EDS. INTRILIGENCER, -If it were not so

"funny" it certainly would be surprising at the manner in which the Republican papers—and conspicuously the Examiner— exercise themselves about the nomination of Mr. Thurman as a candidate for the vice presidency, by the Democratic national convention at St. Louis. There is little use in any Democrat subscribing for a Democratic newspaper now, when the Republican journals are ready to give him all the ups and downs, the ins and jouts, the wisdom and folly, the advantages and disadvantages of such a nomination, so elaborately and so disinterestedly, for nothing.

They say it is to add weight and strength to the ticket, and to compensate for the weakness and unpopularity of President Cleveland. Now we ought to be thankful for that little bit of information, for we might look for it in vain in the columns of a Democratic journal. Isn't that what they have been doing for weeks pest, in booming

Mr. Blaine, even sgainst the unqualified wisi and will of the man. They want the Demo ocrats to put up a candidate comparatively unknown to their party and the country, in order to nullify the popularity of the presi-dent; hence they fear the "Old Roman." The Whige made that blunder in 1844 in nominating Frelinghuysen—a good, com-petent man enough, but little known as a Whig and a statesman, or, politician. It was not a name that the common people could intelligent'y hurrah for. In many places in the West-and especially the state of Kentucky-the people were in the habit of hurrabing for "Clay and that other fellow." The Republicans desire the Democrats to commit a similar blunder in 1888,

It is wonderful how anxious the Repub licans are, that the Democratic party should do the right thing for them, in order to acilitate its own defeat. It is manifest now that there are more Democratic voters in the country who are for Thurman " first, last and always" than there have been for any other man since the days of Andrew Jackson. Too old? That's all bosh.

Many men are physically and mentally older at fifty than others are at seventy.

This is being demonstrated daily. Those who are most streauously making use of this argument, are probably themselves in instead of first, as he should have done.

The time marked on the slip for the receip

While With a Party of Ladies and Gentles On the Chesapeake Bay the Steamer Joppa Strikes the Yacht and Mr. Garrett Falls Overboard and Disaprats

BALTIMORE, June 8 -T. Harrison Garrett, brother of Robert Garrett, while yachting yesterday on Chesapeake bay, was run down by a steamer, and it is reported was drowned. Mr. Garrett was manage of the firm of Robert Garrett & Sons, bank-

Further particulars of the accident show that the yacht Gleam, on which was a number of ladies and gentlemen, while cruising off Seven Foot Knoll was ran into by the steamer Jopps, bound from Baltimore for Antwerp.

Mr. Garrett, who was seen to fall overboard, is believed to be the only one drowned. The Joppa struck the Gleam on the port elde just about amidship. Mr. Garrett was last seen by the steward of the Joppa stand ing with one foot on the deck of his yacht and the other over the railing. He had hold of one of the Joppa's chains and when the latter vessel pulled off Mr. Garrett was dragged from the Gleam. The crew of the Jopps at once manned the lifeboats and cruised about until 3 o'clock this morning hoping to find Mr. Garrett's body.

One of the Baltimore & Ohio tugs was sent down with several gentlemen on board. friends of Mr. Garrett, who will remain in friends of Mr. Garrett, who will remain in

A TALK WITH THURWAN'S SISTER.

Mrs. C. Reimensnyder, of This City Chats About Her Brother's Nomination. An INTELLIGENCER representative this morning called upon Mrs. U. Thurman, for the vice presidency of the United States by the Democratic national convention in St. Louis. Mrs. Reimensnyder is the honored wife of the well known clergy. man of that name, is exceedingly intelligent and talked very frankly to the newspaper visitor. "I don't know how my sister in-law

Mrs. Thurman, will receive the news," she said. "She always hoped that Allen would be president. For my own part, I believe it would be more agreeable to them both to live in retirement in Columbus. But the duties of the vice president are not so burdensome, and will probably furnish the needed amount of exercise to keep Mi. Thurman in good health. Mrs. Thurman is eighteen months older than my brother, and was in her day a great entertainer in Washington. She is one of those hospitable southern women, the latch string of whose door is always out. It is nonsense to say, that Allen is in danger of death. He has had rheumatisn, but that does not kill at his age. He needs to be careful of his food and drink, as all men should be at his time of life. My sister watches over him most care fully. The Thurmans are a long-lived family. My grandfather died when he was upwards of eighty, and of his eleven children who lived to maturity, my father, Pleasant Thurman, died at the youngest age. Allen and I are the sole survivors of the family. He is the eldest and I am the youngest.

Mrs. Reimsnyder exhibited some photographs of her brother, and pronounced that which appeared in the INTELLIGENCER at the best of newspaper outs that she had
