Now, what's the use o' predictin', say, When seacons turn upoles down ? Yere's Christmas and mary a snowfal drapped.

In country or yit in town.
We hain t heard the jingte o'cleigh bel's, yit;
The weather is just like May;
ha' 'twouldn's surprise me, not a bit,
To see flow'rs a optingin to day.

I've pradicted sigh omter forty year,
But I never was fassed like than!
I've told about bliss trds and big cyclones
'Ithout makin' vary a miss.
But, I s van! tc-lay I am all at sea!
For the signs I saw in the fall—
When corn was heavy and fodder thick—
'Ain't proved any good st all.

I seen the squiri's pile in the nuts
Agin a hard winter, sure;
An' I the't we'll hev snow in mountain drifts,
An', said I, "God help the poor,"
An' he hez -for to them a Christmas green
Means plenty o' work and bread;
But the drivin' snow breaks many a heart
An' makes poverty wish 't was doad,

So it's best, after all, to be just as it is,
And we'll bless the Christmus green
With never a bit of snow or alush,
Hor a bitter gale between.
We're wise sometimes, but we don't know all,
And we'll take what comes as right.
I'd rather see Christmus smile in green
Than frown in a robe of white.
