The Rules of Congress.

The deadlock in Congress, that has lasted so long and promised to last indefinitely, is broken only at last by the agreement of the Democratic caucus to postpone action until the next session. There was no force in the rules of the House to bring the body to a vote upon the measure; which strikes the public mind as a very remarkable thing indeed.

Rules of procedure are supposed to be established for the purpose of securing egislation; and that they are wholly ineffective to enable the majority even to bring a measure to a vote is certainly a severe commentary upon their efficiency. Congress is bound down by rules that it takes long to learn and a lifetime of experience to become master of ; and yet they have no power to preserve the House from having its time wasted with motions confessedly made for wasting it. The suggestion from this result is that the rules need amendment; unless, indeed, it be conceded that a vigorous minority should have the power to defeat in Congress the will of the majority; which we cannot see that it should have, though we are in sympathy with the views of the minority in this case, upon the direct tax issue, and think that they are entirely right in opposing the bill by all the means in their power. But we cannot see that it ought to be in their power, under proper rules of the House, to prevent a vote upon it.

And there are other things which are done under the rules which apparently should not be done. This deadlock was the result of one of them. It seems that the committee on rules has the power to report resolutions, fixing certain days for the consideration of certain bills, and therefore largely controls legislation. This committee has five members ; the speaker, the chairman of the ways and means and the chairman of the appropriations committee constitute the Democratic majority. They are the men of power under the rules. Mr. Randall, in combination with the Republican members, was able to bring up, at an early date, this bill to spend twenty millions of the surplus in repaying the direct taxes; and to follow It with another bill to bleed the treasury of twenty millions of dollars for swamp land claims. Two results could be accomplished by the early consideration of these measures; namely, to postpone the tariff bill and to lop off the surplus before the pruning shears of the tariff bill could take hold.

The committee on rules seems to be the he exhibited a generosity which has been expensive. He does not seem to have expected that Mr. Randall, thus confided in, would join hands with the Republican members. His confidence was misplaced. Mr. Randall has a natural habit of serving his own purposes when he finds himself possessed of the power; and his long experience in Congress and knowledge of its rules gives him power where another would be weak. The condition of the representative when first thrust into Congress is not a happy one. He stands at the foot of unimportant committees and finds the House running without any influence from him. He cannot even address the House without previously consulting the speaker and obtaining his promise to recognize him when he takes the floor; upon which the representatives theoretically stand equal; but practically it is the man of assurance and experience only who gets his share of attention. Modest worth has a poor chance for exhibition in the new member; which our Republican fellow-citizens at home may note and conclude to give Congressman Hiestand another term; in his second term he has secured a postoffice, perhaps ; in a third he may rise to a great speech. Mr. Brosius might rise to speak in a first term, and we rather think he would; but there is a chance that he might be sat upon for speaking not wisely but too

The State Iosane. The fifth annual report of the state committee on lunacy is at hand and begins with an interesting history of the development of the work of caring for the insane in Pennsylania. To the younger portion of the present generation, it is somewhat surprising to learn that the first state hospital for the indigent insane was not opened until October 1851. Since that time $6,268,711.71 have been spent by the state for this charitable purpose. Of 19,191 admissions into these hospitals up to the end of the last fiscal year, 7,771 have been reported cured, or sufficiently improved to be returned to their families and friends as workers in the community; the condition of 3,471 is reported as stationary; 3,714 died, and 13 were discharged as not insane; 4,222 remain as residents in the hospital.

The committee are of the unanimous opinion that the insane can be best cared for at state institutions. County insane asylums are nearly always in the hands of officials, who have no special training for treating insanity, and who often wittingly and less often unwittingly cause the unfortunate inmates addition; I suffering. It appeals to common sense that those places where special study is given to mental disease and special preparations made for its treatment are most fit for the reception of those whose bodies have either temporarily or for all time survived their minds. If it cos s more money for state treatment, it is money wisely expended.

There is the less reason for declining to take this sensible stand since 1883. From that time, the counties are only ired to pay one-half the entire cost enance. For the latter purpose for her share appropriated m is for the main-tors of Lancaster county propose to soon remove their insane to the state lunatic hospital at Harrisburg. In the local asylum, on September 30, 1887, there were in the insane department 7 patients, viz: 43 males, 36 females, of which number 19 were foreigners, 11 were private patients, 10 were epileptics, paralytics, 4 homicidal, 1 suicidal, 7 were absent on parole, 10 were regularly taking medicine, I on sick or extra diet 5 fed with spoon, 1 with stomach tube, 12 were unclean in person and habits, 6 were mechanically restrained with muffs; with belt, 4 for tearing their clothes, 2 for general destructivenes?. At same date were in seclusion ; cause not stated.

It is quite apparent that the belief in the superiority of state treatment of the insane is growing. In 1885, of the 65 almshouses in the state, 36 contained insane patients. In 1886 the number was reduced to 27 and in 1887, 21 only contained insane, and of these latter three contained but one insane.

The number of the insane and idiots in Pennsylvania in 1840 was 2,133, of which number 1,633 were insane, with a population in the state of nearly 1,724,033, giving the percentage of insane as oneeleventh per cent. One thousand of those insane were supposed to be in prisons and poor houses, and the residue were supported on their own resources or by private charity. Forty years later (1880). the number of insane in the state, as returned by the census enumerators, was 6,961, with a population of 4,282,891, the percentage having increased to oneseventh per cent. In 1840 there was one insane person to 1,056 of population, and in 1880 the proportion was one to 615 of the population. The increase of insane persons was but one-nineteenth of one per cent. in forty years.

This proves that the alarming statements of increasing insanity in the state has not a secure foundation, which will be cheering news to all.

Deaf, Blind and Bright.

Science gives a fac simile of a letter written by Helen Keller, the little girl born blind and deaf, whose wonderful advances in education have attracted the attention of scientific men. The writing is angular, or rather rectangular, but the letters are accurately spaced and proportioned, and the whole is as easy to read as any printed page. She expresses herself clearly, but with a peculiar management of construction : " I and father and aunt did go to see you in Washington. I did play with your watch. I do love you. I saw doctor in Washington. I can read stories in my book. I can write and spell and count. We do have fun with Jumbo. Rat did kill baby pigeons. I am sorry. Rat does not know wrong. I and mother and teacher will go to Boston in June. I will see little blind girls."

There is a portrait of this little marvel and her teacher, Miss Annie Sullivan, a graduate of the Perkins institute at Boston. Miss Sullivan was engaged in March of 1887 to give instruction to the girl, who was then six years old. One would think that a child who could not hear the loudest sound and had never seen the light would be hopelessly beyond the reach of instruction, but in a month steering committee of the House, and Helen Keller learned to spell four hunwhen the speaker put Mr. Randall on it, | dred words, and in less than three months could write a letter unaided by anyone In six weeks she mastered the Braille system, a cipher for the blind, which enables them to read what they have written. She has also mastered addition, multiplication, subtraction and geography. All this information was transmitted by the sense of touch. This girl may be remarkably bright or her teacher remarkably clever, or both, but what a noble art it is that has raised the heavy curtain between this mind and the world about it. Without it there would be hundreds of afflicted people, equally intelligent, going through life in silence or darkness without any relief for thought, and in a kind of existence that their the quickest things in the house hearing and seeing fellow-men cannot

THE farm value of the wheat crop of 1887 was $310,612,960, as reported in December, averaging 68.1 cents per bushel; but the export wheat, coming from the Northwest mainly, had a probable farm value, as delivered by the growers, of about 59 cents pe bushel.

Some of those Northerners who recently returned from the South report that real estate in Eurmingham is depressed, but the factories are in full blast. The Eiyton Land company owns most of the land, and during the last two or three years it has paid over 3,000 per cent. dividends. The city is filled with Pennsylvanians, who have gone there and established iron furnaces, because they see that iron can be manufactured cheaper there than in the Keystone state. On one side of the city is a mountain of iron and on the other is a mountain of coal, with an abundance limestone in the neighborhood.

HERE are some interesting figures about Canada: It is forty times as large as England, sotland and Wales; fift en times the size of the German empire, and in extent three times as large as British India. Its fertility is unsurpassed ; its extent of mineral wealth beyond estimates; its forests o lumber the greatest on the globe ; its 5,000 miles of coast fisheries the most valuable ; its coal beds equal 97,000 square miles : its means of water communication unequaled, and its water powers sufficient to drive the machinery of the whole world. Yet this vast and rich country lies alongside of the greatest nation of traders on the face of the globe, and the extent of the manufactures and merchandise sold to it amounts to less than the sales of three jobbing houses it the city of Chicago.

RALTIMORE'S police census shows a total of 93,267 voters, which is an increase of 5,878 over last year's census. Of these 78,829 are white and 14,438 are colored men.

Mr. Hurd will go next to Yale University, and then to Dartmouth college, to address the undergraduates at each institution on tariff reform.

SENATOR INGALLS has written to Railroad Commissioner Groene, of Kansas, a letter concerning his attack made on Gen-erals Hancock and McClellan, in which he says: " My allusions to Hancock and Mo-Cielian were not as soldiers, but as Demo-cratic candidates for the presidency. As such they were allies of the Confederacy, as Grover Cleveland is, and as every Demo-crat must be who aspires to that office." In other words, Mr. Ingalls means that he tidn't know it was loaded.

PRESIDENT McCosh is exceedingly reg-ular and methodical in his affairs, espe-cially in those which pertain to his literary and scholastic life. SENATOR CULLON has a four-year-old granddaughter, who is sometimes terrible but always charming. For example, the other day some political callers came in at dinner-time. The ladies of the household watted patiently for a time for them to go and let the senator come to the dining room. But when their patience gave out, they sent the little one in as an ambassador. She reached the door and saw a room full of men. She hesitated a few moments until there was a slight break in the con until there was a slight break in the conversation, and then in an abashed but also a reproving tone said: "Grandpa, tea is getting cold." The senator looked around, a good deal amused, and then to let himself and his friends down easy, replied pleasantly: "Tottie, I guess you're getting hungry?" "Yes," said the little one quite positively, "I am, and mamma is getting hungry, too." The political conterence broke up right off.

Keep the Blood Pure

We believe Hood's Sarsaparilla is the very best medicine to take to keep the blood pure and to expel the germs of scrofula, salt rheum, and other poisons which cause so much suffering, and sooner or later undermine the general health. By its peculiar curative power, Hood's Sarsaparilla strongthens the system while it cradiates disease.

"Early last spring I was very much run down, had nervous headsche, felt miserable down, had nervous beadache, felt miserable and all that. I took Hood's Sarasparilla and was much benefitted by ft. I recommend it to my friends." Mas J. M. Tavica, illy Ruclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

" For a first-class spring medicine my wife and I both toink very bighly of Hood's Sar-saparilia. We both took it last spring. It did us a grat deal of good and we felt better through the hot weather than ever before. It cured my wife of sick headache, from which she has suffered a great deal, and relieved me of a dizzy, tired feeling. I think every one ough, to take something to purity the blood ought to take something to purify the blood before the hot weather comes on, and we shall certainly take Hood's Sarsaparillathis spring." I. H. PEARCE, Supt. Granite Bailway Co., Con that tired feeling is entirely overcome, and the whole body given strength and vigor. The appetite is restored and sharpened, the diges-tive organs are toned, and the kidneys and ver invigorated. Those who have never tried Hood's Sarsa parilis should do so this spring. It is a thor-oughly honest and reliable preparation, purely vegetable, and contains no injurious ingredient whatever. Thousands testify to its pecu liar curative power.

About five years ago I suffered from painful urination and great pain and weakness in the lower part of my back, pain in the limbs, bad taste in the mouth, disgust at food, and great mental and bodily depression. I live at 241 York street, Jersey City, and on arriving home one night I found a copy of the bhaker Almanac that had been left during the day. I read the article, "What is the Disease that is Coming Upon Us?" It de-scribed my symptoms and feelings better than I could if I had written a whole book. My trouble was indeed "like a thief in the night," for it had been stealing upon me un-awares for years. I sent for a bottle of Shaker Extract of Boots, or Seigel's Syrup, and before I had taken one-half of it I felt the welcome relief. In a few weeks t was like my old self. 1 enjoyed and digested my food. My kidneys soon recovered tone and strength, and the urinary trouble vanished. I was well
