

REFUSED HIS BALLOT.

EDEN TOWNSHIP REPUBLICAN ELECTION OFFICERS PROSECUTED.

F. M. Hanz refused to be a qualified elector of the District, but his vote is rejected—Hanz District Officials arrested for voting a minor.

F. M. Hanz refused his vote at the Eden township polls on Tuesday.

F. M. Hanz, who lives with his father, Dr. F. M. Hanz, whose home is on the line between the townships of Eden and Drumore. Last spring exceptions were taken on his signing a petition for a license, on the ground that he did not live in Eden township, but the court decided that he was a resident of Eden. He was duly registered, and paid his tax and offered to prove that he was a legal voter. Michael Weimer, the judge of election, and E. G. Barr, inspector, are Republicans, and they refused to receive his vote. The facts of the case were telegraphed to Judge Livingston and he replied that upon the facts stated Mr. Hanz was entitled to a vote. This information was communicated to the election officers above named and they still refused to receive the vote. He then brought suit against them for rejecting the vote of a qualified elector and the accused gave bail to the justice of the peace, T. H. Hanz, for trial at court. There are several other cases being investigated and the probabilities are that other suits will be entered.

Complaint has also been made against the election officers of East Drumore for refusing the vote of Edward Lundy, a minor.

His vote was objected to and the election officers were informed by a number of citizens that Lundy was born in 1868 and was consequently a minor. Lundy does not know his own age, but the date of his birth is known to many of his neighbors. Their case will be heard by Justice Hensel Saturday morning.

FIRE AT BIRD-IN-HAND.

Two Barns Burned At An Early Hour This Morning.

The village of Bird-in-Hand seems to be troubled with fires at present. It has been but a couple of months since the torch was applied to a barn and in addition a school house destroyed. This morning two barns were burned and there seems to be no doubt that the fire was of incendiary origin. The barns that were destroyed were owned by Peter Dornheimer and Captain James Casey and were situated just north of the Pennsylvania railroad station and a short distance from the school house. A son of the owner of one of the barns, discovered the fire at one o'clock. The flames broke out from both buildings at almost the same time. The people of the village were aroused, but they could do nothing to save the barns. They then gave their attention to the surrounding buildings. The house of Margaret Griffith, which was near by, had a shingle roof. It was on fire several times, but was saved. The houses of the owners of the barns also caught, but were not damaged to any extent.

In Casey's barn were a horse and two cows, and they were saved.

The following were burned: Two sets of harness, all the farming implements, fifteen tons of hay, one hundred bushels of wheat, nine tons of straw, two hundred and fifty bushels of corn and other grains. The building and contents were insured in the Lancaster County Mutual company for $2,000. The loss above the insurance will be between $50 and $1,000. Besides the barn Dornheimer's carriage shed was burned. Four new wagons, two sleighs, a trotting buggy, and the other contents of the barn including hay, straw, &c, were buried. The insurance is $300 on the contents and $700 on the building in the Farmers Mutual company. This will not cover the loss. A lot of tobacco that was burned in the barn was insured for $500 in the Citizens' company of New York, of which Bauman & Burns are agents. The fire burned fiercely for three hours, arousing the whole neighborhood.

"The Magic Tailor."

At Fulton opera house last evening Alfred Misco and company appeared in the pantomime "The Magic Tailor" to a rather small audience. This style of entertainments do not possess the drawing power that they did in years gone by, and several well-known managers and clowns have gone out of the business. Mr. Misco, who still clings to it, is no stranger to Lancaster. He has been seen here often before and is known as well as the management of others. He is a very good clown and makes plenty of laughter. The company supporting him is not large and it includes William Smead as Pantaloon, Miss Blanche Edwards as Columbine and John Ward as Harlequin. This pantomime, which differs little from all others, was given in three acts, during which several specialties were introduced, including William Smead's dancing barrel, her act of Rossello and Aymar, songs and dances by Miss Fannie Quisham and others.

Mr. Wagner was a member of the Zion Lutheran church, of the Forest and the Young Men's club and was with this club last summer. The funeral will be held on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, services at the house. The remains will be taken to Lancaster and interred in Zion's cemetery. A concert will be held this evening in the parlors of John Fendrick for the benefit of the Presbyterian church. The program will consist of vocal and instrumental music, interspersed with recitations by Major James R. Kenney, of Reading. The following named persons will take part in the entertainment: Miss Eddy and Miss Ely, of York; Misses McCreary, of York; Misses W. W. W. of York; Mr. Clayton Lander, of Lancaster; Mrs. E. W. Goetke and Miss Lillie K. Pfister, of Columbia. The young ladies of the Layton band will hold their anniversary exercises on Tuesday evening, November 13th, in the Methodist church. The ladies, headed by Miss M. H. Layton, are conducting the audience in a short visit to and introduce them to a private apartment of the high caste Hindoo lady. DELLINGER'S SECOND ARREST.

History of the Outrageous Proceedings of His Captors—Arrested Without a Warrant.

The friends of Calvin M. Dellinger, arrested for the murder of his wife—whose dead body was found near the Little Conestoga railroad, west of Lancaster—some weeks ago—are very indignant at what they consider his gross ill-usage by Officers Wittlok and Barnhold. It will be remembered that at the hearing of Dellinger after his first arrest on evidence was produced sufficient to hold him. After his discharge he remained in the city for several days and, the authorities showing no disposition to vindicate justice nor to follow any other clue, he himself offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of the person or persons responsible for his wife's death. Subsequently he went over to visit his parents and there, according to his story, he was kidnapped on Sunday night.

Dellinger says that on Sunday Constable Wittlok and a stranger, who calls himself a Pinkerton detective, appeared in the neighborhood of the elder Dellinger's residence and hung around all day. After nightfall he came to the house where he was visiting his parents; and, without producing or reading, and without having any warrant, they compelled him to go with them some distance to where they had a team. They got him into this and drove some three miles to Getzland. There they took him into a tavern, each of them being armed with a revolver and a bottle of whiskey, out of which they had drawn several "loads." All that night and all next day, Dellinger says, they kept him at that tavern, most of the time padlocked or handcuffed to the chair and bed. Once the "detective" pulled his revolver, pointed it at the hapless and fettered man and commanded him to tell all he knew of his wife's death. They had browbeaten and coerced him and declared they had it "dead on him" that he was at the creek with her.

All attempts to coerce him failing, late on Monday afternoon they transported him to Columbia, and there on Monday night thrust him into the lock-up and kept him all of election day. In the evening of Tuesday he was brought to Lancaster, and there, for the first time, the new complaint was made against him before Alderman Halbach, and a warrant was issued forty-eight hours after his capture by violence and the rough treatment described.

It is thus left in the station house here until Wednesday afternoon, and then handcuffed and taken to prison by Barnhold. All of his appeals to have word sent to his relatives or counsel of his arrest were denied.

The time for his hearing has not been fixed. Alderman Halbach says no warrant was issued by him until Tuesday evening. ALBANY says HALBACH's statement. Alderman Halbach was seen in reference to the Dellinger murder case to-day and he says that while at his office on Tuesday evening, Constables Wittlok and Barnhold and a stranger to him, carrying a grip sack, came in. Barnhold said he wanted to make a complaint against Dellinger for murder. He drew up a complaint and Barnhold signed it. There was no conversation while in the office between Barnhold, Wittlok and the stranger, as to any new facts discovered since the last hearing. The stranger did not say a word while in the office. At the time the complaint was made Dellinger was locked up in the station house. The officers who made the arrest are out of town to-day.

THE CITY LIGHTS.

The Lamp Committee Arrange For Gasoline Lights Throughout the City. The lamp committee met specially on Thursday to consider what arrangements should be made for lighting the city until the Electric Light company can again furnish light. Mr. Morgan, of the Electric Light company, and Mr. Robinson, of the Pennsylvania Globe and Gas Light company, were at the committee meeting. It was decided that Mr. Robinson should furnish gasoline light and be at once ordered lanterns. They are expected to arrive. His company receive $200 per month from the city for the lights furnished under a three years lease and he will only furnish additional lights for a month or two $5 per month are asked. The question as to who shall pay this difference the Electric Light company or the city, will be determined at the next meeting of council.

Charged With False Pretense.

John W. Dennis, charged with obtaining $140 by false and fraudulent representations on complaint of Hildebrand Bros., of Strasburg, cigar manufacturer, was heard by Alderman Halbach in his court. The testimony showed that Dennis, after leaving the employ of prosecutors, collected $140 for a bill of cigars he had sold and appropriated the money to his own use. Decision was reserved until Monday.
