The Daily Intelligencer

LANCASTER, NOVEMBER 13, 1858.

Steplder Than We Thought. The failure of the Democratic national et to make the gains expected for it all parties in the agricultural regions the Northwest, is sought to be exsained upon the ground that the farming munity was not readily reached by eaching of the campaign and that its tional influences did not have time o do their work. But the weakpess of this explanation is that it ignores the fact upon which the idea was based of a Democratic gain in the agricultural regions; which was that they were already permeated with a feeling of ility to protection and that they burned with a desire to reduce their taxes by reducing the tariff.

The election seems to show clearly gh that there is no particular hossility to a high tariff among the farmers, who are supposed to chiefly pay the piper for the manufacturers' tariff dance.

It may be very reasonably urged that this is so because they do not know any better; and that if they were as well informed and as intelligent as they should be, they would be eager for tariff reform and reduction. With the understanding that the agricultural community has shown in this election that its ignorance is so dense that it does not know on which side its bread is buttered, we may admit that these regions would have done better for the Democratic ticket if the campaign had been longer and its education had had sufficient time given it to be instilled into them. But how much time this would have taken is the interesting query; the Democratic teachers will have time to study it out during the next four years. Judge Thurman declares that the people have decided in this election that a tariff is not a tax; and certainly the farmers, upon whom the tariff burthen chiefly falls with the least of the tariff benefit, have shown either that they do not believe this, or that they like to carry the burthen.

Doubtless they do not believe it. The mistake the Democracy made was in giving the farming community credit for an intelligence they did not have. It turns out that they are the people in real need of missionary labor to show them how they are fleeced by a high protective tariff. But the suggestion comes in right re, is the game worth the candle? Is it worth while to save these people from a loss that they enjoy experiencing? Need the Democratic farmers of Lancaster county bother because the Republican farmers, who are two to their one, want high prices for manufactures? If they can stand it, we can.

An Important Decision.

The important news of the day is that the United States supreme court has revised the decision of the lower court in Massachusetts in the Bell Telephone suit, brought by Solicitor General Jenks, to declare the patent void on the ground that it was obtained by fraud. The lower court decided that the United States could not itself sue to avoid the deed on the ground of fraud. This the supreme court says is an error, and it seems at a loss to imagine any reason why it should be so. It declares that it would be a very remarkable state of upon it, as anyone of its citizens could

The fact about this Bell Telephone business is that the immense interests concerned in the patent effected the judgment of the court below. It may not have been corrupt, but Massachusetts is saturated with the Bell Telephone stock, which is held there by a great number of people; and the atmosphere was wholly a Bell atmosphere out of which an antagonistic decision could readily be looked for. Now the prospect is that (the Bell patent will be declared void, as the testimony is very strong that it was fraudulently procured. It has been and is a great incubus upon the business of the country, and it will be a great blessing to it to be rid of the tribute exacted by the monopoly.

Denny and Corea.

Mr. Denny is an American appointed by the viceroy of China adviser of the king of Cores, and he has made a small sort of Sackville of himself by writing a formal memorial or protest against China to Senator Mitchell, of Oregon. The senator in the heat of the discussion of the Chinese bill laid this memorial before the Senate and the Chinese legation promptly forwarded a copy to the vicerov Li Hung Chang, who it is now said has demanded of the king of Corea the dismissal of Mr. Denny. The Corean legation at Washington does not admit that this demand must be obeyed and there is a possibility that Corea may hang on to Denny and defy Li Hung Chang and all China. It looks very much like a deliberate scheme to secure American support of Corean claims to independence for Denny's chief offense is that his memorial is a scathing indictment of China and claims that she really has no rights at all in Corea.

There are several reasons for doubting this, prominent among them the appointment of this American by the Chinese viceroy and his acceptance by the Corean king. That in itself seems an admission of vassalage. Denny, by the way, is quite a character. He has held consular offices in China under Republican administrations and his ability and ambition are referred to by all who claim a right to speak of him. He is intensely American and was a warm friend of General Grant.

In short, he is an impetuous, hot tempered, but clear-headed lawyer, who will not permit himself to be walked over without a row, and there may be hot times in Corea.

HENRY WATTERSON, speaking of President Cleveland, has just paraphrased the famous comment of the French general ratching the charge of Balaklava. The atter exclaimed with astonishment as he onw six hundred horsemen charging an army, "It is magnificent, but it is not war"; and Watterson says of the tariff reform message of the president, "It was agnificent, but it was not politics."

MARY ANDERSON says that she hates Paris dresses; don't like Worth; believes in Alms Tadema's Greek drapery, and nakes her own gowns.

Tun dynamite cruiser Veauvius was repulred to make twenty knots an hour, but in a recent trial made a spurt equivalent to twenty-seven miles an hour. She is ex-pected to make twenty-three knots with the at or Sual trial in a few weeks.

Always take your dynamite foold. A dispatch says: "While Charles Benaun was thawing dynamite near Ketner, Pa., yesterday, it exploded and blew off his head."

It is rumored that an American syndicate is being formed for the control of the rail-ways to be built in Siberis. After a while American syndicates will have a girdle of Carnegie's steel rails around the world. They appear to want the earth.

It has just been decided in a Philadelphis court that a ground rent created in 1793 and made payable in "Spanish milled dollars" may be paid in that coin instead of United States money. If any one had suggested in 1793 that this claim might be made by the rent payer he would have been laughed at.

THE New York Herald's enterprise is continually running away with it and fiequently takes a form not at all consistent with true patriotism. For example, it is at present engaged in a clumsy effort to prove that it would be vary easy for the United States to take sud-den and complete possession of Ber-muda and Halifax in the event of war. Aside from the improbability, that we could do anything of the kind, the discussion of a career of conquest in so prominent a journal is not at all calculated to promote that peaceful feeling that should be encouraged between nations. It is not surprising that some of the Canadian papers take the half humorous and wholly sensational article in dead earnest. The Halifax Telegraph says: "Such is the cool proposi-tion put forward by a leading journal of the United States. It is quite in accordance with the statements of leading public men at Washington, that possession of Canada is to be obtained 'peaceably if they can forcibly if they must.'" To joke safely with John Bull the Herald should follow the plan of Attemus Ward and carefully state

THE New York Tribune is howling about fraud in Virginia, and the whole Republican press is making a great noise over an incredible story of the expulsion of a family of ten persons from a Southern home because of politics. Nonsense! These things may have been prepared for use in case of General Havrison's defeat, and now they cannot afford to waste them

AND there will be famine in the land of Egypt. This is the conclusion drawn by the best authorities from the unusually low water of the Nile for it is well-known that the crops of the great valley of that river depend upon its annual overflow spreading over the level country and irrigating and fertilizing it at the same time. The mud and slime brought dow by the great river comes chiefly from the Athbara which enters the Nile about 175 miles below Khartoum ; and Sir Samuel Baker, who ruled for a while as a pashs in that country, rays that it may be that the Athbara has changed its course and gone wandering off over the desert toward the Red Sea. He even hints that he Mahdi's followers may have broken through the low banks and diverted the course of the river and says that he knows of several places where this would be quite

GENERAL HARRISON finds his circle of friends siarmingly increased since his election, over seven thousand congratula titons having been received by mail and telegraph. What a hungry lot of friends they will prove to be when the offices are to be distributed !

THE death of Lord Lucan, announced in ast evening's telegraphic news, recalls and will perhaps revive the much discussed question of his responsibility for that terrible blunder, the charge of the Light Brigade, at Balaklava. This brigade, made up of companies of dragoons, huzzars and lancers, was a part of the division comthings if the government of all the peo- manded by Lord Lucan and was under the Cardigan, his brother-in-law. The Russian army had made a vigorous attack upon the English position at Busklava and had been repulsed, but occupied a position of great strength. Lord Lucan was seen to give a verbal order to Captain Noise, who at once rode off to the light cavalry and spoke to its commander, who gave thefatal order to charge. Nolan was killed in the first part of the charge, and Lucan always maintained that he had given no such order. He himself displayed the most rockless bravery in the battle, and on many other occasions, and showed such excellent military training that it hardly seems probable he could have made such a blunder. Lord Lucan has another sort of frame not so attractive. He inherited Irish lands densely populated with a tenantry hopelessly poor, and he promptly began wholesale evictions, turning the estates into a great dairy farm. This was the best thing he could do from a coldblooded business view of the matter, but it was not tempered by mercy, and he did not appear to care how much misery the process caused. His character appears to have been stern and soldierly throughout.

Mormons Tarred and Feathered.

Three Mormon elders who had been in Marion county, in the western part of Alabams, about ten days, were tarred and feathered and warned to leave within twenty four hours. It is said the tarring and feathering was done by about fifty of the best citizens of the county, who were in no way disguised. The Mormons begged for their lives and promised to leave at Once, never to return.
