The Book Agent Naisance. We note with infinite satisfaction that one George Barrie, of Philadelphia, a publisher, has failed in his effort to compal a man to pay a subscription made to an agent for an illustrated publication that was to be furnished in parts, equal to the sample. They were not equal to the sample and Barrie could not recover.

Such things never are equal to the nample. It is a fair inference that a iption to a work published and applied in parts has a fraud lurking never subscribe. It is women who are aly the victims of the trick, just as they are chiefly the prey of the ordinary book agent. All these cansers should be suppressed by law.

There is not a particle of merit in the system of selling books in this way. It is fraudulent in its very inception. No orable person would think of ringing a door bell for the purpose of taking up the time of the householder in an effort to sell him something which he does not sed and does not want, nine times out of ten, even when he buys. This canvassing has grown into the ortions of a great business and the proportions of a great base incomes as great as that of the president of the United States. They make them by their ability to persuade people to pay many what it is worth for what they do of want; and they are so confident of their power that they think their game when they get the ear of their tim. They ought to be sent to the workhouse, every one of them. It ought to be made a crime to seize upon people and consume their time in bleeding them. Of course, it is the victim's fault. The gent could be ordered out, but most people have not the nerve to treat thus narily people who appear before m in the garb and with the manners of gentleman and ladies. There is a an traversing this town now with a pilation of stale poetry, who thinks thing of sitting a whole morning with the lady of the house, in conversation about her house, her furniture and her family, advising her to cultivate a taste for poetry, to teach it to her hildren; and to buy her book for use as a ady diet for them, though they be babes ien to struz gle and sweat for the sake of struggling d sweating was never better illustrated than in the notable compromise by which Chairman Cooper agrees to be supplanted by his rival, the latter agreeing to postpone the date of execution until January first; allowing Cooper to do the heavy work of the presidential year. When it is remembered that the state chairman gets no salary and has his only nsation in the satisfaction which work affords him, the prominence that it gives him and the power that he wields, it is manifest that Senator Cooper, der his agreement to suffer execution next January, will take nothing for his rk in the coming campaign but the disfaction that it affords him; all the nce and power of the office going out to his appointed successor. All that Cooper took beside the work by his extended term, was the satisfaction of not being abruptly kicked out. That is thing, to be sure, but after running the machine successfully for the party rough so many campaigns he must be asidered to have received an extremely mall amount of satisfaction in his eight the' notice to quit.

What Mr. Cooper has got out of his long chairmanship that is of substantial ue, we do not know. He has had ninence and some power; he has been be instrument of stronger politicians, and it is undoubtedly because he has ceased to be available to the controlling interest in als party in the state that he now steps down. Mr. Quay has no use for him, and his only future is in Blaine.

That years of such service as his to his party masters should meet the aspiration an honorable life cannot be mained. But there are very many men constituted like Cooper who delight to be servants for the sake of the service and the activity, the publicity and the bright

Quay's Convention.

The Republican lions and lambs are preparing to lie down together at the tion in Harrisburg to-day, and at promised to be an acrimonious batle for state chairman between Cooper and Andrews has quieted down into a omise in which sufficient bones are rown to each to feed their political er. Cooper is to remain the chairan until January 1, when Andrews will ed him, holding the place for a year, he state chairman hereafter to be elected in January each year. On the surface this result looks like a olg defeat for Cooper. He had been coasting that his opponent was not within ighting distance of the position sought or, and the fact that the red-headed, ful Delaware county leader was willne to surrender the office next January, proves that he considered his chances of

The compromise is another illushe foresaw that if the convention got so a squabble over the chairmanship, Junior senator from Pennsylvania, perhaps be the entering wedge to k down his power. The incident has on that it is Quay's convention, and nator Cameron has eyes to see, he Baleful Balfour.

Balfour is determined to leave his name in Irish history covered with more odium than the bitterest anti-Irish leaders of the century. The latest political infamy with which his name is identified is the increasing of Irish sentences on appeals. It is most rare that in important sentences where a prisoner appeals for a new trial, his petition for justice and mercy is met with a severer sentence. Yet this is what Balfour and his gang are doing in Ireland in order to deter men from appealing through fear of increased sentences. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, in indignantly denouncing this new tyranny, said : "After this, Irishmen could not or ought not to have confidence in the administration of the law, because it was carried out in a manner repugnant to Gladstone also scored the miserable eader of the hostility to Ireland, but Balfour was sustained in his iniquity by a vote of 219 to 165. Ireland has need of great patience when measures such as these are forced down her throat.

MAYOR HEWITT, of New York, recently retoed the resolution that in the board o aldermen reposed the authority to say what flags should float from the city hall. Now the aldermen have passed their measure over the veto. What silly work for grown men to be making so much ado out ci nothing !

FROM the lurid West to the Chicago column of the New York Herald comes an eerie tale of the perpetual pickling of the departed. It is asserted that a certain music dealer, Daniels by name, has se a pastime been studying the art of embalm-ing and has made a discovery of the usual startling Chicago proportions. He has found that a peculiar mineral vapor bath, administered in an air-tight chamber, arrests, prevents and perpetually removes the possibility of decomposition. We condiscovery relating to perpetual preserva-This interesting narrative recounts an experiment upon the body of a man that had been kept a most unpleasant length of time. An old dissecting room of the Chicago Medical college was selected for the est, and after an air-tight bath of two hours it was found that the subject had ceased to be offensive. Eleven days had clapsed since the bath when the correspondent visited the room, the experiment seemed to have been quite successful, and the inventor was jubilantly claiming that decomposition was orever arrested, and the body was as lasting as if petrified. He further says, " If the effects observed in this experiment are reliable, and consequential to the mineral vapor, none need ever fear a contagious disease. The vapor is a perfect disinfectant. The world need fear yellow fever and smalipox no more."

The enterprising correspondent wants to cnow why the bath cannot play the part of De Soto's famous fountain and restore perpetual youth. "It a decaying body can take a mineral vapor bath and regain its perfection and last always, why can't a live man take the bath and live forever?" The gentleman should lock himself up in an air tight chamber and test the matter. He would certainly have a nice fresh subject.

JUSTICE GORDON IS a candidate for reelection before the Republican convention probably forgetting that with one exception there has been no judge re-elected to the supreme bench in the past forty years. PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S smypathy for nome labor is shown by his letter to United States District Attorney Girvin, relating to the importation of foreigners into Massa. chusetts ports in violation of the contract labor laws, as follows:

Information has reached the treasury department that a large number of foreigners have been brought into Massachusetts under violation of the contract labor law, for the purpose of manning American fishing vessels sent out from the ports of Gloucester, Boston and Beverly for the purpose of taking tish along the Canadian coast. It seems to me quite certain that such foreigners, alters, have been brought in by parties in direct violation of the statutes covering such cases, and I believe that the importation of such foreigners tends to the displacement of American labor. I am aware that many of these persons have, through the care of the officials, been returned to the country from which they came. I therefore country from which they came. I therefore enjoin on you the duty of a prompt inves-tigation of these cases and request that you confer with the collectors of the ports of Boston and Gloucester that prompt and effective measures may be taken.

DR. GEORGE M. STERNBERG, U. S. A. has been investigating the alleged discovery by a Mexican doctor that yellow fever could be prevented by inoculation, and that it was caused by a living organ-ism which found the human system congenial ground for multiplication. Speak ing of his researches in Mexico, the doctor observed that when he arrived at Vers Cruz in September the disease was quite limited, there being scarcely any deaths. Consequently he had very few opportuni ties of making autopsies. So far he had found that there was really nothing to justify the sanguine conclusion of the Mexican and Brazilian scientists. Quoting from certain works published in favor of the inoculation theory, Dr. Sternberg said that out of forty-four persons inoculated in Rio Janeiro twenty-two, or fifty per cent, had been seized with yellow fever, and of these nine, or forty per cent, had died.

and Men. It is insinuated that after our exhibitions of dress goods such as are injured by exposure to dust and light are returned to stock to be sold as perfect goods, and therefore buyers run the risk of getting damaged instead of regular goods.

The refutation is complete, as you may witness this morning by a visit to certain counters where all the goods depreciated by the late Easter Occasion-the greatest Dress Goods Exhibition ever made - are offered by themselves at half prices. And this is done that the insinuation may be absolutely groundless.

Merchandise Incident No 1-All the dress stuffs soiled in decoration, including sateens, lawns, stuff goods, robe patterns, have been gathered at a single counter. You can take them at half prices.

How much are they injured? At most but little. Many practically not at all. For a dress, good as ever.

Half prices! What does that mean? Just this: they average down more than that. Mostly just half. A few more, many less. Earliest comers get the best pick.
