Replaces Coal Oil.

Indian School, Carlisle, Ps., Dec. 25.
This has been a joyous day at the Indian school. Lest night (Christmas eve) the coal oil lamps were thrown out of the school grounds, and their place supplied with the Brush electric are light, of which four large ones are hung on the grounds, and five smaller ones are hung in the school rooms, and the intention is to hang a great many more in the school rooms and halls. The grounds last night were most beautifully illuminated, and the system is thought to be a perfect success.

This morning there was a great exchange of gifts among teachers and scholars, some of them being very costly. At room the scholars sat down to a big dinner, of which between fifty and aixty fine large turkeys were the principal feature. The scholars all had a royal time. At half peat two this morning the Carlisle Indian band donned their new uniforms and paraded around the school grounds. The band is composed of sixteen young men, all capital players. The uniforms are all made of dark bine cloth, trimmed with gold braid, and are very handsome. Ohristmas week will be devoted to entertal ments of all kluds among the girls and boys.
