his Western tour fails to please certain editors because the facts were taken from an American encyclopædia. Our con-temporary the New Era indulges now and then in a reflection of this kind, and the other night was particularly pleased to note that Belva Lockwood failed to use the encyclopædia. It would be quite as sensible for our contemporary to find fault with the president for the use in his message of statistics gathered by the government bureaus. It might with squal force criticise his references to treaties and quotations from the laws. When the president deals with state affairs be uses liberally every source of information, and his work is clearly shown to have a solid basis of carefully selected facts. When traveling through the land for the study of its needs and resources his spe as plainly showed a careful study of the most reliable sources of information. The president was reviled as the friend of Britain, because he sought a peaceful solution of difficulties, and he was sneered at for want of originality, because he was not beneath learning from books. He has shown a firm and bold patriotism above question, and an ability to produce state papers of marked individualism and acknowledged power. It is time that these contemptible insinuations of feebleness were shamed into oblivion before the patent facts of his originality, self-reliance and courage.

THE assessor's book is now at the place where the election will be held on November 6. Every Democrat should go there before Friday and see whether his name is properly recorded.

THE following recently appeared in the Williamsport Sun; "The Williamsport wagon company to day shipped to Alfred Arnold, of Halifax, England, a handsome Surrey carriage of its manufacture. Mr. Arnold is an extensive wire manufacturer and purchased the Surrey while in this country, having been in this city doing business with the Williamsport Wire Rope ompany."

Lancaster is a great centre for the manufacture of light carriages, and there can be little doubt that under a reform of the tariff, which would compel an interchange of American manufactures with the products of other lands, Lancaster vehicles would be shipped to Europe and South America. Our vehicles are light, strong and cheep and how an independence of design quite foreign to the English, while inventive genius has been given full play in improving fittings and running gear.

THURSDAY, September 6, is the last day on which voters can be registered. If a voter is not assessed he cannot pay, and If he has not paid a state or county tax within two years before the 6th of Novem-ber next he will lose his vote. It is, there fore, very important that every voter should see to it that he is properly registered and sesemed.

A PAMPHLET copy of the present tariff law and of the Mills bill, together with elab-crate tables showing the affect of the proposed legislation, has been prepared for the committee on ways and means by Clerk Henry Talbot. The tables are so arranged as to present at a glance the effect of the Milis bill as it passed the House by an application of the rates under it to the im portations for the fiscal year ending June 80th, 1887. Each article is named, the rate of duty at present and the proposed rate with the equivalent ed valorem duty and the quantity and value of the importation for the year. Then two additional parallel columns give the duty that was actually collected and the estimated amount of the duty that would have been collected under s, but the average scholar very soon the proposed, biti. The most striking thing of the effort and wishes that the about the tables is the comparatively small a nout of the reductions taken separately ugh the total amount of duties remitted if this measure had been applied in 1857 would have been $49,486,240. Topacco liquors and slik goods are not affected by the bill, and the duties collected on these articles in 1887 amounted to $32 070.301.

If the free list of the Mills bill had been n force for the fiscal year that ended on June 30, 1887, the taxes would have been $19,773,590 less. That was the tariff on those articles in the time-hamed, and nearly six and a half millions of it was on wool, while $5,706,433 was on tin plates, an $1 030,200 was on lumber. We paid a tax of $103,648 on olive oil, which no one dreams of making here, and though it is notorious that most of this oil is adultersted with American cotton seed oil, sent abroad for the purpose, only $3.75 duty was collected on that article of home manufac-

REV. B. F. DAVIS, who has served nearly a year in a Boston jall for preaching on the Common, gets out this week. Rev. Davis persisted in using the Common as a ground for open air services after he had been frequently admonished that it was a violation of local ordinances to do so.

JUDGE HAMMON, of Cincinnati, O., has a peculiar method of reaching his decisions in the cases presented to him in the United Sistes court. After a case has been tried he retires to his library and walks around the room, sometimes for hours, until be has reached a conclusion. He has worn a track in the carpet by his judicial pedestrianism. Rev. Joseph V. Koch, of Shamokin, Pa., has been appointed vicar general of the Roman Catholic diocese of Harrisburg. The previous amound ement of the appoint ment of Rev. M. J. McBride was incorrect. Rev. Koch was born in France about 50 years ago, and came to this country about 22 years later. He was ordained in Philaciphia, when 24 years of age, and his first appointment was at Mifflin. From Mifflin Father Koch was sent to Shamokin and has since remained there. He is one of the most popular priests in Central Pennsylvania and his appointment gives general estisfaction.

The Milis bill will effect a saving to the farmers of this country of about $10,000,000 every year. This saving will apply to the farmers alone. If the farmers are benefited by a reduction of the tariff the wage-workers in other departments of isduetry will also be benefitted. The farmers should carefully study the following comparative table, and they will learn for themselves just how much and in what way the Milis bill will save them:

Stilled Herself and Children.
Saturday night Mr. Steine, of Delphi, near Cincinnati, discovered that his wife and two children who had been missing since Tuesday last had been drowned. The shock was the more intense as it is believed that the mother in a fit of insanity had dragged the children into the river with her—a girl and a boy aged 0 and 10 years respectively. Mrs. Steine had been suffer-ing from melancholy, but no one feared suicide.
