That Smelling Committee.

The Senate committee investigating the federal departments of Philadelphia have had their work for their pains. They showed nothing that indicated any laxity of management of the Philadelphia postoffice, and were required to listen to the wails of discharged Republicans, whose accusations could not be substantiated. When the committee got to the work of investigating Collector Cadwalader, they found more than they had bargained for They learned that the office under General Hartranft, Mr. Cadwalader's predecosor, showed neglect and carelessness that from the time the change was made the receipts of the office had risen from $12,000,000 to $13,000,000, with no appar ent increase in imports. The revenues had increased fifty per cent. with no pro portionate increase in the business of the port, and the expenses had actually de-

This information was not what Senator Hale desired to obtain, but Mr. Cadwallader gave him more of the same kind. He told of night inspectors in the office who never inspected, and of convicted criminals, who occupied secure places under his predecessor. He found no Democrat in the office when he came in, and he appointed no Republican to place.

The whole investigation has turned out a complete fissco. Senator Manderson, one of the Republican members of the committee, was forced to say of it : " We found nothing surprising or unexpected in the facts brought to light. It was nat ural and to be expected that the Demo cratic officials should desire to gather about them men of their own political faith in whom they could have the most perfect confidence, and I see no objection to their doing so. But what the committee has done and what it desired to do was to show that the present Democratic administration does not practice that civil service doctrine which it preaches; and I have no doubt that an investigation of the administration of the federal offices in the other cities of the Union would disclose the same condition of affairs, which would be no special discredit to them."

Royal Alliances.

It would seem that even in royal families the fiction of regal superiority to the feelings and passions of human beings can not be maintained. The Crown Prince of Denmark has just sacrificed his right of succession to the throne and a royal income as heir apparent by marrying the Emperor of Germany and Alexander, the dethroned Prince of Bulgaria, are ready to defy Bismarck and the allied powers by alliance matrimonial.

If princes and princesses generally catch the fever and show themselves a little less cold-blooded than diplomacy demands, it will be a long step towards the overthrow of royalty. Nations can hardly afford to have regal figure-heads that embarrass international questions by acting in such an absurdly human fashion. Alexander, of Bulgaria, proved himself to be something exceptional in the king line, but for the sake of European peace, he was obliged to go out of the business. Now if he should become by marriage a member of the German royal family, there might soon be a pretty state of things in Berlin. Supposing Ferdinand, the wealthy, should get tired of Russian intrigue and foresake his uncomfortable throne, could Emperor Frederick threaten Son-in-Law Alexander with Germany's displeasure in case he should accept a call to his old throne? Would it not be more in accordance with the fitness of things for the German empire to support a German prince married to the daughter of a German emperor? They might beg and entreat him to let Bulgaria alone, and so avoid provoking Russia, but Alexander is a man of strong will and would probably follow his own judgment as he did when he headed the revolutionary party in opposition to his cousin, the czar. For Alexander's father was an uncle of the present Emperor of Russia, and he was well supported by his imperial cousin in the early days of his Bulgarian rule.

So Bismarck opposes with all his might a marriage that would strengthen a prince who has shown himself a diplomat and a soldier. It is practically an admission by the greatest living champion of the divine right of kings, that to be harmless a prince now-a-days must be a cipher, fit only to lay corner-stones, decorate ministers and prance about at grand reviews. He must be carefully married on his own level in order that court etiquette and the standard of harm. less royal idiocy may be maintained.

Tax Refunding. The House of Representatives has been for four days in a dead-lock over the passage of the direct tax bill, which is a measure to restore to twenty-nine states and territories seventeen million dollars paid by them under an act of Congress passed in 1861, which authorized a direct tax of twenty million dollars to be levied annually upon the real estate of the country. It was one of the earliest devices to raise money, and was given up after one year's collection had been made from the twenty-nine states, the states not paying being " non comeatible in swampo, on stumpo:" or in other words, being protected from the collection by the Confederate army.

An overflowing treasury has suggested this bill for the return of the tax, which is plausibly based upon the ground that it was not collected from all the states: but the plausibility of this claim disappears when it is considered that no other of the war taxes were collected from the states in rebellion; we had an income tax in the North, and we had stamp duties and tusiness licenses to pay; which should all be refunded upon the same reason that is urged for the repayment of the direct tax. The states in rebellion paid none of these imposts of course. It is very clear that the real reason animating the votes of a the large ma-

jorty of the representatives who favor this bill, is that their states get the money and the United States has no use for it; but on the contrary seems to be embarrassed by a plethoric treasury, and in a condition to be thankful for its depletion. Added to this, there is inducement for the passage of the bill to those members who want to preserve the tariff duties. After it is passed, we are told that the cotton tax will be refunded, as a compensating gift to the Southern states. But it would be better to divide the surplus in the treasury at one operation among all the states, if it is decided that the federal government has no use for it. There is no need to beat about the bush for excuses. It is sufficient reason for the distribution that the federal government does not need it. But as to this there may be a difference of opinion. The minority of the House, who are opposed to the grab, seems to think that the money will not burn the government pocket if left there. And their opinion is very decided. They have clung to it through four days of locked business, and we are of the decided opinion that they are right. Congress is more profitable to the country in these days of its idleness, than it would be likely to be if employed in legislation. No great harm at least can be done while it is thus tied up ; and that is a great good in THE ITELLIGENCER WIll on Monday present an exhaustive review of the Republican political situation in Lancaster county, which at this time, one week before the Republican primary election, is looked upon with absorbing interest. This journal has sent out over one hundred inquiries, covering all sections of the county, and embracing Democratic as well as Repub lican correspondents, and these will sccurately reflect the political situation so far as the writers can learn it. To make the account as strictly impartial as possible, opposing members of the Republican factions have been written to, and from the replies that have been pouring in, the returns promise to be most accurate and reasonably conclusive. The INTELLIGEN. CER has no interest in any special candidate on the opposition a'de, but is simply making an earnest journalistic search for the truth. The lines are now pretty closely drawn, and some light on probable results is attainable. This the INTELLIGENCER will give its readers. It will give the positions of the leaders in the congressional, senatorial, legislative and recorder races, who the township bosses are for, and everything else of moment pertaining to the situation. News dealers who wish extra copies of this issue should file their orders for the same as early as possible.

NEW YORK'S Democratic state conven tion is to be held in New York city on May 15. It is the first time in seven years that a state convention chose New York city for a place of meeting.

THE Philadelphia Ledger comments severely and with justice upon the law of Harvard university and the ruling of a committee of Harvard professors which prevented a woman from receiving a prize which she had won by an essay. The Miss Monck; and now the daughter of chairman of the committee had vigorously sed the establishment of the Harvard Annex on the ground that "women had neither the brains nor the bodies to endure severe study." The committee unanimously decided that an essay entitled "The Roman Senate Under the Empire' was so far superior to all the others as to deserve the full reward for $100 known as the Bowdoin prize and not often given. The sealed letter accompanying the essay was found to contain the name of E. B. Pearson and it was soon learned that the paper was the work of Miss Pearson, of the annex. This discovery moved the professors to rule that the essayist could not re ceive the $100 prize but might take the annex prize of $30. If the laws of the university are responsible for this ruling they are narrow and out of spirit with the sge and should be at once repealed. If the committee are alone responsible, which is hardly credible, they have shown a narrow bigotry quite irreconcliable with the liberal culture a university is supposed to give. As the Ledger says, "It appears incredible in this day that a prize fairly won by merit outside the pale should be refused to swoman solely because she was a woman."

> THAT there is not very much stability about the French political system or steadfastness in French statesmanship is shown by the fact that since the overthrow of the empire in 1870 there have been no less than eighteen premiers, and as several have been at the head of more than one ministry the premiership of M. Ficquet is the twenty-fourth. Seventeen years and seven months have elapsed since the fall of Napo icon III, and the average life of the ministries is only nine months.

> Oven in Bokhara they have a way of executing criminals that is swift, terrible and sure. The grand vizier was murdered by a native and the ameer ordered the mur derer and an accomplice to be hurled from a tower 180 feet high. With a drop like that there is no danger of bungling by the e secutioner.

> THE Knights of the Gol den Esgle acted wisely in adopting a resolution at the session of their Grand Castle in Philadelphia, prohibiting the use of liquors at picnics or receptions given byc astles when the name of the order is used.

ETHEREAL spring, though long delayed, was never brighter or more we'come.

SENATOR INGALLS is getting into deeper water every day. Now he has the women of the country as his formidable opponents. In a moment of more than usually acrid expression he set himself against woman suffrage, on the ground that women cannot take part in war. To which the New York Star responds: "What war has there ever been, since Andromache watched Hector scouring the windy plains of Troy, in which women were not cause and part? To leave the confused campaigns of the classic peoples and the middle ages out of the question, recall the potency of women in the wars of France, Germany and England. 1t was to avenge an insult of Frederick the Great upon Madame de Montespan that Louis, the well beloved, dielared war upon the Marquis of Brandenburg—as the King of Prussia was then called. It was in deference to Eugenie's desire that Napoleon III, went to war with King William in 1870. But these instances are not so pregnant of the proof of woman's use in war as the history of the rebellion. Had the women of the Union not taken part, daily, hourly, during the civil war, we should never have held enough forces under arms to conquer the

What Constitutes a Family Medicine A prepration which is adapted to the relief and cure of ailments to which members of a household are most subject, and which is not only alleged to do this, but has long and unfailingly proved its ability to do it, assuredly deserves the title of a reliable Family Medicine. Among time-honored preparations, which experience and the sanction of the medical profession indicate as deserving of popular regard and confidence, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine adapted to the eradication of dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, the three most frequently occurring aliments that vex mankind. Derived from a bottode parentage, it is efficient as well as pure and wholesome. It relieves nervous disquietude and inactivity of the kidneys and counteracts a tendency to rheumatism. For renewing flagging strength and imparting appetite it can be implicitly relied upon. Fever and ague, rheumatism and debility are remedied by it. household are most subject, and which is not

Keep the Blood Pure

We believe Hood's Sarsaparilla is the very best medicine to take to keep the blood pure and to expel the germs of scrofuls, sait rheum, and other poisons which cause so much suffering, and sooner or later undermine the general health. By its peculiar curative power, Hood's Sursaparilla atrengthens the system while it cradiates diseaso.

"Early last spring I was very much run down, had pervous headache, felt miserable down, had nervous headache, felt miserable and all that. I took Hood's Sarsaparilia and was much benefitted by it. I recommend it to my friends." Mas J. M. TAYLOR, Ilip Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

" For a first-class spring medicine my wife "For a first-class spring medicine my wise and I both think very highly of Hood's Ear-saparilia. We both took it last spring. It did us a grat deal of good and we felt better through the hot weather than ever before. It cured my wite of sick headache, from which she has suffered a great deal, and relieved me of a dizzy, tired feeling. I think every one ought to take something to purify the blood before the hot weather comes on, and we shall certainly take Hood's Sarasparilla this spring."

J. H. Prance, Supt. Granite Railway Co., Concord, N. H.

For a good spring medicine we confidently recommend Hood's Sarasparilla. By its use the blood is purified, enriched and vitalized, that tired feeling is entirely overcome and the whole body given strength and vigor. The appetite is restored and sharpened, the digestive organs are toned, and the kidneys and liver invigorated.

Those who have never tried Hood's Earsa-parilla should do so this spring. It is a thoroughly honest and reliable preparation, purely vegetable, and contains no injurious ingredient whatever. Thousands testify to its poculiar curative power.

Purifies the Blood

"I had erysipelas in the worst form, being nearly covered with blisters. My husband heard of flood's Sarsaparilla and insisted on my taking it, though I had little faith. I had takes but a few does, when I began to feel better, and in a week I was sure it was doing me good. I continued to take it according to directions and when the first bottle was gone I was entirely well. I have not been troubled by crystpolas since." Mrs. L. Bacox, Brimfield, Mass.

D'SSOLUTION.

The Bitner Fast Freight Line, so many years reited upon, and so liberally patronized by our merchants, is one of the taings of the past. The New Eanagement of the Philadelphia & Reading Railwad deem it best to discontinue individual lines; therefore have given me notice to discontinue on first day of April. I respectfully ask a continuance of the liberal patronage for the Philadelphia & Reading railroad; by so doing I will continue to gyo personal attention to good delivery and careful handling of such freight as may come to us.
