A VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

LOUIS R. W. RERNER SPRICEGE WIFE CONGESTION OF THE HEART.

He Recomes lit White Stilling in a Hotel sed Expires Shortly Atter Being Removed an Aged and Respected Oitizen.

Louis E. W. Berner, an upholeter, who resided at No. 45 West Chestnut street, died very suddenly on Baturday night. During the day he went to York on business at d returned in the evening. He spent several hours walking around, visiting different places and late in the evening he met George F. Casey a friend, on East King street. About half-past ten o'clock the two went to the Western hotel kept by Francis Neudorff, at Orange and Water streets. They took a seat at a table and a glass of beer each and some sauer kraut that Berner neither drank his beer nor touched his kraut and, in a short time, he begun to vomit. It was then found that he was getting sick and he soon became unconscious. A cab was ordered and he was placed in it and driven to his home Furniss was sent for, but when he arrived the man was deed. Coroner Honaman was notified and yesterday morning he held an of John Sawyer, George De Haven, D. W. Miesse, A. T. Salz'ger, W. P. Wright and E. H. Trissler. The facts as given above shown by the wife of deceased that he had been complaining of pains like rheums from congestion of the heart.

Deceased was born in Prusels but came ag). For years he and his brother carried on the manufacture of picture frames, upholstering, &a, on North Queen street. Of late years Louis has been in business for himself and had his shop at his residence. He was 49 years of age and leaves a wife now in Europe, having been taken over by har father last summer. Deceased also leaves a brother and two sisters. The latter are well known as teachers of languages.

David King, one of Lancaster's best known citizens, died at his home, No. 244 East King street, on Saturday afternoon. At 2 o'clock on Monday morning exactly four weeks ago, Mr. King, who was in the habit of walking in his sleep, arose from bed. He walked to the stairway, down which he fell, striking his head. King was taken to his room and his son, Dr. Geo. A. King, was called for. Up:n making an examination he found that h fathers' skull was fractured, as were two of the transfer processes of the left side of the neck. The latter injury was almost equal old man it was believed that he would soon After a few days he began to grow better, however. He suffered great pain on About the middle of last week he egan to grow worse, and on Wednesday paralysis. Early on Saturday morning he ame unconscious and remained in that condition up to the time of his death, sppar-ently sleeping away. Mr. King was born in this city, May 19 1818, and was a son of George King, cooper who died about 30 years ago. In 1841, David began business as a clerk in the grocery store of George B. Markley, at East King and Dake streets, where he was some years. With him in the store were Robert A. Evans and other well-known men. Mr. King next went to Danville, where he had a grocery store for five years. While there his son Dr. George A. was bo n. Upon returning to Laucaster, Mr. King opened a grocery store in the property owned by his father next door to the present residence of Dr. King, on East King street. Here he was in business for mor adelphia and was employed as a store-keeper for three years by R. A. Malone, who was then constructing the Hart Creek sewer. When he returned from Philadelphia he was engaged by John L. Binkley, who had a grocery at East King and Duke death of Abijah Geiger, which occurred saveral years ugo. Mr. Geiger was sasesson of the Third ward, and the county commissioners appointed Mr. King to fill the vacancy. He was twice elected to the position by the people and held it to the time

Mesons, Monterey Lodge of Odd Fellows, Inland City Lodge Knights of Pythias, and Eshakonee Tribe of Red Men. He was married in early life to Margaret A. Lewars, daughter of Andrew Lewars, and a sister of ex-Policemau Lewars, who surlows: Dr. George A. King, the well-known physician of this city; W. Newton, teller of the Third National bank of Baltimore ; C. Harry, who lives with his brother, the doctor ; Walter, who is connected with the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company in Wilmington, and William D., the youngest, who is employed in W. A. Reist's grocery. The brothers of the decessed are George P. King, of this city, and Solomon King, wholesale druggist of Baltimore. His only sister is Miss Catharine King, who resides on North Duke street.

The face of Mr. King was a familiar one on our streets. He was well-known by everybody and had many warm friends who will miss him greatly. The funeral o'clock, and the interment will be made in bowels at the county hospital this morning. He had been ill about ten days. Decease resided for many years in the Seventh ward and served for two years on the police force under Mayor MacGonigle. Of late he had been working as a laborer. He was a member of the old Sun Fire company during the times of the volunteer department. During the war he served in company D, 11th regiment Penns. volunteers and . W as in the service two years. He will be buried on Thursday afternoon by the burial committee of the Grand Army. The funeral will take place from his wife's residence at Prince and Walnut streets. Deceased was A very Good Play and a Copable Company at the Open Hease.

Palton opera house was about haif filled Saturday evening, when "Held by the Reemy" was given. The company was of the first-class, and the play of a character that absorbed the closest attention of the audience. The action of the story interpreted so ably took the auditors to a drawing room of a Southern home. There dwelt a maiden lady, her two nicess and an aged colored servant. The time was during the colored servent. The time was during the rebellion, and the home was under guard of Union soldiers. The two young misses fall in love with Northern men, one an officer and the other an artist of a magazine. A Confederate officer was betrothed to one of the sisters, and while on a visit to her was ceptured by the guards, imprisoned and while attempting to escape was abot. The sunt at all times did her utmost to discourage alliance with the Yankess, but nevertheless the final scene fluds the old lady's idols held by the enemy. The characters in the strong cast were greatly sided by fine scenery and other equipment. The five acts move along very smoothly, and the thread of the piece is at no time lacking in interest. The principals were Miss Hattle Schell, Miss Mary Mills, Mr. Sheridan S. Block and Mr. J. J. Farrell. The play was of a kind that is rare, and there being such a great fund of circumere not more drames in that line.

The Court Refuses to Transfer Adam Kuhlman's License-The Resson Given On Saturday afternoon application was made to the court for the transfer of the The place for which the transfer was asked a located at the corper of Chestaut and rant by John B. The court refused to grant the transfer seked for, and in addition revoked the license granted to Kuhlman, thus leaving the house without a license. the house without a license. The reason given by the court was that Kuhlman has not lived in the house since April 1, the occupant being Patrick Burns, who now petitioned to have the license transferred, while the rule of court requires the party to whom a license is granted to live at the place licensed. For a similar reason the license of a Columbia hotel-reeper was revoked on Monday. The application for a transfer was regularly advertised, and the refusal of the court to grant the transfer prayed for was a great surprise to the many friends of Mr. Burns. The license fee for the year, $300, was paid into the treasury, and it is questionable whether it can be refunded to the party who paid it.

A BUT WAYLAID.

He is Robbed by a Man on South Prince Str On Saturday night Jacob Graeff, a 14-yearold boy, was robbed in a rather lonesome part of this city. The young man is employed in Hager Brothers' dry goods store, and about 10 o'clock, after the store had been closed, he started for home, which is at 710 South Prince street. When he reached Bartholomew's planing mill he was confronted by a tall man, who carried a revolver in each hand and wore a mask over his face. The boy was so badly frightened that he could not give an of his cost and vest. As he took the latter garment off the boy slipped his watch from als pooket and tried to drop it into the hat The man saw the movement and took the watch. He also took some small change which was in the clothing and then told the boy to dress again. After doing this the boy started for home and the man followed him almost to the door. The stolen watch was a small bunting case and had the initials "C. M." inside. There is no clus

The Normal Literary Society. MILLERSVILLE, Pa., April 23—At the reg-ular meeting of the Normal society, Saturday evening, Mr. W. S. Snyder delivered an excellent oration on "Cnidhood's Happy Hours." He pictured the Joys and the sor-rows of our earlier days. He also showed that all joy does not end with childhood; that the good and true can be happy as long as life lasts.

The debate was interesting, Mr. E. B. Floto and Miss Ellmaker tried to convince the society that trial by jury should be abolished, while Mr. E. F. McCurdy, J. S. Strickler and Mr. Dickinson argued that it should be retained. An essay was read by Miss Garber, and Miss Shand recited "How Tom Sawyer Whitewashed the Fence." The exercises were interspersed with music, and were closed after the read ing of the Normal review by the members responding to the roll call with sentiments

A Small Grocery Wagon Wrecked George Adams, who keeps a grocery on Caroline street, was pulling a small express wagon loaded with groceries along West Lemon street, on Saturday evening. As he was crossing the Pennsylvania railroad, the wheels of the wagon became fastened in the tracks. Adams was unable to loosen the wagon in time, and it was struck by the 7:30 train going west. The wagon was badly broken and groceries were spilled in every direction. Some part of the iron of the broken wagon caucht in the driving wheels of the engine and it was found necessary to BRADDOCK, Pa., April 23.—Since shortly after 6 o'clock this morning gauge of men bave been going to the Régar Thomson steel works, but for the most part they appear to be laborers. The managers and bosses are making every effort to get this en bosses are making every effort to get things into working chaps, but it cannot be said that the works resumed successfully today. At an early hour the Knights of Labor took their position on Thirteenth street, near the works, and endeavored to keep men from entering. They will prob-ably stay there throughout the week if about 7 o'clock, and cheer after cheer went up from the Knights. The bricklayers had begun work, but when they saw the Pinkerion men over them they one and all left their posts, taking their tools with them, marched in procession down the etreet, and

The Pinkertons are distributed throughout the works. The people here do not respect them, claiming that they are merely taken are merely " brought on to intimidate a se of peaceful men. They are subjected to jeers and indignities on all sides.

At 7:30 o'clock Superintendent Jones drove through the yards in a carriage, viewing the situation. Calling William Bennett, a prominent Knight, he said "Eilly, keep your men quiet to-day and everything will be all right."

Mr. Bennett assured him that the Knight would not trespess. About 6:50 a. m. two hundred Hungarians with their baggage arrived on a Baltimore & Ohlo train. When discovered they were greeted with yells of "soabs" and "black sheep," etc. About a dram left the train at this station and in a moment they were surrounded and at 10 o'clock had not yet reached the works. The remainder of the party were safely landed at Bessemer station and taken in charge by

Many People Visit the Conestogs Creek and Other Interesting Pieces.

Although the weather is yet somewhat cold for walking in the country, a great many people were out yesterday. The banks of the Conestoga seemed to be a popular resort and many persons ficked in that direction all day. The East King street car line seemed to be doing a very good car line seemed to be doing a very good business. A walk along the creek is of much interest at present. At the hotel at Witmer's bridge S. W. Potts has isunched his fleet of fine row boats, which have been prettily painted and look well. They are already in demand for pleasure parties. A short and pleasant walk up the stream, passing Tell's Hain and Ranch's mill, brings one to the hig railroad bridge and the new city water works. The latter are being rapidly pushed to completion. The brick building for the pumps is under roof, and the large frame structure under roof, and the large frame structure is almost up. The work of laying the large pipes between the works and the reservoir has been begun, and about a square of these are now down but not joined. A large force of men are at work and everything is progressing favorably. At the water works, there is amother lot of boats because to a man named blushes. What

Several Animals Frighten and Gallop Up at About noon to-day a boy was driving a horse, hitched to a heavy wagon, belong-ing to Hershey's caramel factory. At the corner of Church and Duke streets the animal frightened and started to run able to hold the horse, and he ran up Duke street to Walnut before he could be con-Walnut street to North Queen, and soon after he had turned into the latter street he frightened at the road roller. Again the enimal was too much for the boy, and he dashed down the rough street, breaking through a rope which had been stretched scross the street. The gates at the railroad station had been left down for an aproaching freight train, but when he saw the bore coming he quickly lifted the gate, and left him pass through, narrowly escaping a freight train. With the boy still in the wagon the horse ran down across Centre Square and was stopped ar down South Queen street. Neither the long run, nor was the wagon broken.

The Horses at Their Usual Pastime, This morning a number of teams were standing in the yard of the Pennsylvania freight station and the one closest to North Queen street was that of George M. Steinman & Co. When the new road roller can up the street the horse frightened and started down through the yard on a run The wagon struck several others but his one owned by a man named Bitner, of Millersville, especially hard. Bitner's horse was knocked down and the wagon turned in exactly the opposite direction to which it had been standing. Hoth shalts and a wheel of the wagon were

Is jured By the Care, Cornelius Gorman, 29 years of age, whose some is in Brooklyn was badly injured by the cars at Bainbridge, carly Sunday morning. He is a blackamith below and recently went to Tyrone in search of work. Being unsuccessful he decided to return to his home. He boarded a freight train at Harrisburg to ride to Philadelphia. At Bainbridge he was atting on the platform Bainbridge he was sitting on the platform of one car with his feet on the other, and suddenly the care came together with great force. One of Gorman's legs dropped and it was caught between the bumpers. The leg was badly squeezed and the bone was broken near the knee. The injured man was brought to this city on a freight train and taken to the county hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Welchans,

After the polls had closed on Saturday evening in the Eighth ward, and the busi-ness of the election officers had been completed, a gang of drunken men re-turned to Mrs. Margaret Fritz's hotel, where the election was held, and raised a disgraceful row, fighting, destroying furni-ture, and one of the party assaulting Mrs. Fritz. Mrs. Fritz made complaint against the party, charging Frederick Dickel with assault and battery, malicious mischief, and drunken and disorderly conduct, and Anthony Angemyer, Geo. Draude, Charles Brown, Jacob Barnhart and Jacob Benner, with drunken and disorderly conduct only. The accused were held for a hearing before Alderman Donnelly on Wednesday even
