LANCASTER, NOVEMBER 8, 1888. The Dudley Letter.

The letter of Treasurer Dudley, of the Republican national committee, giving orders for the management of Indiana floaters, is worthy of careful study. At-tention is particularly called to the closing lines of the first long paragraph. After minute directions for the management of fleaters and for inducing men to work the entire day at the polls, Treasurer Dudley gives the following assurance:

" The result will fully justify the sacrifice the time and comfort, and will be a source of satisfaction afterwards to those who help in this way. Lay great stress on this last matter. It will pay." How will the above please the citizen who believes in civil service reform? What is meant " this last matter" on which great stress is placed? How will it "pay" the political vulture who is to be trusted with this ugly work of managing voters in blocks of five? How but by a division of the spoils in open defiance of the maxim that public office is a public trust? Note, also, the solid assurance of the treasurer: "There will be no doubt of your receiving the necessary assistance through the national, state and county committees"; and the instruction "divide the floaters into blocks of five, and put a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five, and make him responsible that none get away and that all vote our ticket."

The voters will be apt to take care that this open avowal of a determination to rule the republic by money is rebuked. Note again that the supporters of President Cleveland, including the Democratic veterans who fought for the flag, are called "the rebel crew." When a leader publican party, can be guilty of so malevolent an expression, no further proof should be needed of the unfitness of that organization to carry on the work of cementing the Union achieved at so fearful a cost. Colonel Dudley says that if every Republican will do his whole duty the country will pass into Republican hands, " never to leave it, I trust." Place the accent on the "trust" and remember Col. Dudley's peculiar notions about duty. Is there not a patriotic ring of a false kind in his declaration that the "rebel crew" above referred to can't steal this election as in 1884, " without some one getting hurt"? Pleasant sentiments these for a quarter of a century after the war, in a land of law and order.

In Three Great States.

Pennsylvania may astonish General Harrison on Tuesday. The Harrisburg Patriot publishes a canvass of this state giving estimates from sixty-four of the sixty-seven counties, which give a total majority for Cleveland of 20,675. The counties not included are Allegheny, Lancaster and Philadelphia, and if these three give less than 40,000 Republican majority the state will not give Harrison 20,000 majority. Such a marshalling of Democratic hosts as New York saw on Saturday night was a glorious assurance of victory ahead. All factions were there proved eager and firm in support of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, howdaylight past Mr. Levi P. Morton must have strained hard to feel enthusiastic over that most unpromising and silent stick of [presidential timber, while, out in Ohio, Thurman, our grand old man, was talking vigorously to laboring men on the issues of the campaign. And by the way, the voters of that state are giving indications of a just pride in their share of the Democratic ticket. Hon. James B. Townsend, chairman of the state Democratic committee, thinks that there is a great Ohio surprise in store for the Republicans, and a correspondent of the cautious Baltimore Sun thinks it safe to say that out of the twenty-one districts the Democrats will carry nine congressmen, with splendid fighting chances for two more.

Several Comparisons.

The New Era attempts to compare the management of the treasury of the United States under the two parties and finds it necessary to go back to the days before the war. Without repeating the answer already given to persistent misrepresentations of the causes of depression before the war, we will simply refer to the recent treasury reports as evidence of Democratic care of the people's funds and to a ruined navy, the bounties to bondholders. the waste of the lands of the people by lavish gift to railroads, and the financial scandals in official circles that distinguished Republican administration. The Era asks, "Whom can the people trust with most confidence, the party which has given the country a full treasury or the one that depletes it?" We believe that the people will answer that they can best trust the party that has declared the nation does not need a full treasury, the party that protests against hoarded millions of money raised largely by taxation on raw materials of manufacture and on the necessaries of life, the party that has proved the true friend of the honest self-respecting soldier, the enemy of the bounty jumper, and pension shark! We agree with our contemporary that facts are not to be set aside by itle declamation, and we search its article in vain for a specimen fact. Facts about this business will not bear quoting in the Era's columns. If our contemporary must go so far back in history for a comparison that is pleasing we would also invite attention to a comparison of the sort it revels in, a comparison of this campaign with the ones before the war as lately made by the eminent Mathew Hale, of Albany, a Republican authority. Mr. Hale who supported Mr. Cleveland in 1881, and who still supports him, has written a letter about things of present interest. He night : says that there has never, within his recollection, been a political campaign in which any party has resorted so persistently and uniformly to misrepresentation of facts as the Republican party has done during this campaign. "There have been many campaigns where there has been greater personal villification, but none, to far as my knowledge extends, where, under the pretense of argument based upon statistics and facts, such facts and statistics have been so generally and universally perverted and falsified."

Phere have been, however, campaigns which resemble the present one to some tent in this respect. The cry of 'tree sande' against all advocates of tariff reduction is raised, just as the cry of 'abolition' was formerly raised against all opponents to the extension of slavery. The adherents of a high protective tariff are as intolerant of any difference of opinion as were the slaveholders just prior to the war of the rebellion. They say, in the language of their candidate, General Harrison, that it is not so much 'the length of the step as its direction,' using almost the precise argument which was formerly used by the slaveholders against any opposition to the extension of slavery."

Mr. Hale reminded his audience how the course of the slaveholders resulted in the abolition of slavery, and said that the similar determination of the monopolists not to submit to the slightest reduction of duties was very likely to result in the total destruction of the system which the election of Cleveland and Thurman would preserve. " No party now desires absolute free trade. There must be a system of duties in order to raise the revenue, and as Senator Sherman has truly remarked, no tariff which is sufficient to raise the revenue required for the purposes of our government can possibly fail to be a 'protective tariff.' "

Awaiting the Verdict.

We need not appeal to every Demo cratic voter to go to the polls to-morrow, for every man, who is a man, will go without urging and exercise the highest privilege he has as a citizen of this great republic,in this election, which is of such vital interest to its welfare

After long exclusion from power the Democratic party ascended to the government of the country four years ago, with a president and House of Representatives, but hampered by an opposition Senate, which has baffled its administraof the faction that now passes for the Re- tion of its affairs in many important matters, especially in its foreign relations. But when has the country been more prosperous than to-day and when has it had a better outlook for a glorious future?

It is an undeniable fact that the Democratic administation has won the good opinion of its intelligent citizens, and bears the esteem of the intelligent world. So clear has this been, that no assault of weight has been made in this canvass upon its conduct, and there has been but one issue, in fact, raised, upon which the people are asked to take the government out of its hands. The charge against is that it is for free trade.

And this charge is false, as every fair and intelligent voter knows. The party advocates a protective tariff, and the Mills bill, the measure upon which it stands, is a protective tariff, which does not even admit free the raw materials of manufacture, save wool. Upon that bill, as a measure of tariff reform, necessary to reduce the taxation which gives us more revenue than we need, the party stands, and upon'it asks and takes the judgment of the country to-morrow.

That the verdict will be in its favor, we have a profound confidence. A party which seeks to gain the victory by lieing about the plain policy of its opponent cannot succeed.

The Democratic party, united and exultant, marches too plainly discerned ever they may be divided on the mayor-alty. The Republicans who marched by that has attracted the attention of the enemy, and has been made the seat of its chiefs and the scene of their machinations, and in which it has had joy because of dissension over local nominations, is solidly united and enthusiastic for the national ticket.

There will be no trading there of the electoral and state against the municipal ticket. The agreement of the local leaders provides against any possible treachery. The ballots of any candidate found treacherous to the general cause, it has been agreed, will be thrown out the Democratic boxes, and the act will be announced by bulletins posted in every election district.

Democrats, you are victors! Cast your rotes and they will bear your candidates to the seats of power!

No wonder Blaine's throat is sore after all the twisted history and distorted fact that he has been pouring through it of late.

THE INTELLIGENCER DAS made extensive arrangements to display the election returns on Tuesday night. Bulletins will be posted, immediately upon their receipt, on the Centre Square front of the editorial room.

THE Democratic county tloset is comjoied of men well known in business ar d professional circles. Horace L. Haldeman, candidate for Congress, is an iron manufacturer of Marietta, who has always been active in the battles for his party. For sev eral campaigns he was at the head of a marching club bearing his name, and through his efforts it became one of the finest organizations in the county. Mr. Haldeman is a cultivated gentleman, and in every way qualified to take the seat to be vacated by Mr. Hiestand. Christian Rowe, for state senator, Thirteenth district, is a merchant of Strasburg, and he would faithfully serve his constituents. The nominees for assembly are men worthy of the support of all good citisens. We need not repeat the warm commerdation we have given Dr. H. E. Westbaeffer, and Mr. James G. McSparran is an officer of the State Grange and well known in his district as an upright and able man. The nominees for the Third district are Mr. J. F. Echternach, hotel keeper of Oreville, Mr. John Riley, dairyman of Manheim, and Dr. William Thome, of Mastersonville For recorder the Democracy offer John Rebman, the well known suctioneer, and for county solicitor Wm. R. Brinton, esq , a brilliant and popular young lawyer. Mr. Franklin Clark, for jury commissioner, is a drover of Straeburg and widely known; and Philip Wall and James Montgomery, for directors of the poor, are hotel-keepers of this city and Mountville. A. L. Winters and Henry F. Hartman are offered for prison inspectors. The former is a farmer and the latter a lime burner of East Lampeter township.

Dear Sir ..

I hope you have kept copies of the lists Such information is very valuable and can be used sent me. to great advantage. It has enabled me to demonstrate to friends here that with proper assistance Indiana is surely Republican for Governor and President, and has resulted, as I hoved it would, in securing for Indiana the aid necessary. Your Committee will certainly receive from Chairman Huston the assistance necessary to hold our floaters and doubtful voters, and gain enough of the other kind to give Harrison and Morton 10,000 plurality. New York is now safe beyond peradventure for the Republican Presidential ticket; Connecticut likewise. In short every Northern State, except possibly New Jersey, though we still hope to carry that State. Harrison's majority in the Electoral College will not be less than 100. Make our friends in each precinct wake up to the fact that only boodle and fraudulent votes and false counting of returns can beat us in the State. Write each of our precinct correspondents, 1st, To find our who has Democratic boodle, and steer the Democratic workers to them, and make them pay big prices for the ir own men. 2nd, Scan the election officers closely, and make sure to have no man on the Board who se integrity is even questionable, and insist on Republicans watching every movement of the election officers. 3rd, See that our workers know every voter entitled to a vote, and let no one else even offer to vote. 4th, Divide the floaters into blocks of fine, and put a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five, and make him responsible that none get away and that all vote our ticket. 5th, Maka a personal appeal to your best business men to pleage themselves to devote the entire day, Nov. 6th, to work at the polls, i.e. to be present at the polls with tickets. They will be astonished to see how utterly dubfounded the ordinary Democratic election bummer will be and how quickly he will disappear. The result will fully justify the sacrifice of time and comfort, and will be a source of satisfaction afterwards to those who help in this way. Lay great stress on this last matter. "It will pay. There will be no doubt of your receiving the necessary assistance through the National, State and County Committees, -only see that it is husbanded and made to produce results. I rely on you to advise your pracinct correspondents, and urge them to unremitting and constant efforts from now till the polls close, and the result is announced officially. We will fight for a fair election here if necessary. The Rebel crew can't steal this election from us as they did in 1884. without someone getting hurt. Let every Republican do his whole duty and the country will pass into Republican hands. never to leave it. I trust. Thanking you again for your efforts to assist me in my work. I remain
