The most important topic among the peo-ple is "How will the town be lighted during the coming vary" the coming year?" The present contract with the Electric light company will expire on the 1st of October, when coupcils will have to decide how the town must be illuminated during the next year. If a vote of the town rould be taken it is very likely that a major ity would be in favor of electric light. The Columbia Gas company is a bidder to light the town, and the question is, which is the set and how can the town be lighted in the best manner? The matter will be de-cided at the adjourned meeting of council. To Picate at Lette.

Mr. Nevill's Foolbardy Attempt Nearly Fatal at Ningara Falls.

On Tuesday evening J. F. Neville and Peter Harkness, of Montreal, made their first appearance at Niagara Falls. About 6 o'clock Wednesday morning they went out to do the Falls, going first through Goat Island to the Horseshoe. Lying close to the brink beyond the old Terrapin bridge are three logs, and beyond these a large rock which beyond the old Terrapin bridge are three logs, and beyond these a large rock which Neville expressed a desire to visit. He started out on the logs, but, finding them a little slippery, returned to the shore and took off his shoes and stockings, saying he would reach the desired spot If he periahed in the attempt. Starting out sgain he did very well until he reached a point on the logs covered with green allime, where he slipped off and fell late the rapids. Instantly he was carried under the logs which he caught hold of, but being under water could hold on but a moment. Letting go he was dashed against the third log head first. Although somewhat attuned, self-preservation asserted itself, and he caught hold of the log and hung on, with his feet projecting over the brink. Fortunately the log breaks the current somewhat and he was enabled to hold on unthe log breaks the current somewhat and he was enabled to hold on until he had fully recovered his senses, when by a great effort he drew himself up along the log until he was about three feet from the brink, where, fortunately, he secured a partial footing. His comrade was powerless to reader him any assistance, was even surprised to see his head above the water, supposing, of course, he had gone over the falls.

Finding Neville could hold on for a time Harkness started for assistance. When running through the woods he met Jos. Brooks, who was coming with Theuricht's team.

who was coming with Theuricht's team, where he is engaged in drawing gravel on the island roads, and to whom he hurriedly stated the aituation of Neville, and asked for help. The return to the Horseshoe Falis was quickly made, and in lieu of rope the harness was stripped from the horses, and the lines, check reins, and other straps buckled together until a line of sufficient length to reach the unfortunate man was made. It was thrown out with a moose on one end, which Neville caught and succeeded in getting over his head and under his arms. The water in which he was standing was about four feet deep and pretty swift, so that it was no easy matter to clamber out, but with the aid of the line he succeeded Then grasping both arms and feet around the log he was drawn to a place of safety after being in the rapids nearly an hour. who was coming with Theuricht's te Killed on the Penchbottom Ballroad. Mr. John F. Witmer, employed on the Peachbottom railroad as baggagemaster, was killed at Muddy Creek Forks Wednesday afternoon. He was turning a brake when the wheel on top came off, precipitating Mr. Witmer down on the track, when he was run over by the car. The body was terribly mangled, the whole top of his head being crushed and taken off and the brains destroyed. His left arm was cut off at the shoulder and the left foot crushed. Mr. Witmer leaves a wife and seven children at Red Lion. He had been employed by the company some four years, until receptly on the tracks, where he worked during the per and taught school in the winter. This is the first employe of the company billed on the Peachbottom railroad.

The Name " Stogle."

From the McKeesport (Pa.) Times. The "stogie" is derived from the old Conestogs wagons, which used to be so numerous on the old national pike. The drivers of these wagons were in the habit of buying cheap, strong cigars, and being heavy smokers kept sking for a cheaper cigar than was then made. Over at Washington, Pa, a eigarmaker, in answer to this demand for cheaper cigars, evolved a long, slender roll of tobacco which he offered to the drivers at the rate of four for a cent. The new cigar became popular among the mail drivers and freighters, and was called the Conestoga cigar abbreviated afterward to "stoga," and later Wants Pay For a Grape Arbor. From the Mt. Joy Star.

Two years ago when Rev. J. T. Shaffer was the pastor of the United Brethren church of this place, he built a grape arbor between the parsonage and the church. The material was furnished by the church fund and the paster volunteered to do the work. This arbor was to be done free of charge, or it at least was understood that way by the congregation and Rev. Shaffer never failed to be reappointed at the last conference. It is well-known that the reverend and his congregation were not on the best terms at the time he left and right after came a bill from him for the building of this grape arbor. The subject is still uncettled and we understand threats are being made to collect the bill by suit if it is not paid voluntarily.

LBI MER GO, BRITZ. That is What Germany's Emperor Inte Hammerman at Krupp's,

From the New York World. From the New York World.

One of the most curious features of the great Krupp works at Kasen, Germany, is the monster steam hammer which bears the name of "Unser Fritz" It is nearly two hundred reet high, and the hanner, which weight 1,000 tons, falls on a block of metal weighing no less than 20,000 tons. It has a steam engine of its own. On one of the cross pieces may be seen the following inscription in large gilt letters, "Fritz, nur immer d'ruil!" (Let her go, Fritz!) It commemorates a visit of the emperor in 1877. Mr. Krupp presented the mechanic in charge of the hammer to the Kaiser, and stated that his skill was so great that he could bring down the enormous mass of metal on the most delicate and fragile object without breaking it. The emperor there upon drew his watch from his pocket and placed it under the hammer. The man hesitated for a moment, whereupon the Kaiser, with a view of encouraging him, exclaimed, "Nur immer d'ruil, Fritz." The experiment succeeded, and the emperor presented the watch in question to the man as a reward for his skill. All access to the Krupp gun works by strangers is strictly forbidden, and even when foreign royalities visit Mr. Krupper domains their adaptement. steam engine of its own. On one of the cross gun works by strangers is strictly forbidden, and even when foreign royalities visit Mr. Krupp's domains their aids-de-camp and gentlemen in attendance are not allowed to accompany them. When completed the smaller guns are experimented with in a wonderful underground tunnel to insure secrecy. Kvery three months the heavy wooden framework supporting the roof and sides of the tunnel have to be renewed, so great is the effect of the concussion of air. The great guns are tried in an immense inclosed space at Dummein which is over seven kilometres long, tThe Krupps employ aforce of 25,000 men and, besides the immense establishment at Essen, own works at Neuwied and Sage in Germany and enormous iron mines at Biblica in Spain. The firm possess, moreover, four otive engines, eighty miles of railway locomotive engines, eighty miles of railway, ninety miles of telegraph, 880 railway cars, 439 steam boilers, 430 steam engines supplying a-total of 19,000 horse power, and which consume daily 3,100 tons of coal and coke. It may be added that no gun ordered by a foreign government leaves the establishment without the express permission of the German government.

ATTEMPTED ABDUCTION.

Prominent Citizens of Easton Charged With the On Tuesday David Pyatt, a leading merchant and for years superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school at Easton, was arrested on the charge of attempting to abduct Miss Violet Douglass, a girl of 15. The complaint was made by her grandfather, John Van Allen, and Pyatt was bailed for a hearran Alten, and Fyatt was bailed for a hearing on Friday. Wedneeday he and Dr.
Howard Fackenthali were brought before Alderman Young jointly charged with a scheme to abduct Maud Everhart, the daughter of Mrs. Emily Steinmetz, who in these cases is the accuser. The allegation was that Pyatt mailed a letter to Miss Everhart on July 18 containing tickets for various that Pyatt mailed a letter to Miss Everhart on July 18, containing tickets for various points, and also a $5 bill. Mand is employed at the silk mill, and some of her companions learned of the proposed trip. Mra. Steinmetz was then informed of her daughter's waywardness by a letter from a triend. The mother found there was good reason for apprehension in the fact that some of the girl's ciothing had been taken from home and hidden in a neighbor's house. The girl was watched, and on the morning of the expected watched, and on the morning of theex pected waster, and on the morning of the expected trip measurers were dispatched to the sev-eral depots. Miss Everhart was met by her brother and driven home. Pyatt, it is claimed, was at the Lehigh Valley depot with gripanck in hand. Mrs. Steinmetz produced the tick-sta letter and money.

in hand. Mra. Steinmetz produced the tick-ets, letter and money. The further evidence at the hearing showed that Pystt and Fackenthall arranged in the latter's office with Maud Steinmetz and Emma Was ford to take them to the Metro-politan hotel, New York, and remain a cou-ple of days. Pystt sent railroad tickets to Maud Everhart and was at the depot to take the appointed train. Fackenthall was there Maud Everhart and was at the depot to take the appointed train. Fackenthall was there also. The girls did not appear, as an anonymous letter to Mrs. Steinmetz had told her what was going on, and she stopped her daughter, not, however, until after the girl and Emma Warford had taken their clothing to Mrs. Rinek's house, preparatory to leaving. The alderman will render his decision on August 17th.

Dr. Fackenthall declares that the charge is blackmail, and that Mrs. Steinmetz had invited him to her house to visit her daughter. Dr. Fackenthall is a single man and epjoys a large practice. He claims that the preaccution was made only to extort money. Pysit is about 50 years of age and has a wife and several single daughters. He is also agrandfather. For the past quarter of a century he has been engaged in the crockery business.
