About Dividing Profits. President Roberts has been moved to argue to his stockholders of the Pennsylpla railroad that they are being treated uch more liberally in the way of a division among them of the profits than the owners of the other great railroads of the country are ; which may be true and ret not be proper treatment. Mr. Roberts better when he explains that the surplus of a railroad is not cash but simply the excess of its valuation over its indebtedness. He tells us that one Northwestern railroad has wiped out its surplus altogether by charging it up against its valuation ; which is a mighty nsible way of disposing of a surplus that is incapable of apprehension and division. It has already been expended by the road and has gone into its cost : the stockholders will never see it, unless in the shape of stock; and if they should get that Mr. Roberts says they would be simply paying out of one pocket into nother; which may all be very true in ory, but in practice the stockholders would be likely to benefit by a tangible pprehension of their surplus in the shape of stock, which they could sell ; ors to give pretty much the same price for stock after it is doubled ss before. Watering stock has been a very profitable business since the day that Commodore Vanderbilt did it in a wholesale way so successfully.

President Roberts evidently thinks that his company has enough capital to carry and pay dividends on; and he is no doubt right. His stockholders ought to be satisfied with the dividends they get and be content with a policy that will insure them in the future. Mr. Roberts has good ground for saying that railroads in this country cannot be managed as they may be in England. They need more play. The country is bigger and the varying exigencies are greater. None of our roads consider themselves completed and must be constantly adding to their structure, or think so. The great majority have been capitalized with a view to their future value and they have to grow up to that value before they can think of further capitalization.

There is no railroad among us that thinks its stockholders entitled to all its profits; although there are many who will, on occasions, divide more than they earn. The English idea, that the stockholder is the owner of the railroad, has never taken root here, where the ownership practically resides in the managers. who are wont to manipulate the company for an individual profit in the stock market. The Pennsylvania is not a road of this kind, and pays more than usual respect to the rights of its stockholders which shows how inconsiderable these rights are. When Mr. Roberts admits that he uses surplus profits for the bet terment of the road, he shows the despotic control of our railroad managers over their revenues, which belong to them to do with as they please, the stockholder taking a back seat, accepting thankfully what they may get. When our country is finished and done growing so fast, we will be able to do things more nearly "according to Gunter" and the insular ideas of English stockholders.

Doubting and Hangirg.

We are constantly puzzled to know why there is so much trouble encountered in saving a man from the gallows about whose guilt a doubt is raised.

The law says that no man shall be hanged about whose guilt there is a doubt. The judges say that must be a reasonable doubt ; which seems reasonable; but it also seems reasonable that when a good portion of the community loubt a man's guilt, and so say to the board of pardons and the governor, a commutation of the extreme penalty at least should be secured.

Here is this negro Johnson, who is said t) have killed Farmer Sharpless, about whose case there has been the most absurd backing and filling by the board of pardons and the governor. Additional testimony has been taken by the ream, and every time the man is re mitted to the gallows. All the testimony does not serve to convince the governor and the pardon board that there is any doubt of the man's guilt.

If that is so they ought to hang him but now the governor again reprieves him to await some other evidence. We say that it is scandalous. The frequent reprieves alone show that there is some doubt of the man's guilt; and if that exists the law does not convict him.

But a great many discovery. people think he is not guilty; and a great Dr. Emmens has also invented a projec tile called the bird torpedo which goes many more doubt it. The doctor calmly announces

As a Distributing Point.

A rumor was afloat in Lancaster not long since that the Pennsylvania railroad contemplated the purchase of a farm on the northern outskirts of the city with the purpose to erect thereon branch shops for the construction and rehabili-tation of locomotives, cars, etc.

The recent heavy storm demonstrated that the suggestion in this rumor was wise. Between Harrisburg and Phila-delphia, where the Pennsylvania railroad peases through a rich and densely popu-lated region, and where train detention is likely to be most damaging, there are practically no proportionate facilities to tsudden disaster. It is true that there is a round house at Columbia, but this is necessarily only a make-shift when a calamity like that of the last few days falls upon a railroad to paralyze its trade. Had Lancaster been a base of supply for notives and men, how much more nickly the danger would have been met crease rather than diminish in the coming ears. As forests are denuded, the brakes on the storms are one by one destroyed and the winds freighted with rain and snow sweep over the unbroken plains gathering fury as they go. And when the whole line of the Pennsylvania railroad between Harrisburg and Philadelphia abounds in a continuous population, such a blizzard as that of the past few days will be ten-fold more disastrous. It will be the part of wisdom for the railroad authorities to carefully consider whether Lancaster would not be a most excellent distributing point for a portion of the resources of this gigantic corpora-

DR S. H. EMMENS, of New York, has gone out to Iron Mountain, Missouri, to give an exhibition of the powers of an ex certain localities. The mixing process forms one of the principal features of the invention. The most singular feature of the new explosive is its capability of being fused. It can be melted and cast in any form, and can be ground to powder with-

EDW. C. FERMAP,
AUGINEES for E. W. Coleman's Help

We believe Hood's Sarasparilla is the very best medicine to take to keep the blood pure and to expel the germs of scrofula, sait rheum, and other poisons which cause so much suffering, and sooser or tater undermine the general health. By its peculiar curative power, Hood's barsaparilla atrengthens the system while it cradiates disease.

"Early last spring I was very much run down, had nervous headache, felt miserable parilla should do so this spring. It is a thorliver invigorated.

Those who have never tried Hood's Sarsaparilla should do so this spring. It is a thoroughly honest and reliable preparation, purely vegetable, and contains no injurious ingredient whatever. Thousands testify to its peculiar curative power.

Purifies the Blood

"I had erystpelas in the worst form, being nearly covered with blisters. My husband heard of Hood's Earsaparilia and insisted on my taking it, though I had little faith. I had taken but a few doees, when I began to feel better, and in a week I was sure it was doing me good. I continued to take it according to directions and when the first bottle was gone I was entirely well. I have not been troubled by crystpelas since." Mrs. L. Bacon, Brim-field, Mass.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsapa-rilla do not be induced to buy any other.
