vine. - From the Atlanta Constitution. LET MOTHERS TARE HEED.

For Protection of Children During the Hot Let children have free access at all times to good, cool water. Not ice water but water cooled with ice. Lat their food te plain and nutritious. Meats are injurious and develop feverishness. Fruit of all kinds should be on the table at every meal but great care should be exercised in selecting it. Unrip) or decayed fruit of any kind is not fit to eat. Don't buy it at any price. Drinking at meals to excess is injurious ad children only indulge in it when they have not the opportunity to quench thirst when nature requires it. On arising from sleep, either in the morning or during the day, a sponge bath, as it is called, should always be had. But a sponge is a dirty article unless great care is exercised to keep it clean. A much better article is made by utting an ordinary towel in two or three earls, take one of these and after dipping n not too cool water and wringing it, wash in not too cool water and wringing it, wash down the body. If a little pure castile scap is used it will be better. Any child can be cooled off in this manuer in a few moments, brightened up and made to enjoy rather than suffer the heat.

The same process should be adopted on retiring at night. Don't use too cool water for ablutions. Hydrant water is cool enough, Children treated in this manner will perspire freely when slightly over heated and thus be promptly relieved. They will perspire freely when slightly over heated and thus be promptly relieved. They will rarely be troubled with prickly heat and never to any serious extent. If a child is restless during the night and does not perspire but feels feverish, a rub down in the above manuer will often give relief and insure refreshing sleep during the rest of the night.

The Haudsomest Lady in Lancaster Remarked to a friend the other day that she new Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and ungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped or cough instantly when others had no effect hatever.
