FIGHTING FOR THE LEAGUE.

STADSTONS MOVES MIS RESOLUTION FOR AN APPEAL TO THE OURSE.

Makes a Powerful Speech and to Hopfied ! by Mr. Balleur, Who Refuses to Show onto to Justify the Government's Proclamation-Debate Adjourned.

Mr. Gladatone was greeted with obsers in the British House of Commons Thursday evening when he arcse to move his resolution "that a humble address be presented to the queen representing that the vicercy of dangerous association ; that no informati has been furnished to Parliament to justify the proclamation by virtue of which her majesty's subjects are to be rendered liable cial inquiry into the nature of their acts, and that this House, in the absonce of such infor-mation, prays that said proclamation shall not continue in force as to the association named described therein."

not continue in force as to the sesociation named and described therein."

Mr. Gladstone said that the Irish vicercy in declaring that the League had incided to vicience must have acted on information, but where was that is formation? The Irish chiefs had a right to demand to know the grounds on which the government had acted. If the facts were withheld, the opposition must forthwith urge three propositions upon the House and the government.

First. That it was a slight, almost an outrage, on the dignity of Parliament to suppose

First. That it was a slight, almost an outrage, on the dignity of Parliament to suppose that it was to discharge such an important statutory duty without knowing the grounds. Secondly. That it reduced to utter destruction and to an absurdity the main contention that the government advanced during the discussion of the orimes act—that the asleguard promised had proved a farce. He asked: What was the value or meaning of a Parliamentary approval given in ignorance of the facts? Why not follow the course taken by Weitington and Peel in 1820 regarding the Catholic League, and surpress it?

Thirdly, What could the House thick of

It?
Thirdly. What could the House think of. information that they must thus know would not bear the light?
Mr. Gladstone said he had always concontended that the government were legislating against combinations spart from crime, and now was the time for the government to show that he and his friends were wrong. But the government shrank from the test and declined the challenge. They had substituted an arbitrary will for regular legal action. This principle was a most dengrous action. This principle was a most dangerous and disgraceful one in any country, and especially in Ireland. Law in Ireland was still on trial. A great misfortune was that those who administer it, especially locally, were not in sympathy with the leelings of the recoils.

The proclamation of the League, Mr. Glad-The proclamation of the League, Mr. Glad-stone declared, was a near approach to a declaration of war on the Iriah people. The people of Ireland generally sympathized with the League, becaused they be leved that it had been their salvation. Nobody did anything for the tenants until the League was founded. The government was pressing Ireland very hard, and it was evident that they intended to work and act by summary jurisdiction.

The government's action absolutely excluded the House from anything except an absurd and perfunctory operation in connection with the great duty devolving upon it under the statute. Their cognizance of this prociamation was reduced to a mere farce. There would be no jury, judge, or resident magistrate, and no Parliament to control Ireland; there would be nothing but the absolute, unmitigated, arbitrary act of the Irish executive, which was necessarily parliam.

He hoped that the Irien would continue to bear the pressure. They would not have to suffer long. It was certain that they would not oney the law through feer, but from a strong, vivid, buoyant hope which even at the last election was not damaged, and which now was brighter and livelier. The Irish Islieved that the government's policy had not the sanction of the British nation. The government's loundation was alipping from under them, and their action in reference to the proclamation of the League retarence to the proclamation of the League showed that their strength was fadin; I:e land seeing this, trusted the English nation to fulfill her reasonable wishes, and was convinced that her expectations would not be disappointed.

Mr. Gladatone then presented his resolution amid prolonged cheers.

Mr. Baifour said that Mr. Gladstone would have been wiser had be rested his argument have been where had he re-ted his argument on the allegation that the House was ignorant of the grounds for the proclamation rather than on a defense of the League. The government's difficulty was not the finding of evidence to justify the proclamation, but the selecting of it from the enormous mass of evidence they possessed. There was sufficient foundation to justify the proclamation in the columns of the local newspapers, without going into the government's confidential reports.

without going into the government's coundential reports.

Mr. Ballour argued that when Mr. Gladstone proclaimed the Land League he did so when Mr. Parnell was imprisoued and when Parliament was not sitting, and that he afforded no intormation to any one concerned. He quoted at length from documents to show that the League was guilty of boycotting, and that the League was guilty of boycotting and traiting intractions of the

Mr. Balfour refused to submit the docu-ments, and proceeding, narrated other in-stances of the League's unlawful action.

Through Half a Dozen States. Charles Donley, an oily-tongued young man from Massachusetts, was lodged in the station house this morning by Constable Ginter, of York. The constable arrived here during the night, and as he could not reach o'clock, when he took his prisoner to York. A representative of the INTELLIGENCER had a talk with Donley at the station house this the constable it was learned that the charge against him is larceny as bailes, and the facts turned up in York as a clerk in a coffee and with Henry Sechrist, who was looking for a business investment. Doniey represented to Sechrist that there were big profits in the business and a contract was finally made between them. Sechrist gave several hundred dollars to Donley, with which he was to open entered into, Donley was to work for Sechrist and remit to him the profits until the amount advanced by Sechrist had been paid, after which Doniey was to have a one-half interest in the business. A few weeks after the store was opened, Donley wrote to Sechrist that more money was needed. Sechrist became suspicious, and began an investigation as to the business carried on by Donley. Before he had gone far he learned that Donley had skipped away from Newark. Constable rugitive through several towns in New Jer-sey and other states, and finally located him in Lawrence, Mass., and had him arrested. Donley made efforts to be released on

From the Phi'adelphia Times.

Dr. Walter F. Atlee, of 210 South Thirteenth street, has in his possession an interesting letter written from Philadelphia to Mrs. Judge Atlee at Lancaster, Pa., reterring to the ratification of the constitution in 1788 Mrs. Judge Atlee was the great-great-grand mother of Dr. Atlee. The letter is deted July 13, 178s, and among other things contains the following:

"Mr. Atlee was there in time to fill his place in the grand proceedion; for grand it was, and the most pleasing that my eyes ever beheld. My cousin took much care of me, that I might have a full view of all. We were fixed directly opposite to Mr. Bingham's, where there was every compliment and attention paid to Mrs Bingham. We had an opportunity in the first place of seeing Mrs. Bingham present the colors to the troops with her own hand. There were many distinguishing compliments paid her, all of Bingham present the colors to the troops with her own hand. There were many distinguishing compliments paid her, all of which she received and returned with the greatest elegance and politeness. I dare say there were fity ladies in the second story of her house all dressed in white, no small addition to the magnifector of that beautiful building. Before I take leave of Mra. Bingham and her house, I must mention particularly Mercury, belonging to the printers, letting fly one of his pigeons with a note fastened to his fock. It missed her and alighted on the next corner of Mr. Powell's house. After the procession had all passed there we went home and ate a bit of cold dinner, as indeed I believe that very few families ate a hot one that day. There was a carriage prepared to take us to Bush Hill. In passing we had another view of the procession. Everything was conducted with the greatest order and solemnity, far beyond my most sanguine ideas. As it was so early in the afternoon and I had expressed a desire of seeing the curious improvements at Gray's Ferry, the remainder of the day was spent there, which consisted of beauties accordingly as far beyond my expectations as what I had seen before."

SUPPOSED TO BE INCERDIARY.

Frankfort, near Hinkletown, was totally de-stroyed by fire on Thursday afternoon be-tween 2 and 3 o'clock. There was no one at bome when the fire broke out Mrs.
Frankfort left home early in the morning for Womelsdort, and her husband was hauling coal to New Holland, except when he went to the house at noon to eat a cold meal. The fire was discovered by some of the neighbors, and they made efforts to extinguish the flames, but the supply of water gave out and nothing could be done to save the building. All the furniture was de-stroyed except some few articles on the lower floor. The fire was first seen in one of the upper rooms, and as there was no fire in the house from early morning the supposidiary. There were about $70 in money in the house, but it is not known whether this was burnt or stolen. The theory of the neighbors is that the house was robbed and insurance $1,500 in the Penn Township Mutual Insurance company.

About 6:30 this a. m., fire and smoke was discovered issuing from the back building of the frame house No. 409 North Queen street, occupied by Philip Gunts, and owned by estate of Christian Zecher, deceased. Mrs. Glints, who was in bed at the time, stated she had no tire yet made, but it caught in the fire place in which was a lot of old rags and a coal oil can. The fire doors were al-most burned off, and other portions of the kitchen and part of the roof. No slarm was sounded, as the neighbors maw the flames and with considerable difficulty extinguished them. The loss is about $20 or $25, but no of Lighting the City !-- Why is the Sower at Ciny and Frederick Streets Parther Domped ?-The Southern Market.

EDS. INTELLIGENCER-The writer of this article is not a stockholder of any gas com-pany or electric light company, but thinks it is a shame and a diagrace to a city of our size to suffer the inconvenience and dangers of having no lights on dark and stormy nights similar to that of Tuesday night last.

If the present company lighting our streets can not furnish us with the proper light at all times (I simply give the expressions of my-self and many others), let the city procure a system of lighting that can be relied on, not and gloomy nights. As you have repeatedly stated in your columns, our pavements are stated in your columns, our pavements are bad. The effects of the same are more forcibly feit when pedestrians step into pools of water which are not perceptible on account of the

which are not perceptible on account of the extreme darkness, the condition in which our city is too often in.

The present company lighting the streets egreed, or at least the idea was advanced, that if they procured the lease for lighting the city this year, they would suspend their lights across the streets at such points as designated by the propers cultorities; and contracted by the propers cultorities; and contracted the city of the contracted on the propers cultorities; and contracted the city of the contracted of the contracted on the contracted on the contracted of the con ignated by the proper authorities; and on the strength of this, or expectation of having this promise fulfilled, a number of votes wer secured, which they will probably not obtain

This promise they have not as yet attempted to fulfill and if not soon done, it will be unnecessary, as the leaves on the trees, which now obstruct the light, will have fallen. some smaller towns are governed by, but every night, all night and plenty of it;

whether it be gas, electric light or oil, and not have a repetition of what we had on the nights when light was mostly needed. It is a disgrace to a city of 30,000 inhabitants. Northern End Sewer.

EDS. INTELLIGENCER.-This subject may seem probably a "chesnut," but those four citizens who reside in the neighborhood of Clay and Frederick streets feel that they lare a much neglected and forgotten set of people. Patiently have they reed in our daily papers and listened to the members of councils of the 6th and 9th wards giving reasons why this sewer is not built until their patience is about exhausted, and believe it is time their representative should be called to

They certainly have good reasons for so doing, for the condition of the cellars, yards and houses in this vicinity are simply disgraceful to our city, and forbearance has sened to be a virtue.

The small sower in Cherry alley was filled to overflowing on Tuesday night, causing the streets to become in the same condition, the water filling the cellars and yards of the the water filling the cellars and yards of the houses and causing much trouble and annoy-ance, it having no outlet. But, why this delay in building this much talked and much needed sewer? The city has decided to remove the pumping station, the site has been selected above the drainage of the city and why do not the committee on drainage and sewers have plans and specifications made and award the con-tract to have this sewer built before the inement weather comes? This could be done. Build the main sewer, but allow no connec ing station is ready and in use. This would afford relief to the great volume of water which gathers at that point.

On account of this sewer not being built or cannot be sold. But we do not wonder, for every heavy rain these people are overflowed with refuse and water from a large portion tion of the 6th and 9th wards.

The Southern Market.

EDS, INTELLIGENCER—I see in your report of the storin of Monday night a statement as to the flooding of certain poperties on South Queen street near Vine. Is this on the site proposed for the new Southern market house, and is it usual for heavy rains to flood it so? If so, and the building must be erected in that square, why not select ground not subject to such floodings, or is this the only site that can be purchased in that neighborhood? I think property-holders would be glad to sell instead of desiring to hold on to property like that and there should be no trouble to buy all that is needed at very moderate figures.

THE CASTLE GARDEN CHARGES.

Superintendent Jackson Explaining the Work-ings of the Emigrant Station. NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Superintendent Jackson, of Castle Garden, was the first witness called to-day by Mr. Okey. In reply to a number of questions as to the prices charged for food he submitted a regular schedule of prices, according to which no extortion of any great extent is carried on. $2,500 a year was paid for the privilege of keeping the stand, including gas, etc. The money exchange in the garden is compelled, according to contract, to give each emigrant a memorandum of each transaction had with them. The only charges he knew on beggage was ten only charges he knew on beggage was ten cents per package when left with the baggagemaster for safe keeping.

Mr. Jackson never heard of any complaint against the money exchange. The boarding house keepers pay $25 a year for the privilege of entering the garden. But few complaints are made against them. During the war between the roads the Pennsylvania road carried passengers to Chicago for one dollar. The pool rate now is $13. This agency pays $4,000 a year. Emigrants can select any of the roads in the pool to travel over. He or the roads in the pool to travel over. He admitted that the evil of feeing persons in the beggage department did exist. Everything has been done to uproot it, but so far it has not proved a success. So far as Ward's Island is concerned the management of the hospital there under Dr. Thomas is all that can be desired.

The last case for the lower court was attached this morning. It was that of Tobias H. Greider vs. Samuel Bruckhart. This was a suit to recover on a promissory note for $250 given by defendant to plaintiff. It was signed by him and endorsed C. W. Bruckhart, Barbara Bruckhart and John Bibbee and payable at the Columbia National bank. Be-fore a jury was selected the defense made a on to substitute the name of C. W. Bruckhart se the defendant instead of Samue Bruckhart, but the motion was overruled. After plaintiffs offered the note in evidence

The defense was that the note was given for tobacco purchased and that Greider rep resented that the tobacco was free from white vein. When it was taken from the cases it was found to be unfit for the use of defendant in manufacturing cigars, and for that reason he refused to pay the note, claiming that he suffered more loss through the misrepres tation than the amount of the note.
