country.

Acquiescing in every thing, although somewhat mystified, she arose, dressed herself and announced that she was ready. The husband was now in a tortured frame of mind, for he dreaded passing the front door, where in large letters was the word "crema-tory." The shock of the discovery he leared would kill his wife. rear door, and through this he led her close carriage, and thence regardless of the fact that there was no road, he had the car-riage driven straight across the lawn and field until kindly trees hid the crematory from sight. Then he took the smooth pike thence home.

The children had been forewarned of what had occurred, but as an additional precaution they were sent from home and were not allowed to see their mother until to day. Sho was given to believe that they were away on a visit to New Jersey.

The lady's death was attributed to heart disease, and the doctor's certificate to this affact is on file in the health office.

A STORY BIDIOULED.

The Opinious of Prumin's Crown Prince Se to Mare Seen Given the Famous French Estle.

[Copyrighted.] London, July 12.—Thereport published in the Paris Pigaro a few days ago of an alleged interview between the crown prince of Prussia and the Comte de Paris, appears from careful perusal of the continental press to have fallen dat and entirely falled of its object as a sensation. Who is there so silly and ignorant of European politics as to believe Paris, (if indeed he said anything to him at all,) that the formation of a French ministry in which Gen. Boulanger should be a prominent factor would strain the relations between France and Germany to the point of a rupture? If the crown prince were authorized to voice the sentiments of Germany in such a manner, or in fact in any manner, which he is not in possession of authority to do, he would unquestionably select an entirely different auditor. Sending verbal messages to the French government through the Comte de Paris of all persons in the world, is quite as ridiculous as would be an application to Mr. Parnell for presentation to the queen, and no one knows this better Legitimatist press of Paris see their cause so so steadily dying out that they eagerly selze upon any pretence to bring their claims or candidate into notice. A Frenchman out of France is so speedily forgotten that after a lapse of a few years the fickle multitude would consider it an impertinence on the part of even the Comte de Paris to attempt to recall himself to their memory. The so-called demonstration on the lale of Jersey was udicrously disproportioned to the expectations of the L. gitimatists and the reports arts its extent and the enthusiasm manifested were tremendously exaggerated. There were very few Frenchmen of any importance present, while the residents of the island, of course, simply hailed the occasion as one affording them an opportunity to turn an onest penny from the visitors and would bave greeted the advent of a circus with equal gratification, accompanied by the same equal gratification, accompanied by the same manifestations of rejoicing and display of holiday attire. The most ardent shouters of "Vive Le Roi" were English toadles, who felt the occasion to be one which they could oring themselves into some small notoriety in their special circles and whose proudes a few words with, or shaken the hand of the exiled scion of royalty. This is the verdict of impartial visitors to the scene and the opinion is generally expressed by them that he affair had as little political significance as a horse race or a cricket match.

Frigidity Between Maine Statesmen. CHICAGO, July 12 -A special to the News from Edinburgh says: "Senator Frye and wife were quartered in the Royal hotel here two days before the Blaine party arrived. It is evident that there is a lack of warmth and affinity in the Maine coterie. Nothing more than exchanges of the most ordinary civili-ties had occurred between the Bisines and Fryes. Senator Frye met Mr. Blaine Satur day as he was stepping into a carriage and paused a few moments to converse with him, but no intimacy had subsisted between the families. They neither visited one another at their rooms nor went sightseeing together, and Senator Frye spent most of his time downstairs. He attended none of the Car-negie ceremonies. He was cheerful with both Mr. Blaine and Senator Hale when he met them, which was rarely. Last night, however, Mrs. Blaine and Mrs. Hale met Senator Frye in the rotunda as they were returning to their spartments from the coffee room and bore him off up stairs. amilies gathered in one of Mr. Blaine's parlors and there remained the entire evening.

THE GUESTS OF SISTER ROSE.

PRESIDENT AND MES. OLEVELAND AR-BIVE AT HULLAND PATENT, B. T.

They Reach That Town in Ently Morning, Fow l'esple Were at the Train to Most Thom and no Conveyance Was Provided, The Other Points to be Visited.

HOLLAND PATENT, N. Y., July 12 -Prestdent Cleveland and wile arrived here at 5:15 this morning, an hour and six minutes earlies than they were expected. They came from Utica by special train, comprising out coach and a New York Central hotel car.

As the train drew up in front of the depot, both the president and Mr. Lamont stepped on the platform where they met Postments Bailey and General Manager H. M. Britton.

Sailey and General Manager H. M. Britton of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg railroad. The hour was so early that but few people were present. A special engine was at-tached to the coach, but Mr. Lamont did not enter it, having promised to spend the day in Utics, the guest of Mr. Battey. While the president shook hands with those who were resented to him. Mrs. Cleveland made her oilet and soon after greeted Manager Britton dent. The ride to Holland Patent consu but twenty minutes, and as the hour for the arrival of the train had been kept secret, there was no demonstration. Indeed, so well had the secret been kept that even Miss Rose Cleveland, whose guest the president was to be, did not know of his presence in the village, consequently there was no conveyance in waiting. Mrs. dress and carried a bouquet of 1030s. As she alighted she nodded pleasantly to the engineer and walked into the depot. The president meanwhile having satisfied himself that no carriago was in attendance, picked up a small bundle, put it under his arm and said "Come on." Like good American citizens they walked slowly up the street of the village to "The Weeds," Miss Cleveland's residence and the homestead of the Cleveland family. Miss Cleveland met them at the door, and breakfast was soon after served. The party will remain quietly within doors during the day, resting from their journey. This evening they will hold an informal reception which will be attended by the prominent persons of the village and shortly after 8 o'clock to-morrow morning they will leave on a special train for Clinton, where they will participate in the centennial anniversary of that village. At 5 p. m. they will return to Utica, where they will be the guesta of Senator Kernan and family at din-ner. At 9 o'clock a reception will be tendered them at the Butterfield house, which will last until 11. It is now the president's intention to proceed directly to Forestport, to visit his brother, Rev. Wm. N. Cleveland, but as this would nec journey by rail until after midnight and a carriage ride of three miles into the very gateway of the Adirondacks, strong pressure will be brought to bear to induce the party to remain in the city over night, the guest of the Kernan family. The Jacksonian cam-paign club will be the president's bodyguard both at Utica and Clinton to-morrow and during the evening. There will be a lavish display of fireworks in front of the hotel, where the reception will occur.

Soon after breakfast the president ceived a call from Dr. Crane, an old friend, and enjoyed a short carriage ride with him. Mrs. Cleveland also occupied a seat in Miss Cleveland's dog cart for an hour's ride. The reception is now fixed for from 2 to 4 p. m.

Worth, Texas, says: There was considerable of a flurry in the city at 11 o'clock last night when a rumor became current that a blood; fight had taken place near Little River, south of Fort Worth, on the Missouri Pacific, be-tween robbers and guards. Little River is a watering station and no news can be received from there. It is certain that officials of the road have cause to fear robbery, and secretly put guards on both the north and south-bound night trains, and the trainmen are also armed. The north-bound train reached here without molestation, it is stated that Trainmaster Ray also accom-
