Maxwell's Case. coretary Bayard, to whom was ad-med a note by the British minister, sking for a respite in the case of Hugh Brooks, alias Maxwell, the murderer of Arthur Preller, has very properly turned the whole request over to the Missouri state authorities. Maxwell and his victim were English subjects, and it is said that English interference is now due to the declaration by Maxwell's attorney that a deep grounded prejudice exists in Missouri against the prisoner. Secretary Bayard says: " As to the merits of the case I know nothing, as it is a matter in which the state department can take no ction. The case arose in the state of lissouri, and the conviction was had there and sentence pronounced in that state. It is thus left solely for the state to determine what shall be done. I am of the opinion that it cannot be made a national question. The governor of Missouri will doubtless act upon the British minister's request as he may feel inclined pel him to act." This is good, sound sense. No federal interference with matters essentially pertaining to a state. Maxwell's crime was most brutal; he has been given every chance to prove his innocence; and the final disposition of his case may be safely left in the hands of the Missouri authori-

No State Monopoly.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Higbee in his paper on "Text Books and Legislation Pertaining Thereto," read before the meeting of the National Educational association in San Francisco, demolishes the proposition that a state should enter into the bookmaking market, publish books at low at and enforce their use in the schools. As Dr. Higbee says, this proposition is at war with the whole theory of our government. If we concede that the state should go into book-making, then why not the manufacture of farming implete for the farmer and cheaper clothing for the individual citizen?

No doubt these could be made cheaper than under the present regime of individual business competition. But the maving would bear no proportion to the see that would be built up by a state oly, having all the state machinery to uphold and advance it. Paternalism would wax stronger every day; and the earth, would soon be nothing and the government everything.

Miss Willard at Chicago. One of the very strongest advocates of the abolition of the tax on whisky is Miss Willard, president of the Women's Christiano Temperance union of this country. Probably the Lancaster Intelligences has observed this.—Lancaster Inquirer.

Very true. And if the Inquirer will read elsewhere in this issue of the INTEL LIGENCER, it will discover how Miss Willard was treated by the Republican convention in Chicago. She went before the convention with a memorial in behalf of prohibition. That memorial was thrown upon the floor and was covered with tobacco spit. This is on the authority of ex-Gov. St. John, whom we believe to be a more authoritative representative of Miss Willard than our Republican-loving and rum-hating contemporary, the Inquirer.

A Transparent Game.

A great deal of alleged political capital is being made out of the fact that nearly every day in Indianapolis witnesses crowds going to greet Gen. Harrison, the Republican candidate for presiden , from all parts of the state. What this means is well told by a recent visitor to Indianapolis, who says: "The excursion trains which run to Indianapolis daily and which the newspapers report as carrying thousands of pilgrims who go to worship at Harrison's shrine is part of a scheme to make money for the railroads and has no political significance what. ever. There is an immense population within a radius of one hundred and fifty miles around Indianapolis-a population larger than that about Albany, or even Boston. These people go to Indianapolis to shop and otherwise avail themselves of a holiday in the city at a trifling expense.

But even this game to create Republican enthusiasm is not likely to last much longer. Already the vicinage has been scoured to keep up the procession and the fact that the railroads are deriving the chief profit from the scheme will soon fully dawn upon the people and perhaps upon the benighted followers of Har-

What arrant nonsense! The record shows that President Cleveland has signed 1,264 pension bills, against 1,524 signed by all his Republican predecessors from Lincoln down to the present time. In other words, one Democratic president in three and one-half years has signed nearly as many pension bills as all the Republican presidents signed in wenty-four years. It is about time that the Republicans ceased their efforts to the president on his pension

West Orange street, between the Ma-rietts and Columbia tumpikes, has been sleely macadamized and rolled by the heavy street roller; but we venture to a. y is is the only street in Lancaster that has thus been macadamized before curbs were set and gutters laid. The street at this point has been raised considerably above the grade of the private property on the south side of it, and in case of heavy rains the surface water will be carried down into these properties. The idea of piking streets before curbs are set and gutters laid to carry off the water, seems to be preposterous and contrary to city ordinance, and smells largely of jobbery. On this point read section 17, page 174 of the city digest for ordinance on the subject of owners of lots of ground, laying pavements and curbstones.

REV. DR. J. B. VINCENT, who has made some reputation as the leading spirit of the gathering at Chantauqua, and who was recently chosen by the Mathodist church as one of its bishops, seems to be anxious to play the part of a Burchard in this campaign. When asked his political semiments he replied: "I am an anti Romanist and therefore a Republican." This was and therefore a Republican." This was published some time ago and we did not credit it. But remaining underlied, it must be accepted as true. When a man of Dr. Vincent's position stoops to this low grade of intolerance, religion must hang her head and weep.

THE Pennsylvania School Journal prints this month a very interesting paper on "The duty of the high school to support the college." It was read by Wm. T. Harris, LL. D , of Concord, Massachusetts, before the Pennsylvania State Teachers' association at Scranton, July 4.

THE N . W York Tribune condemns the Senate substitute tariff bill as a "fatal blunder." No, the fatal blunder was the free whisky plank in the Chicago platform.

His first newspaper work was on the Easton Argus in 1883.

A Versatile Scoundrel. United States detectives left Chicago for San Francisco on Sunday for the purpose of arresting William Rains, alias Raymond, alias Bulby, Baptist minister, spiritualist medium, gambler and train robber, for whom they have been searching since 1877. They expect to reach San Francisco to-day and to arrest him at once at No. 45 to-day and to arrest thin some playing the sixth street, where he is now playing the role of state writing medium. The officers allege that in 1877 he robbed a mail car role of slate writing medium. The officers allege that in 1877 he robbed a mail car near Austio, Texas, binding and gagging the clerk, and securing about $3,000. In 1875, under the name of Rains, he held a successful revival meeting in Hearne, Texas. While it was in progress a train was held at the depot because of an accident, and the trainmen attended the revival services. Rains pleaded illness and was not present. The mail car was robbed of $4,000. Rains was arrested, convicted and sentenced to four years' imprisonment for the crime. In prison he developed all of the symptoms of consumption, and was finally parioned by R. B. Hayes in 1877 and disappeared oompletely for a time.
Subsequently he appeared as a slate writing and materializing medium in New York and Chicago. Last week the detectives located him in Francisce, and left, as stated, for the purpose of taking him into constody.

Et ta Metz's Fatal Negative. William Myers, of Waynesburg, O, had been paying attention to Miss Etta Metz for a year or two. Thuestay night to called on her and asked her to marry him, when she reinsed. He waiked to the door without saying a word and shot himself in the head with a revolver, dying in a few minutes in the girl's arma. She said she had refused him to test his love, and is now aimset distracted with grief. Myers was a promising young merchant. Miss Metz is a member of a wealthy family, handsome and accomplished. THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE IN THE UNITED STATES.

An Exception to the General Rule in the Presidential Years-The Favorable Crop Reports at Home and the Unfavorable Indication to France and England.

The popular impression that duliness in ousiness is always an accompaniment of a presidential contest is not borne out by the ondition of affairs this year. As the presidential campaign progresses business seems to steadily improve. The reports as to the condition of the different trades are, with a few exceptions, very favorable.
Both commercial agencies agree as to this.
"Our advices," Bradstreet's will say to-day, "show unexpectedly early signs of a revival in asveral lines of general of a revival in asveral lines of ge-eral trade. In some lines the improvement has already begun, notably in dry goods and boots and shoes. The greatest relative increase in the volume of general trade has been at Boston and Philadelphia, Louisville, Chicago and at the Northwest."

K. G. Dun & Co. say that the volume of trade is now fully equal to that of last year at this date, and that while iron and woolen trades have materially decreased, business in groceries, lumber and farm products generally is large, and confidence in improvement at no distant day grows atronger. This confidence has a substactial basis in the crop prospects, which grow more satisfactory each week. These favorable statements are confirmed by other reports, and altogether the business outlook is in marked contrast to that existing look is in marked contrast to that existing look is in marked contrast to that existing in the last presidential year. Then there was depression in nearly all parts of the country. On Wall street there was a financial crash, the effects of which were fell everywhere. Confidence was impaired by the gigantic swindle of Ferdinand Ward and James D. Fish, and by the epidemic of defalcations and breachts of trust. This year there is an entire absence of these causes of depression, and while stock succutation is parrow, and sence of these causes of depression, and while stock speculation is narrow, and there is no brilliant boom in general busi-ness, yet the movement of trade is of large volume, firancial operations seem to be on a solid basis, and the outlook is bright in spite of the tariff agitation. Much of this improvement is due unquestionably to the fa-vorable crop prospects, sa our agricultural products are the basis of our national pros products are the basis of our national pros-perity, though, of course, our mineral wealth and manufacturing lodustries are impor-tant contributors. The wheat and corn crops are naturally unknown quantities as yet, but it is underliable that all the indi-cations point to a large yield. Many pre-dict that the spring wheat crop will be larger than ever before. Accompanying these favorable crop prospects at home are reports of bid weather abroad, indicating a partial failure of the wheat yield in England, France and Italy. The weather this month will deter-mine the amount of the deficit. There was mine the amount of the delicit. There was a big speculation here this week, based on the crop reports from abroad. About 99,-000,000 bushels changed hands in the opticn trading, and prices advanced 5 cents a bushel. The reports of improved weather yesterday and to-day, however, caused a reaction. If there is a large deficit in the crops of England and France, the United States will resp the benefit of their mistortupe by an increased demand for our wheat, unless the Colcago and New York speculation runs up the price to product that tion runs up the price to a point that will check the export movement. We have com-petitors in the wheat market, and Russia and India are likely to have more wheat to sell this year than last, and this is a circum-stance that the wheat speculators would do well to keep steadily in mind.

ST, JOHN'S RINGING WORDS.

The Temperates Chieftain Pours Hot Shot Upon the Republican Par y. At the Prohibition state convention in Glyndon, Maryland, on Thursday, Ex-Governor St. John, of Kansas, spoke as follows:

"The Republican claimed to be a party of moral ideas, and that it had its origin in a great moral issue. It claimed to be a party that was the advocate of the temperance cause. Miss Willard, as a representa-tive of American womanhood, went before the convention of that party with a memorial in behalf of prohibition. That m morial in beauti of the floor and was covered with tobacco spir. [A voice, 'Then it was that I left the party.' S. John, with a forcible gesture, 'Then it was that I left the party.' It would have been better if the Kepublicans had inscribed on their banners protection to the home, and not dismissed prohibition with the sneer that it was only a side issue. They said if the Democrats came into power the country would come to ruin.

"In 1884 the Kepublicans were defeated by their own cowardice. After three years of Democratic rule, in which the country has not been ruined nor the negroes te nas not been ruined nor the negroes re-onslaved, it was to be hoped that the Re-publicans would get the better of their cowardice. But they said the great issue before the people is the tariff and the sur-plus. That has been the old cry used to pull would over the eyes of the people. It was heard of before the young men of this day were born. A member of Congress told me to day that the surplus reaches $150,000,000, wring from the peckets of the $160,000,000 wrung from the pockets of the people, and is increasing at the rate of $500,000 in every 24 hours. If this is not stopped it will absorb all the circulating medium of the country. The Democratic plan of reducing this surplus is not very clear. But the Republican platform is ex-plicit. It says the tax on tobacco is a burden upon agriculture. [Laughter] The Prohibitionists propose to reduce the tax on blankets. There is the issue. The Prohibitionists stand up a blanket and the Re-publicans stand up a plug of tobacco

"The Republicans say they want the tariff taken off liquor used in mechanics and the arts. That would open the door to all sorts of fraud. The man from the coun-try will drive to town for whisky to raise a barn, and that would be for mechanical purposes, and he would want whisky to paint his nose, and that for use in the arts. The Republican platform says manufactures must be protected, which means that monopolles must be continued. God knows we are monopoly ridden to-day, and the we are monopoly ridden to-day, and the burdens are piled upon the people that monopoly may prosper. It is a monstrous proposition, and the people will repudiate it at the polis. For every dollar that is provided for the shoring man, $10,000 is given to capital. [Voices, 'That is so ?]

'The tariff has given to the country more millionsires and more tramps that it has ever had before. In New England not one operative in 100 owns a house, and yet the Republicans talk of protection of American labor. There is free trade in labor and labor. There is free trade in isbor and man's muscles, but necessaries of life must be protected. Railroad makers this hot weather in Kansas were paid $1.10 a 'a', a mere pittanca. But the companies secure Italians at 90 cents, and the American labor or at $1.10 has to secure. Vanderbitt, with his $200 000,000, Gould and Leland Stanford with their $100,000,000 cach not only control the high-ways of the country, but they go to Washington, and control legislation for the monepolies. Oats sold last week in Kansas at 1734 cents, and wheat at 50 centr, monopolies. Oats sold last week in Kansas at 174, cents, and wheat at 50 cents, and labor is paid 88 cents, and yet the Republicans talk such stuff as protection. The poor man in Kansas asks that the tariff may be taken off of lumber and salt and vital necessaries, but the Republicans will not let him. The speaker sale, have a commission appointed to assess the true value of the railroads, and let the government of the people, by the people and for the people. He would rather have power concentrated in the government than in centrated in the government than in Gould, Vanderbilt and other millionaire could, vancerbit and other millionaire monopolists. He would elect United States senators directly by the people, and there would not be twenty five millionaires in the Senate. That is an aristocratic body and a stench in the nest is of the people. He is for fair trade, and that does not mean tree trade.

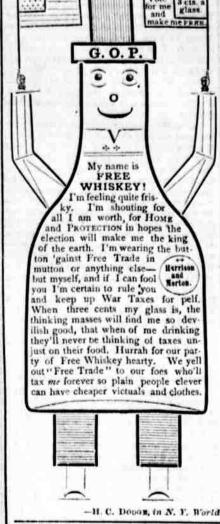

tree trade. "This tariff talk is intended to head off This tariff talk is intended to head off the prohibition issue. The Mills bill was passed in the House. The Senate ladiscuss-ing the best way of carrying the doubtful states. Not one word is said in either the Democratic or the Republican platform about the protection of the home. Not a single proposition is made for the reduc-tion or the surplus in pauperism or crime in this nation. That is the great question of this hour. No amount of humbuggery, no amount of deception will keep this issue no amount of deception will keep this issue from the people.

"The temperance and morality plank in the Chicago platform had been submitted to Sheridan Shook, the great brewer of New York. The only objection of Mr. Shook was that it was not strong enough on temperance, but he thought it was per-bape as strong as the Republican convention would take it. After a drunken revelry of a week at Chicago a drunken canons was beld on Sunday and the nominations were made on Monday, and then they put in at the last moment the Boutelle temperance and morality plank. It is not as strong as the resolutions passed by salcon-keepers in the convention. That Republican platform is an insult to every Christian man. The cowardice of the church has driven Christians to infidelity, and if it was not for his faith in God he would have been driven to infidelity long ago. The high license salcon is just as good and pure as the law that authorizes it, and as good as the church descon who votes for the salcon. [Voices, "That is so!"] The Prohibition army will march around the whisky Jericho until the walls crumble and fall. [Applause.] [Applause.]
