SAROSUTUR, APRIL II, IIII.

THE INTELLIGRACER,

The French Chamber of Deputies has ion to nominate a committee on the ision of the constitution. The clamor er revision has become so fleroe that the hends of the republic begin to doubt to the wind like a ship in a gale, and ske the risk of going to pieces on an unwa shore, rather than to keep beating out waiting for a lull in the tempest Floquet, in a speech that was warmly applauded by the conservative republican element of the assembly and resived with impatience by the radical munists, imperialists and monto, declared that he favored reviion but preferred to wait for a time when would not be the present danger of stator or an emperor. This incident me is enough to measure the vast dissnoe between our own republic and that of France. Even in the days of our al infancy we never felt so weak in pular support that such a speech by a at leader could have carried with it so e an impression of the danger of a This constitution so generally conmned is not so wretched an instrument but that a less impetuous and more erely democratic people might not to a presidential figurahead with salary of $120,000 and some thirty-two thousand more thrown in for official expenses. He holds the power of appointment for all offices, civil and ary, has supreme control of army and navy, and with the council of state directs the machinery of government. This council of state is composed of 28 bers selected by the assembly and 15 by the president. Eleven ministers preids over the several departments of the dment. There is a Senate and Chamber of Deputies, the former elected by the delegates of the communes for a years: the latter sected for four years by universal suffrage. There are senators receiving $3,000 a year and 585 deputies paid $1,000.

*Certainly men of first-class ability ald only be tempted to enter these podies by the honor and the opportunity of greater advancement, or by pure pasciotism. The president is eligible for re-election, but the power really rests in the hands of the assembly, which has overthrown ministries most industriously. The chief complaint of the system are that it is not sufficiently democratic and the cities do not receive just representation in the Senate ; also that the prest. should be elected by the people. The president can only dissolve the Chamber of Deputies with the advice of the Philistines in America.

Matthew Arnold's great life work was erthrow of what he called Philis tinism, by which he meant that regulation of life and education which made everything subordinate to immediate and spearent utility. He held that the mind should not be treated merely as the reptacle for facts which might be useful, of school training. He laid himself open to ridicule by the extreme urgency with which he insisted upon the need of sweetness and light for the regeneration of society, but he accomplished his ob ject and saved England from the " Philstines." From the sudden rush of American educators towards scientific and manual training there appears to be danger that we too will have a struggle with the Philistines. The reaction from the extreme classical training of a generation ago should be checked before it ses too far, and though it may be well to recognize and accept the true principles of both, to combine elementary nce with the habits of work and ought given by the old system, and to direct more carefully the developent of the active powers in boys and girls, yet we must remember that they are not men and women and cannot fully value and apply what they may be taught. In childhood we are given simple statements of great religious truths, but usually it is only long after maturity that their full value and meaning is realized. If children can be given a fair supply of sound elementary wisdom, and a few impressive and useful facts in science, history and the arts, that, with the three B's, will be as much as they can readily carry without physical or mental injury. If manual training is so applied as to relieve the strain of mental labor it will undoubtedly have a good effect; strengthening not only the hand and eye, but encouraging more even development and health of mind and body. Our young people do not impress one with an idea of race advancement, and compared either mentally or physicially with their grandparents they surely suffer. Whatever ange is made not a straw must be dded to the back of the camel, but the burden lightened or adjusted more easily.

Louisiana's Election.

The Louisiana election gives no comfort to the Republicans. It was claimed that the Democrats would suffer from Mr. Cleveland's tariff utterances; that the sugar men would come down upon the Democracy with a trip-hammer blow and would make the party feel what a mistake it had made in daring to suggest any curtailment of the duties on a Louisians industry. It was predicted that the negroes would go with increased enthuom with the Republicans, and with the millionaire carpet-bagger Warmoth at the head of the Republican ticket, succoss was certain. To help the Republican wish it was pointed out that the Demoerate were quarreling among themselves in New Orleans, and that the Democracy everywhere in a state of incipient gave the Democrate a solid vote in the counties most confidently counted on for Warmoth majorities.

THE Ephrats News is a new weekly publication which, under the proprietorable of Hoover & Lefever, has just made its bow to the public in that progressive town. Its salutatory is modest and promises what seems certainly within the caracity of the new septrants in the field of journalism, a good newspaper. We wish the proprietors all success.

LIFE is more secred on the rail in England than in this country. Only eight persongers on railroad trains in all the united Kingdom for the year 1886 lost their lives from causes beyond their own control; and out of 866 million passengers conveyed, 615 was the whole number of the injured.

Among the measures recently brought Among the measures recently brought forward for the protection and civilization of the Indians, none have appeared more worthy of the support of men who consider both sides of the Indian question than the act to establish courts for the Indians. It may surprise some to learn that by this act Indians are for the first time definitely declared entitled to the full protection secured by the constitution to asset tection secured by the constitution to per-sons who are not citizens of the United States. The heathen Chines or Hungarian, the genuine circus cannibal from the Congo, or any other native of another part of the otatool, might claim the protection and exemption granted by our constitution, but poor Lo has found to his sorrow, and the satisfaction of the frontier desperadoes with whom he has dealings, that he is neither a foreigner nor a citizen. It has even been decided in certain cases that he was not a man in the eyes of the law.

The act referred to gives him the power to make contracts and engage in business under the ressonable restraint of the agency system. It extends the existing laws of the state or territory in which any reservation is situated over that reservation, and the laws of Kansas over the Indian territory, but the civilized tribes having laws and courts of their own are especially ex-empted from this set. The United States court of each circuit is to appoint court commissioners, learned in the law, each one of whom shall have authority to hear and decide all cases within a district aliotted to him, whether between Indians or between Indians and whites; excepting only capital cases. He will have the genera powers of a surrogate or judge of probate in approving the wills of Indians and the coounts of trustees and administrators, and be will also have the power of a justice of the peace or notary under the laws of the state or territory.

These commissioners will try cases with out juries unless a jury is demanded by either party; but either party may claim a jury of six and whenever practicable this jury is to be composed half of each race. In any case where the matter in controversy exceeds $20, or in which the party accus is liable to infamous punishment, appeal may be taken to the United States district court. The act fixes the number of commissioners to be appointed in such district. It also provides for a commissioners' clerk, committing migistrates, and an of ficial known as the " Next Friend " who is to be a kind of district attorney. The magistrates and clerks are to be Indians. if competent red men can be found.

ENTHUSIASTS get st some queer work Vienness professor named Schmitt, a year or two since, commenced a " Handbook of Pisuoforte Pisyers," the idea of which was to give illustrations of the outspread hands of noted plantsts, with explanatory text, pointing out their varied characteristics. He did not complete his task, but collected sufficient material to prove how interesting the entire fulfilment of his plan would have been to many. Amongs the hands selected were those o Liszt that "extended round the corner," and presented the very perfection of suppleness and flexibility. The iron hand of Rubinstein, the embodiment of muscular force, as well as the " manly hand " of Sophie Menter, also found a place in the collection. In striking contrast to these the diminutive bands of Tausig, Jael and Joseffy were dealt with. All these facts are interesting enough, but show nothing. As the Musical Herald says : "It does but that during early years it should be not follow that anatomical perfection in the broadened by carefully planned methods conformation of the hand necessarily indicates unusual planistic powers. On the other band many, possessed of remarkable manipulative skill, endurance, and other features of an admirable technique, bave clumsy and unsuggestive hands.

Major William Hancook Clarke, who called the ex-Confederate soldiers of New York together to do honor to the memory of General Grant when the latter died, was a Confederate officer, and is said to have been the first officer General Grant paroled after the surrender at Appo ontex. Major Clarke is a relation of the late General Hancook, it is stated. ieneral Hancock, it is stated.

REV. DR. Loos, who severed his con-ection with Carist Reformed church, Bethlehem, some weeks size, was Thursday re-elected as pastor of that church. Only 100 votes were east, at being in favor of Dr. Loos. Over a hundred remonstrants refused to take any part in the selection and stated that they would appeal to classis, which meets at Bath on the 25th of May.

LORD LONDSALE'S adventurous trip to the Arctic circle was a nine days' w in Winnipeg during his stay there. On Wednesday interest was again quickened by the return of Lonsdale's valet with the larger portion of the outfit. He parted company with Lonsdale at Green Lake, north of Prince Albert, owing to the impossibility of securing a sufficient number of degs to enable both to proceed with a new outfit. Lord Lonsdale, he said, would proceed northward to new outher the company with his brocced northward in company with his ladian and balf-breed guides, and he had no doubt the lordly adventurer would accomplish his trip successfully.

Starved Himself to Death.

Peter O'Neal, who recently shot and killed his wife and shot himself, died in the Allegheny county jail Thursday morning. O'Neal was thought to be getting tetter, and was removed from the hospital to the county jali a couple of weeks ago. Since that time he has refused to eat and has grown gradually weaker. Repeated efforts were made to force food down his throat, but they were only partially successing. The physicians say that he died from exhaustion brought on by lack of nourishment.

Killed the Preacher.

Edward Cosser, a colored man of con-siderable wealth, returned to his home at Sardis, Miss., unexpectedly on Wednesday night and found Rev. Stoney Hipbler, pastor of the Methodist church and princi-pal of the school, at his home. Not being satisfied with the minister's explanation, he shot and killed him. shot and killed him.
