AN ADVOCATE OF PREE TRADE,

therance the Question of Protection of Indus-tites or Protective Tariffs. EDITORS INTRULIGENCER—The varied imates and soirs no less than moral corderations establish the unity of mankind How prosperous and happy would the world be if each people or nation would devote its energies to the productions for which they are naturally adapted by soil and climate, and then to make an equitable exchange of commodities through the car rying trade. Each people would then have the advan-tages of the soil and climate of all countries, and the wealth of nations would be increased to the greatest degree possible Under such conditions, which are not im selble and to which the march of civili ation will tend, the idea of protection and rotective tariffs would be renounced a hurtful to the common good, as selfish and immoral. In our country where the soil and climate do not facilitate growth and production in some instances the tariff is nvoked to remedy the difficulty in nature A commodity produced in a neighboring country, cheaply, though profitably, is taxed to cross the border, by the collection of duties which advances the price as a matter of course—for the purpose of foster-ing a like industry at home to which the natural conditions are adverse; an industry that cannot be engaged in profitably is to be made profitable by law, to be kept up by the whole people, by the payment of the abnormal or advanced price for the commodity, created by the tective tariff. Lot us illustrate: Say in ennavivania a man can produce a bushe wheat as the result of a day's labor, and that a bushel of wheat will exchange for ten pounds of coffee. In Cuba, say, a day's labor will yield ten pounds of coffee.

It is apparent that if the Pennsylvanian will engage in the raising of wheat and the Cuban in the production of coffee the ple will have the advantages of the soil and climate of both countries, saving the pittance for transportation. By all con-siderations of economy, Pennsylvanians should direct their energies to growing wheat, and the Cubans to raising coffee The best interests of each people is thus subserved. There is no place or need for a tariff for protection. We will suppose Pennsylvania had some facilities for raising coffee, and a man could produce five pounds by a day's labor, while in Cuba a man could produce ten pounds by a day's labor; now, would it be wise in the people of Pennsylvania to engage in the business of coffee raising and to impose such a tariff on coffee imported from Cubs as would protect the home industry of raising coffee. Would the imposition of such a tariff cure the evil lying in the soil and cli mate of Pennsylvania? Would it be politic?

Suppose again that one thousand men in ennsylvania established a new industrythe raising of coffee. They invest a mil-lion dollars in the business, and employ ten thousand hands. The men soon sequire a little experience, in effect that they canot compete with Cubs. Climate and soil re against them. Something must be done or the new industry cease. Protection here presents itself and is accepted as the remdy. Let us see how it works : A millio ie, say, in Pennsylvania drink coffee, and they have a natural right to and desire the soil and climate of Cuba. But a thousand men have undertaken to raise coffee at home; and either their business must fall or be protected to such an extent as to enable them to compete with Cubs. If coffee is raised from ten to twenty cents a sound the Pennsylvania raisers can enter the market. This increase is readily accomplished by the tariff.

On all coffee now imported to be used by the million people in Pennsylvania ten cents must be paid on each pound to pro-tect the home industry. The merchant must now pay twenty cents a pound instead of ten cents for his coffee, and must have a profit on the additional ten cents imposed

When he could buy at ten cents a pound, he could sell at twelve and a-half; but at the increased cost he is obliged to charge his customers twenty-five cents per pound. In tracing this policy of protection to its results, omitting further details, it is found that a thousand men, with a capital of one million dollars, employing ten thousand hands, cause a million people annually to pay one million two hundred and fifty housand dollars to protect their home in-

There is no tariff on coffee, nor coffee industry in Pennsylvania to protect, but it hows plainly the very principle which inderlies the whole system of protection. GEORGE KOHLER.

THE REBEKKAH DEGREE.

It Is Conferred Upon Ninety-Four Members of A special meeting of Monterey lodge No. 242 L. O. O. F., was held last evening, for the purpose of conferring the Rebekkah ree upon a large number of applicants. This is the first time that this degree has been conferred by this lodge in three years and it was certainly a big event, attracting great attention and a large attendance. The degree was conferred upon thirty-nine lades and fifty-five gentlemen. Although most of these were members of Monterey lodge several from other lodges received the degree. The work was directed by D. D. G. E. J. Erisman. The remaining chairs were filled by Vice Grand John C. Donocker and Past Grand George A. Shelly. Past Grand Joseph M. Kreider officiated as conductor. After the work at the lodge room had been completed the newly initiated members, as well as the other members of the lodge, repaired to Eshleman's hall, where a banquet had been prepared. Four large tables had been set and covers aid for 250 people. This number sat down, making a very large party. The supper was prepared in excellent style by Mrs. George Musser, who was assisted by a large ommittee composed of ladies and gentiemen, members of Monterey lodge.

While the banquet was in progress, exsellent music was furnished by Prof. Hass, planist, and Prof. Kilheffer, cornetist. At the conclusion George H. Hambright sang a number of selections in his usual pleasing way. There were short speeches, and ong others was one of Past Grand D. B. Bowman, formerly of Lancaster, now residing in Philadelphia. The whole affair was one of the most successful of its kind ever given in this city, and it reflected great credit upon the progressive lodge.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE TRAGIC END OF BRAKEMAN POTTOROFF.

The Coroner's Inquiry as to the Accident The Unfortunate the Only Support of His Widowed Mother-How the Storm Affects the Traffic by Rail.

Regular Correspondence of Intelligencer.

COLUMBIA, March 13.—Jesse H. Pottor off, the brakeman who met instant death at the tunnel on Monday, had just coupled his engine to the train and then started back to the cabin, walking on the north main track. He was struck by engine No. 647 drawing the Marietta accommodation. He was very badly mangled, his left foot cut off, right arm and hand crushed, his head injured and he presented a terrible appearance. The unfortunate man was rolled and the engine and truck passed over him. He was found under the front truck of the passenger car. The body was taken to the railroad hospital and Deputy Coroner Her shey notified, who empanuelled the follow ing Jury: George M. Allison, W. U. Barr, E. S. Musser, Henry Sholl, John Howard, George Bartch. The testimony of the freight crew was received and the ury adjourned until this morning when bey examined J. P. Oltey, engineer, and Seorge T. Lewis, fireman of the passenger train. The fireman was the first to see Pottoroff when the engine was within fifeen feet of him and the accident could not be avoided. The jury rendered the verdict that " Jesse H. Pottoroff came to his death on the Pennsylvania railroad while in the performance of his duty, by being struck by the tank of engine No. 647, at the tunnel on line of said road, while drawing Marietta Accommodation to Mariette."

Pottoroff is a single and the only support of a widowed mother. He was employed on tals division but a very short time. The remains were sent to his home in Harris burg last night. Rattroads Crippled.

The heavy storm and very high wind have caused great trouble on the railroad. The town has been almost completely shut if both east and west. The railroads are entirely blocked and no n all or news papers have been received since Sunday, except ing from Lancaster. The 7:30 a. m. train east left town all right, but the other trains have been annulled. The station was full of passengers for east and west this mornng, but were unable to leave town.

The trains on the Reading road managed o run yesterday, but were several hours late. To-day the traffic has about stopped. On the Pennsylvania railroad the trouble s worse than any in the history of the company. Between here and Marrietta the north main track is blocked with trains, but the south track is still open. Every employe available was sent down the road to shovel snow. Only four farmers were at market this norning, and they live on the main roads, the by-roads being blocked. The Frederick division pay car was in town to-day, paying the employes for Feb

EENT UP FOR SIX MONTHS.

The Mayor Exercises for the First Time the Extreme Penalty on "Baltimore Joe The mayor had four cases to dispose of at the station house this morning. The only inmate known to the citizens of Lancaste was Jos Haley, known in this city as"Baltimore Joe. He was released from prison on Sunday, after serving a 90 days term drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Monday. With which money he collected he proceeded to get drunk, and by evening was well filled with whisky. At the corner of Chestnut and Sh'ppen streets he was found by two gentlemen and he complained of great pain. He was taken into a house in the neighborhood and given a dose of Perry Davis' pain killer and warm water. When Joe drank of it he thought it was whisky and when he discovered it was not, he became very noisy and was taken to the station house This morning Joe was penitent as usual and saked his honor, in view of the fact that he was retiring from office, to be lenient. The mayor told Joe that he made no effort to reform after his terms of imprisonment and he would send him to the workhouse for ninety days. This sentence greatly angered Joe and he became very impertinent. The mayor reconsidered the sentence and made it eix months, the greatest penalty he could impose.

Joe first appeared in the city about six years ago and since then he has been an almost constant inmate of the county jail or workhouse. He was a powerful man when he first came to Lancaster and it frequent ly required the services of half a dozen due coats to get him to the station house, His constitution has been greatly broken by dissipation, and for the past few years he has not resisted officers when he was

He comes of a good family and when he ived in Baltimore held a good position which he lost through drink. He wen from bad to worse until his family discarded him and he became a tramp. He has given up any idea of mending his ways and expects to die in one of the county in-

The authorities at the workhouse do not care to have him for an inmate, as he gives them too much trouble. He is given opporunities to skip out, and generally avails aimself of them. The last time he was sent to that institution Joe was given an opporunity to get outside the enclosure to whitewash the fences on the county farm. Joe was furnished brushes and lime and he started in to work under the eye of one of the watchmen. The watchman soon got tired of watching Joe, and when he cased his supervision Joe skipped out, sold the whitewash brushes, got drunk on the proceeds and turned up a day or two afterwards at the station house. This is the first time he has been sent to the workhouse since he left it so unceremoniously, the committing magistrates having since then sent him to the county jail.

ANOTHER REVENUE MEASURE The Handail Tariff hill Introduced to the House on Monday.

The Randall tariff bill proposes the repear of all internal revenue laws affecting tobacco, and of all such laws as impose a tax on spirits distilled from apples, peaches and other fruits. All laws impeaches and other fruits. All laws imposing a special tax on manufacturers of stills and wholesale and retail dealers in spirituous and mait liquors are also proposed to be repeated. Manufacturers are permitted to withdraw from bond sleohol for these purposes in quantities of 300 gallons without payment of the internal tax. Weiss beer is to be wholly exempt from tax. The present tax of 90 cents per gallon on distilled spirits is to be reduced to 50 cents. All the above-mentioned changes of the law, as well as those that follow, are to take effect July 1, 1883. The reduction made amounts to about $70.000. reduction made amounts to about $70 000, 000 on internal revenue and $25,000,000 on He proposes an increase of the duty on tin plate from one to two and one-tenth tin plate from one to the cents per pound.

He also proposes a duty of $14 per ton on steel rails instead of $17 per ton as now charged, and $11 per ton as proposed in the committees' bill. The iron and steel duties are kept nearly at the present figures

Instead of placing timber, squared or sided, which now pays a duty of $2 per thousand feet, cubic measure, on the free list, he reduces the present rate but five per cent. On sawed boards there is no reduction. He refuses any reduction on augar, leaving the rate as at present. He maintains the duty on wool and provisions about at present rates, and sait is not placed on the free list.

His bill does not largely increase the list, though he places many chemicals upon it. The bill was introduced in the House on Monday.

Hence now is the time to take Hood's Barsaparilia, a medicine peculiarly adapted for the purpose, possessing peculiar curative powers. It expels every impurity from the blood, and also gives it vitality and richness. It creates an appetite, tones the digestion, invigorates the liver, and gives new life and energy to every function of the boly. The testimony of thousands, as to the benefit derived from Hood s Sarsaparilla, should convince every body that it is peculiarly the best vince everybody that it is peculiarly the best blood purifier and spring medicine.
