OF THEN PLINN & BRENE WAN'S HORSE TOOK A LONG HUN.

The Antwal In His Wild Flight Sirthes Wagon and Breaks Off a Pump-A Little Girl Heroleally Saves Another Child From Belog Injured.

A frightful runsway, in which several hildren narrowly escaped being killed, oc-arred in the northwestern part of this city this forencen. Several men, in the employ of Films & Breneman, were at work at a house on Mary streets bove Lemon. While bey went into the house they left the horse, sitebed to the business wagon of the firm, tending outside. The snimal managed to nated on a flying trip around town. He me to the corner of Mary and Letnon streets ad took to the pavement in front of Barry Hamp's tuicher shop. He ran under the awning and the wagon struck against one of the poets, breaking it off close to the pave

On the step of Mr. Hamp's house a little Saughter of John Ergroff, of No. 444 West Lemon street, was sitting. The wagon struck the steps, emsehing them to pieces, was almost a miracle. She was picked up and taken to her home and Dr. Shirk was summoned. He found that she had a slight out on her forehead and her back was bruised, but her injuries are not serious. After striking the step the horse left the pavement and rea down Lemon street to Charlotte. Here he turned to the right and ran down on the pavement to the running pomp. The wagon struck the pump, breaking it off and knocking the trough into the street. A very short distance from this pump some children were playing on the pivement. Among them was Herbert Suffer, a quite small boy who was in an express wagon. Annie Hughes, a nine year-old girl, saw the horse comin on the pavement and knew that the little boy would be killed if he remained there. she ran out, caught the child, and really enatched him from the Jaws of death. She just succeeded in getting him off the pave nent as the horse dashed by and in an other instant he would have been killed. The bravery of the little girl is the topi of conversation in that part of the town. Toe horse left the pavement soon after this narrow escape and ran to Walnut street, where he turned towards the railroad. At the corner of Mulberry he ran into one of Daniel Trewitz's wagons, and, tearing the serness, became loose from the wagon He was afterwards caught on Water street wagon was the breaking of one shaft and a

THE TOUNG REPUBLICANS

The Sus-Stocking at-mbers Enocked Out of The Young Republicans have flually de cided upon a uniform. For months the club has been discussing the style of uni form to be worn, but there were two factions and an agreement could not be reached The bine-bloods and slik stocking member wented an expensive uniform and this was objected to by some of the young fellows who could not afford to buy an expensive suit and were too proud to have the Repub lican office-holders pay the bill. Those who favored a high-priced suit prevented an adoption of a uniforn at the last few meetings, expecting to be able to muster s crowd large enough to carry their programme through. The low-priced fellows were determined to have a uniform of their own selection or none at all, and they carried their point. They turned out in force last night and after a long wrangle the following was the uniform adopted : A white duck coat with red and blue seams, white cap and torch. The cost of the uniform will be about $3, and although the club has a membership of over three hunfred, a prominent Republican this morn ing offered to bet that not one-half of the imbers would pay for their own uniforms. Reverdy's Remedy for the Shakes. EDITORS INTELLIGENCER .- Many years ago, before the grandson of his grandfather was thought of as a candidate for the pres idency, the following story was current smong the political story tellers. Perhaps ome application may be made of it now : Reverdy Johnson, of Maryland, had charge of William Henry Harrison, and was show ing him round to admiring crowds. He was shaken by the hand to such a degree that danger of dislocation of the joints was apprehended, and severe pain was feit at every repetition of the shake. A brilliant idea occurred to the Maryland statesman. He hurried off to an orthodox Whig print ing office and then got a placard printed in bold letters, which fitted neatly to the general's bat, upon which was the legend NO GREAT SHAKES.

It is one of the mooted questions from that day to this what Reverdy meant should erstood by his placard. Perhaps in the light of the experience of the grandson of his groudfather you can give us the cor reet interpretation.

BURGLARY AT QUARRYVILLE. John P. Sater's Cigar store and Res suran

Broken Open-Money and Stock Stolen, Some time_during last night the restau rant and eight store of John F. Suter, in Quarryville, was broken into by burglars. They succeeded in opening the cellar grate and then made their way up stairs. They stole between 600 and 700 flue cigars, a lot of plug tobacco, two dezen boxes of sardines, a quantity of cakes, candles, $14 in money, and some other articles. The money was in a pocketbook, in a desk, which was locked. The thieves must have had a key to fit the lock, as they opened without breaking it.

Tals morning the pocketbook, which had contained the money, was found ness Raub's store, and an empty clear box that had been thrown away was picked up back of Mr. Sater's restaurant. At an early hour this morning three ugly look ing tramps were seen lettering around the village. After they had left, going in a southerly direction many people supposed that they were the thieves. George W Hensel, Jr., and Harry Raub started in pursuit of the men and overtook them a Unicorp, five miles below Quarryville They searched the men but found no money and they were allowed to depart. Other tramps who were encamped at Hess station were searched, but nothing was found to connect them with the burglary. There seems to be an impression that some one in the village who was well ac-

The other day several boys and to via ming in the creek in year of the stome distiliery. They found a cracked demijohn in the water, which they threw on the bank, when they noticed something wriggling about inside. Imagine their surprise to doft in it a sucker over a foot long, so large that it could not escape from the broken vessel. It must have found its way inside some time ago, and liking the jug as a hiding place, remained there until it grew too large to get out.

George Rahl Before Alderman Spurrter for Last evening George Rubl, a boy about 15 years of age, had a bearing before Aiderman Spurrier on the charge of assault and and battery upon Clarence Knight, a boy not more than half his size. The hearing attracted a large crowd of urchine, who were friends of the parties interested and witnesses in the case. They were hard to keep quiet and as each one was called up o the witness stand the others kept tittering as though greatly amused. The boys all live in the south western part of the city. The vidence showed that about a week ago Kuight was walking along the street wearing a cap with the word "Cleveland" on the front. Ruhl and some companions were on the other side of the street. Rubl cried cut "Oh, there goes a Democrat," and picking up a stone threw it at Knight It struck him on the leg, inflicting an injury from which he is still suffering and is un able to put on a shoe. The accused admitted that he threw the stone and said he did not think of hurting Knight. The father of Knight did not care to prosecute the case further and the suit was compromised and dismissed. The alderman gave the boy a severe reprimend, telling him that he had thrown the stone without any provocation, as boys have a right to wear what kind of caps they see fit. The giggling boys then left the office. A Carions Cass.

Last night about baif-past ten o'clock Jonathan Hellinger, of Strawberry street, called at the residence of Alderman Pinker ton, roused him out of bed, and demanded a warrant for the arrest of 'an unknown man" on a charge of adultery with the wife of said Hellinger, the unknown man being then in Heilinger's house, complainant stating that he bad been in the habit of going there every Tuesday and Thursday night. The warrant was issued and placed in Constable Yelsley's hands, who went to Hellinger's house to serve it. The unknown man was not found there, but Constable Yeisley arrested Mrs. Hellinger and carried her off to the lockup where she spent the night. She secured ball this morning and was released for a hearing.
