The Pennsylvania railroad prints the port of its business for the past year, high is the largest it has ever done. the presperous condition of the road is a er ago seemed to be filled with business . The railroad earnings for oming year will not be as great as hey were for the past year, unless a hange in existing conditions takes place, there has been a pronounced decline business enterprise since the openg of the new year. The cause is sely to be found in the conduct of railroads themselves, because, sed by a year of prosperity, undertook to increase their charges. and some of them sought to lower their and to cheapen their materials. the Pennsylvania was pervaded with the den that it was not making enough money, notwithstanding it had made noved up freight rates and declined longer to sell thousand mile pa senger ts and insisted on dictating to the steel rail makers the price at which they ald sell rails. The check came when the steel rail combination shut down their mills and business fell off, and it me evident that to keep the country ating along smoothly no stones must be thrown in the stream.

The Pennsylvania has the credit of being the first to realize the situation. It podated itself to the steel rail akers' views and bought rails. It bee amiable to freighters and put down es. It began again to sell ticket books at 2 cents per mile. It has given out over usand freight cars to be made, nd is doing what it may to revive the tone ; it has turned its back on he temptation to reduce wages, and has reased them on the western sysem. It is to be said for the Pennsylvanie management that it is the most liberal and enlightened railroad management we now have; which may not be saying that it is all that it should be, but it is saying a good deal for it in the sh temper of railroad magnates gen-

The Pennsylvania used to be the worst of the lot, and its managers only ught of filling their pockets and corrupting legislation that they might btain better facilities for so doing. That class or men and temper have ely disappeared from the control of this company, and as a consequence its ent unpopularity has passed away.

The state can afford to be proud of it now that it is manifestly growing in ce. Its president has expressed himolf as in favor of the inter-state law, and so may well be, as it has been a great to his road, and would be a greater ne if the commissioners had power to enforce their decisions under the law. Mr. Roberts in his present report, sugrests that the law needs amendment to ure its strict enforcement as well as to ct the carrying business from the Canadian railroad robbery. This would be a matter for treaty negotiation, now that we are busy treating with Great Britain over matters of much less consences to us.

The inter-state commission law evi isntly needs amendment, when a great ad, whose interests lead it to desire to obey the law, finds that its infraction y competitors forces it into like antag-

A Case for Henry George. Henry George and his friends should be rganized into a commission to report on the so-called "five civilized tribes of the Indian territory" and find out what is the matter with their land system. These ans have given up hunting and thing long ago, and have an educational system so complete that any bright and ambitious young man may have himself ent to Yale or Harvard at the expense the tribe. They have a wise and simple leof laws, able judges and bar, and ective business life in their chief towns, get the great bulk of the people are indoent and unprogressive, and a few men to be acquiring great wealth while the large majority are content to get along without any effort to develop the ral resources of their country. Yet their land is held according to the George ory. It belongs to the tribe and the rovements only are the property of the individual, subject to the provision that he must not cultivate within a quarer of a mile of his neighbor's fields. As they have very much more land than they can use, this provision for elbow room works no hardship, and they have further stected themselves by leaving unoccused a five mile strip around their reservns. Here the land is as George would ave it, free as the air, and yet the conation of wealth goes on. The tax m is cleared away in this case by be interest in Indian funds held in st for them by the United States, and is quite enough for all public HARRISBURG is in the midst of a lively defaloation sensation. Ex Clerk and ex-Treasurer Erastus J. Jones was recently manded of Mr. Jones, at the expiration of succeeded by Treasurer Grove, who demanded of Mr. Jones, at the expiration of the latter's term, the $59,858.44 which he owed the county, the latter producing $23,-000. Bubsequently, when it was learned that $30,000 of the amount was taken while Jones was clerk under Treasurer Longenecker, a demand was made on the latter, and Longenecker handed over all he had, $20,000, to Colonel W. W. Jennings and Colonel James Young. These two bondsmen went down in their pockets and added $10,000, and with the $30,000 paid off Longenecker's indebtedness. Jones then came forward with $3,800 cash, and handed it out and this left $3,000 to be paid by his surety, the Commonweelth Trust company. But the Commonwealth Trust company. But a further discovery was made that Jones owed the state $4,000 for collected and un-paid taxes, and now the investigators stumbled upon the unwelcome fact that the county auditors had given Jones a double credit of $7,000, which runs the Trust company's liability up to $14,000, and the entire denott up to $47,000. This is doing quite well for our near neighbor.

THE New York Sun publishes a strange but probably true version of the trouble between the German doctors and Dr. Mackenzie over the crown prince's malady It seems that there is a law which provide hat no prince suffering from an incurable disease can succeed to the imperial throne Queen Victoria's daughter, the crown prin-cess, is said to be very ambitious to have the title and rights of an empress of Germany ; and if the disease with which her husband is afflicted is really incurable be can never reign, even though his life should be prolonged after the old emperor's death. It is said that when Dr. Bergman informed her that the crown prince had an incurable cancer in his throat the princess straight-way boxed his care and sent to England for Mackenzie, who, according to instructions, found the disease incurable and carefully extracted from the patient's throat particles which Professor Virchow could conscien liously pronounce not cancerous. The tale s further embellished with an account of the quarrel between the princess and Bis-marck, who favored the German doctors. It is even said that the young Prince William, who is a great admirer of the iron chancellor, sided with him against his mother. The details of this story are doubtces Imaginary, but the main facts have the ring of truth, for they explain the united attitude of the German doctors against Mackenzle and the unpopularity of that surgeon with people. Unser Fritz is very popular, and one would have supposed that doctor who persisted that he was curable would also be popular, but if the transparent purpose of that declaration was the seating of an English princess on the German throne with a dying husband as emperor, i is not surprising that the people were in-dignant. With the prospect of war staring them constantly in the face they can not afford to have a hopeless invalid at the head of affairs.

GREEN-BURG in this state has great Democratic promise in it, as it is said that forts are made by the young Democratic ladies there for the organization of a Frances Cleveland club, for the purpose of taking an active part in the coming presidential election. The club will be composed of some of the leading ladies of the place, and will be uniformed tastily, each wearing a white silk bedge with a picture of Mrs. Cieveland on it. They will be furnished with torches made especially for the ceca-sion, and will turn out at every political ssion, and are to be drilled in the manual of arms and marching maneuvers by skilled drill-masters. When the girls of the country are Democrats, the destinies of that party are in safe keeping.

WHAT disposition to make of the surplus lands of the Indian territory is now a very serious question. west of the territory there is a large tract unassigned to any tribe, because it has been found that the country and climate are not suited to the northern Indians, who were to have been moved there. Much blood and money was spent to prove this, and among the northern Indiana the terri tory is called to day "the land of fire," and spoken of with fear and loathing because whole tribes were there exterminated by lever or other sickness, due to the change from a very cold climate. The land reserved for the several tribes is also largely in excess of their soveral needs; and, as the new law giving them lands in severally to applicable to all but those known as the five civilized tribes, there will soon be a much greater tract restored to the public The danger now is that land sharks and speculators will take advantage of this movement to open a part of the forweaker tribes left without protection, so that they may share the fate that overtook the California Mission Indians and find no Helen Hunt Jackson to fight their battles for them. The wealthy civilized tribes have little to fear, as they are quite compe tent to take care of themselves and by education and money will probably keep themselves on top, whatever charges may take place around them.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with sero months old till she became 6 years of agillumps formed in her peck, causing great at novance, and two of them, after growing the size of a pigeon's egg, broke and discharged. One became a running sore for overthree years. We decided to give Bood's Sarsaparilla

We then waited three months, when, as a new lump was beginning to form, we again give her Hood's Barasparille. REIST! ACCUSED OF UNDERSELLING.

"Brother" groor unjustly accuses us of "taking away his trade" by underselling. He is evidently mistaken. It is not our desire to "take away trade" from any one. He for-gets that we are living in a fast age—that the man who cannot hold up and maufully comgets that we are living in a last age—that the man who cannot hold up and manfully combat with the world, has to give place to the one who can do so. We are governed in the sale and purchase of our goods by the demands of a wide-awake people. Constant and persistent advertising on our part has taught them where to buy. We make in beying what many others have in seiling, and consequently give our patrons the beneatof the purchase gain. We believe that the lower the price of anything, the greator the consumption. The leasen of experience has taught us this. We cannot, therefore, be hold responsible for the lease of trade to other houses, simply becames we offer inducements, so strong, that it will be a great saving at the endof the year to buy of us.
Parties from other towns can save enough on a single purchase to pay all expense incurred in coming to town, We have decided upon one course all the way through. To buy in large quantities and sells a low as we dare sell—our prices may be lower than our competiour prices may be lower than our compett-tors, but this we cannot help. The bame is not with us. If we are accused of doing all the not with us. If we are accused of doing all the business, there must be some reason for it. If you will only take a look at our store on a Saturday, you will say with us—you never saw the like. When we tell you 20 to 24 bu-y, polite, and attentive clerks are employed you will have your donbts—this is not exaggeration—we want you to come and see. We want you to count them. We can use half a dozen more. The sequel to the whole matter is—Largest, Nestest and Cheapest Store in the city. Politeland Gentlemanly Young Clerks; no boys. Look for Bargains SATUEDAY.
