An Assurance of Health. Among the assurances of health afforded us by the regular discharge of the bodily functions, none is more important and reliable than that which regularity of the bowels gives us. If there is any-even a temporary interus. If there is any—even a temporary interruption of this—the liver and the stomach suffer conjointly with inactive organs, and still greater mischief ensues if relief is not speedily obtained. A laxative, above all cavil on the score of mineral composition or violent effect, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, approved by the medical profession and a most important item of the family materia medica of American households. It is botanic, painless in action, and if persisted in, effectual.
The stomach and liver, in no less degree and no less promptly and thorughly than the bowels, are regulated and toned by it, and it is su admirable defense against malarial and rheumatic ailments, and a benign remedy for kidney complaints, nervousness and debility
