Christmas is coming. The appearance of our store for the last few days showed plainly that we have not forgotten all about it. We have been as busy as we could be opening and marking Christmas goods. We are not one-quarter through with it, but we will get there. What puzzles us is Room, Room, Room. How can we get room? All that carpenters could do has been done. Every available inch of space has been utilized. But we are more crowded than ever.

There is but one way out of this, and that is to sell more

But one way to accomplish it, and that is to mark them down. We shall begin to-morrow and take a survey of our stock, and all such goods as are not fast sellers, no matter how good and staple an article they may be, they must go. Keep your eyes open. Many a thing will be sold at half price, and the bulk at cost. It is no use to attempt to mention prices.

Come and see, it is to your own interest. Come and ask for bargains, and we will gladly show them
