WHISKY THIEVES. Gallons of "Old Ryo" Taken From Jacob F.

Sponffer's Distillery Tuesday Night. Tuesday night thieves broke into a frame building adjoining the distillery of Jacob F. Sheaffer, No. 646 East King street, and de a night of it." This morning when the thievery was discovered, there were evies of the drunkenness and debauchery f the thieves in all parts of the premises Just how much liquor was drank or carried off, or let run to waste, is not known, but it does not probably exceed ten gallons. One one-gallon demijoin was carried off, and it was no doubt filled from one of the barrels. A eer keg from which a party was having ne in the neighborhood on Whitfonday, and which they left lying empty or the distillery was missing this morn Whether the thieves filled it with whichy and carried it off is not known. It is simply known that two three and the other seven gallons of whisky, were found empty this morning. What owed to run to waste from the spigots The thieves effected an extrance by forcing up the sash of the window. From the frame building, which was used as a retail m, they entered the distillery, but did sot disturb snything there, nor in the ded warehouse. They made their exithrough the engine room, unlocking the door from the inside.

exercises, was held on Tuesday evening at Alderman Barr's office.

Rev. Dr. Mitchell, who had promised to deliver the sermon to the Grand Army on sunday, appeared before the committee and stated that at the time he promised to deliver the sermon he had overlooked the Presbyterian centennial jubiles in Philadelphia on that day, and he was obliged to attend those exercises. He said his church was at the disposal of the Grand Army on that evening, and he had secured Rev. D. H. Geissinger to deliver the sermon. That arrangement was declared satisfactory to the committee, and the memorial sermon will be preached at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening.
