debt Trale Backs Upon Them While mey are Removing Asies From the mens at Mill Creek-The Boy's Left Leg Amputated by Physicians.

One of the saddest accidents that the have been called upon to chron o in a long time, occurred on Saturday a at Mill Creek, a water station on minylvania raliroad, about four east of this city. By it a father was injured and his son made a cripple It is by no means certain yet, howthat the latter will not die.

The name of the dead man was James lateray, who for six or eight years has a charge of the sah pits at Mill Creek. Some of the freight engines take water at his place and when they stop the ashes maked out. The pits, which are of cona depth, are between the rails of the ka. Into these the ashes fall, as are raked from the engine, and it part of Maloney's duty to shovel them thus keeping the pti from fill-up. It was between 3 and 4 look Saturday afternoon when this acvid, a youth of 16 years, had just finished ng the pit on the south track. The hee had been thrown out and upon the ok and they were engaged shoveling lown the enbankment when a freight drawn by engine No. 1,185, passed ast. It is supposed that the engineer had mended to take water but ran past, before could stop, for in a short the train backed. Maloney and son were busily engaged at ek on the track, and, as another train ing west at the time, they did not the eastern bound train backing. Beere they could save themselves the train was upon them and the caboose ran over h. This was the only car that touched , and they were picked up and carried o their home near by. Word was quickly at out for medical aid. Dr. George Welchans, the company's physi-in this city, was summoned and, as there was no passenger train going he shifter, which is stationed here. Drs. an, of Leaman Place, Miller, of Birdn-Hand, and Musser, of Witmer, were on hand, and Dr. Compton went down m this city at 6:45. Upon making an ation, the physicians found that the r's left leg had been crushed to a jelly from just below the knee down. The car wheels had passed over the right sakle and foot, crushing all the bones and erribly mangling the limb. The left leg tnes down. After a consultation the docore concluded that in the case of the father would do nothing in the way of ampu until reaction set in. In the boy's se it was different as, reaction had already set in. His leg was therefore amputated ove the knee. Sunday morning the mputated both legs of the father bethe knee and ankle. It was feared at the shock would be too great for the her, and it so proved. He began to sink aring the afternoon and about 4 o'clock this last. The son is by no means out of danger yet, but is doing as well as could led. His injuries were not as great as those of his father and he may yet James Maloney was as well known it eater as in the neighborhood where he lved, as at one time be resided here. He 58 years of age and born in Ireland, tome to this country about 40 years. He worked upon the railroad when state had yet control of it, and served different capacities for the past 35 years. ad with him, he leaves two sons, who May oyed by the railroad company, one at Altoons and the other in Pittsburg. They were at once telegraphed for, and arrived home on Sunday. Several years another son was run over and killed by the care in the yard of the Fort Wayne railroad in Allegheny.

A YOUNG MAN'S TRAGIC DEATH. Henry Gantz, of Mt. Joy, Struck by a Tinin

d sceident, which was the result of the foolbardy attempt of a young man to after 12 o'clock Saturday night. During the evening a party of young men were ther and several were drinking quite ely. Among the party was Henry Gantz, ged 28 years. Shortly after midnight they nding at the Barbara street crossing coar the exchange hotel, when they heard be whistle of an engine, which was coming m the east on the Pennsylvania railroad It was the first section of the Western Express which left this city at 11:40 and was due at Mt. Joy at 12:08.

Gents ran out upon the railroad track, and, with hands uplifted and fists clenched e of knocking the engine off the track-When the train neared him his friends who apposed he was cutting one of his capers, off the track, but it was too late, as the ense struck him on the left side and threw on an ash pile to the north of the track. is friends did not see the locomotive hit im, so they concluded that he had jumped m the track before the engine reached They afterwards found him lying on the sah pile and still supposed he was aming until they saw that his ting was torn. They then knew at he was hurt. Dr. Zeigler was ok Sunday morning when he esthed his last. It is supposed that the brilliant head-light so affected him t be did not know how close the engine him when he started to jump. dy was not cut, but he was terribly sjured internally ; on the left side was
