Discontorts of Special Trains. From the Salirond Garotie, July 52

Disconterts of special trains. From the Entirend Garatta, July S. In truth special trains are headloapped by pronounced disad vaninges, and many officers have come to regard them in the nature of seconsary evils, and to be avoided when possible. The fact that both men on the train and others whose dulies are affected by it are working outside of the habitual round is well understood, and has been hereotofore referred to in these columns. But a promi-nent cause of disconfort in such trains frequently is the encounty conjectured that this, with its attendant excitement, more or isse mild, among both passengers and it may be reasonably conjectured that this, with its attendant excitement, more or isse mild, among both passengers and trainmen, is one of the considerations which weighed in the opinion we have quoted. By excessive speed we do not mean an unsafe rate, but one that is too high for comfort. When the Jarrott and Paimer train west serves the contineet in 1876 in 84 hours it was reported that the passengers alighted 'completely jarged out,' all will agree that comfort. When the Jarrett and Palmer train went across the continent in 1876 in 84 hours it was reported that the passengers alighted 'completely jarged out,' all will agree that many trains, both regular and special, are now run too hast for the confort of passen-gers. A solid train of half a dosen 35 ton alcepers, with double windows, closed, (as in winter,) on a first-class track, run-ning at uniform speed, can be run 60 miles an hour, or faster, without a suspicion of the high speed on the part of most of the passengers, but there are comparatively few roads that can do this, and those which can do not feel as though they could afford a great deal of it. These who attempt to imi-tate this method with light cars, stiff springs, uneven speed, (as required by grades) dusty road, and open windows find the experiment more or less trying to people's merves. A train which from any cause makes a racket that constantly intrudes instif upon passen more of som trying to proper nerve. A train which from any cause makes a racket that constantly intrudes lissif upon passen-gers' ears cannot be called really pleasant to ride upon. Every one recognizes the difference between an open-windowed local train in a dusty season and the computative quiet of a heavy elesper is winter when moow is sev-oral inches above the rait, and even on rock ballasted track the reverterstions from every object passed are often uspleasant. Most people desire quiet as much in a day car as at night. To secure abmence of jar is not an easy task, and certainly cannot be success-tuily done at high speeds without heavy cart, so that increase of decreas of local shall not seriously affect the operation of the springs, and noise cannot be antisfactorily excluded, in summer at least, without such ventilating arrangements as will admit of having most of the windows closed.

Not This Summer

From the San Francisco Chronic's. "Tell me," he whispered with the hoarse-ness of emotion, whispered as if he feared the murmuring surf might catch the question and bear it some other ears. "Tell me, have you ever loved ?" She trembled. She hesitated for a moment and he thought he feit her blushes grow into his eyes. She trembled and in a still soft whisper gentle as the summer breeze an-swered, "not this summer.",

SHALL WE EAT MEAT OR NOT?

Everybody will tell you now in this season of ummer that you ought not to eat no much meat. Try the vegetarian dist," they say. Woll, we ave tried the vege-tarian died until we are stek have tried the vegetarian died until we are alck to it. It is bard to get in America and it is costly. And we believe anyway that man is carniverous to a large degree. Still, vegetables ought to be eaten in their season. The only trouble is one is so apt to get at hotels and restaurant's only such vogetables as have lain in the sun and turned a "cholers green." Of course, there is risk in eating such food. Hetter protect yearse i as well as possible by having always within reach some HARDERTR'S Pills. A dose of three to ten, according to your bulk, will generally act as a preventive against all diseases arising from eating impute food.
