Owing to the Scarcity of Fruits Prices are Said to Be Advancing.

There is said to be an indication of an up ward movement in nearly all kinds of canned goods, especially those in which there has been a short crop or prospects of one. Packers, it is said, are cautious about receiving orders for future delivery, particularly peaches, c<sub>f</sub> which there is declared to be a great scarcity Comatoes continue firm at a slight advance. the results of the present year's growth being uncertain. Of small fruits there has been a smaller quantity canned than in previous years and this, with an increased demand, has years to stimulated the prices.

years and this with an increased demand, has greatly stimulated the prices.

While ilma beans and corn are reported as ordinary crops, the bareness of the market in iast year's backing has caused an advance in them. It is said that the short supply of many kinds of canned goods in the Eastern market will necessitate the introduction of California goods more generally, especially peaches and apricots. It will be a month or two before the market becomes fairly settled, merchants say. nerchants say.

How the Mistake Was Made.

A Scotch tradesman who had amassed, as he believed, £4,000, was surprised by his old clerk with a balance sheet showing his for-tune to be £6,000. "It canna be," said the rincipal, "count agen." The clerk did count again, and again declared the balance to be £3,000. The master counted himself, and he also brought out a surplus of £6,000. Time after time he counted up the columns—it was still a six and not a four that rewarded his labora. So the old merchant, on the strength of his good fortune, modernized his house and "put money in the purse" of the carpenter, the painter and the upholaterer. Still, however, he had a lurking doubt of the existence of the extra £2,000; so, one winter night, he sat down to give the columns "one count more. At the close of his task he jumped as though he had been galvanized, and rushed through the streets in a shower of rain to the house of the clerk. The clerk's head, capped and drowsy, emerged from an attic window at the sound of the midnight visitor. "Who's there?" he mumbled "and what d'ye want?" "It's me, ye sooundre! "exclaimed his employer: "ye've added up the year of our Lord amang the pounda" orincipal, "count agen." The clerk did count

The Petroleum Industry. From the Financier.

Statistics show that 53,000 petroleum oil walls have been drilled in Pennsylvania and New York since the discovery of petroleum, at a cost of $200,000,000. These wells have produced the war. Will substitute the wells have produced 310 000,000 harrele of oil, which were sold at the wells for $500,000 000. This represented a profit to the producer of $300,000, 000. The amount of oil experied is piaced at 6,281,102,923 gallons. In the pool in Washington county, Pa, alone $3,200,000 has been appeaded in machinery and drilling. This does not include the many millions that are represented there in the natural gas industry. Independent of the oil business there is about $60,000,000 invested in natural gas plants in Pennsylvania. These are majorited of the oil and gas business. From the Financier.

BRULIOR BARK BULIDAY. of Hattonas Piensero-Gen, Cumeron (1)

A Day of National Pieners-Ges., Cameron Observes the Demendrations in London Correspondent to Baltimore San.

I left Edinburgh for London in one of the fast express trains. Flying at the rate of fitty miles as hour past cities, towns, villages, fields and watercourses, I was struck with the gale appearance of everything. No one seemed to be at work, but there was a continuous succession of crowds of men, women and children giving themselves up to enjoyment of one or another character. Rural England has been aptly described as one wast flower garden. So it seemed. The beautiful green fields stretching far and wide, bounded by the tastefully trimmed hedges, as clean as a new pin, the roads all in the most thorough order and every house, however unpretending, with its little well kept lawn in front, its flower beds, its windows filled with potted plants and, more often than otherwise, a miniature squarium. In all the towns as the train dashed by could be seen the same flowering plants in the windows, the squariums, and if there was ever so small a piece of ground in front it was radiant with many colored leaves and buds.

WHAT A BANK HOLIDAY MEANS.

The scene the whole day long was made more attractive by the presence of the gay and happy throngs, who overflowing the paved streets, drifted out into the arena of nature, and under forest shade and by running stream made a panorama which it might readily be fancied was the whole of England converted into one vast picnic. Literally, this might be said with truth, for Monday was one of the four annual bank holidays. On these four holidays the shop-keepers and their families and the entire mass of working people in town and country give themselves up to unrestrained pleasure. Our Fourth of July is as tame as tame can be compared with an English bank holiday. I do not think, after passing the Scottish border on Monday, that our train traversed one mile that groups of people, young and old, were not met, and it would have been simply impossible to count the tennis, the cricket and the archery grounds, which were fairly alive with spectators and players. On every mossy bank by whose sides river or rivulet glided boys and girls with rod and reel were watching. London poured out its countiess thousands of idlers and toilers, who made of every suburban and sesside resort within reaching distance a moving hive of bustle and an imation. At night gorgeous displays of fireworks illuminated the skies, and far into the night by rail and water those who went out from the city were tion. At night gorgeous displays of fireworks illuminated the skies, and far into the night by rail and water those who went out from the city were returning. These "Bank" holidays, so celled because by law the banks close on the days named, are peculiarly the holidays of the working people. The closing of the banks causes the cessation of every other species of business all over the kingdom.
Farm laborers in America as a rule pay but intile account to the Fourth of July, our great national holiday, but a farm laborer or any other laborer in England, except, of course, the printers, would as soon thick of working on Sunday as on a bank holiday.
Employers, however, always dread the approsch of a bank holiday, for with them it means a practical derangement of business for about a week. At least employers claim this,
and any shopkee per, any tailor or cootmaker during the week that follows a bank holiday thinks he has made all the excuse that is necessary to a customer for the non-fuifilment of a contract or a promise when he says,
"On, Monday was a bank holiday and I can get no work out of my people until next week." This is the excuse made a hundred times a day for every day of last week to Americans in London who have given orders to tailors for clothing.

IT's ENGLISH, YOU KNOW. to tailors for clothing.

IT'S ENGLISH, YOU KNOW. The mania which Americans in Europe have for ordering clothes from London tall ors is remarkable. Scarcely one of them gets to London but the very next day he marches around to some fashionable tailor and has himself measured for one, two, three, and himself measured for one, two, three, and sometimes a half dozen suits. Then, when he gets home he tells everyone he sees, with a conscious air of superiority, "I had that suit made by so and so of London." This custom seems the more extraordinary because there can be no possible controversy as to the fact that the well dressed American is the best dressed man in the world, and there are nowhere else such perfect masters of their trade as the fashionable tailors in the United States. The London tailors can, of their trade as the fashionable tailors in the United States. The London tailors can, or course, sell one clothes much cheaper than the same material can be purchased for and made up in the United States, but they never hesitate, when they think the American with whom they are dealing is silly enough to stand it, to ask as much as he would be charged at home. The London tailor takes a great many measures, and if you are as particular as to wish anything like a decent fit, it will be best to try on his clothes several it will be best to try on his clothes several times before you finally accept them. flying trip, tells me that he is having a most enjoyable time. He says that the weight of his 88 years is quite easy to be borne, and does not interfere in the least with his pleasure. He is going around just as actively as the men of half his age, and, as he says, has not refused a single invitation.

An Anti-Poverty Movement.

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat. We do not know what progress Henry George and Dr. McGlynn are making in building up their society for the abolition of building up their society for the abolition of poverty. It is encouraging to be able to state, though, that the people are going right along abolishing poverty in the way proved to be effective by ages of experience. In the latest report of the controller of the currency the number of depositors in the savings banks of the country at the close of the fiscal year 1886 was 3 158 360, and the amount of their deposits $1,141,530,578. This was at the rate of $361.36 for each depositor.
