Following is an abstract of the address:
After expressing a cordial welcome Deminst began his address on the "Insigferance of Skepticlem."
All ettacks, for anti-Christian ends, upon aristicality have been and are of no avail, espitoism imply that the foundation of Christian religion is capable of being about This is to be answered with an conditional negative. A change of bileal conception does not mean that the andation of the Christian religion is stable. No dogma alone is the foundaa. Genuine scholarship of every age is ally to the gospel. The true foundaa of the Christian religion. on. Genuine scholarship of every age is a sliy to the gespei. The true foundaon of the Christian religion is an object we reality—a person—Jesus Christ;

a sxiom, a principle, a self-evidence fact re to be seen as truth. To argue for Chrisian truth on anti-Christian grounds is an arco. Christianity is independent, not sarived. It is absolute, not relative. The flort to win science, by scientific argusent, over to Christianity, is in itself ilnagical. When we assert that skepticism is sagnificant, we only assert the consciousess of Christian truth. No process is more spical than that which asserts that Jesus caligios.

(2) Dose skepticism mean that the progress of the kingdom is impeded? By no means The continuance of the kingdom has been like its founding—ever moving forward and growing. Progress is not always due to favorable circumstances. Intense conflicts characterized the laying the foundation of the kingdom, and its history of nineteen continues has been a history of nineteen continues has been a history of conflicts. Jesus anticipated indifference and enmity. We less now does he look for opposition. The resources of wisdom and power are ever full, yet they are ever being renewed. The hingdom of Jesus Christ wins its supporters often from the ranks of its foes. Itse though hostile are men. They have conceptibilities and spitudes. Meet Christianity on the grounds of Christianity. The spiritual nature of the skeptic is uncertified.

o in the degree that truth is appro-

What really is, then, the significance of exapticism? It means the absence of living faith. By refusing to believe or receive Christ the nominal believer shows himself to be against Christ. Such refusal increases spiritual ignorance. The unbelief of the heart is the seed grain of akepticism. It is marvelous how many unconverted men are nominal believers. To silence skepticism would be but a negative support.

To allers a skepticism would be but a neg-ative support.

Substantial gain is achieved when the support of skepticism is killed. Christianity knows but one method to accomplish this, and that is through Jesus Christ.

Hawthorne eays, "Christian faith is like a grand cathedral with divinely pictured windows. Standing without, you see no glory, nor possibly can imagine any; stand-ing within, every ray of light reveals a har-mony of unspeakable splendors."

That to the best of our knowledge before the said turnpike was made, the reading from Old Factory to Duke street, Lancaster, was in a bad condition and was difficult to maintain; that the act of assembly does not require that the said turnpike if condemned shall not be kept up as a turnpike and that if the said turnpike is condemned and kept up only in the same condemned and kept up only in the same condemned and kept up only in the same manner as other roads it may become as as bed as the road was before the turnpike

Last evening the officers of Stevens Castle, No. 4, Kuights of the Mystic Chain, elected last week were installed by District Deputy John E. Sushong. The deputy was accompanied by an escort of 20 members of Red Rose occumandery in full uniform, and the sight of these Sir Kuights marching into the room 10 abresset with presented swords was one not to be forgotten. All of the installing officers were in uniform and Sievens Castle certainly had a surprise party. This Castle now claims another honor above all other Castles in the state, if not in the other Castles in the state, if not in the country. It probably has the youngest past commander in the order, in the person past commander in the order, in the person of S. K. Chas. Reidel, who is now past commander at the age of 22. There is a past commannder in Philadelphia who is 23 and he was the youngest before. After last night's exercises the district deputy made an interesting speech showing the progress of the order. New Castles are springing up weekly. The order is now in Pennsylvanis, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Indians, Delaware, Connecticut, Kanesa, Missouri, and Nebraska and one Castle in Massachusetta.

ATTACKED ON THE STREET.

A Young Man Lays in Wait For an Enemy George Finefrock and Thomas Loomis are two young men, who reside in the Ninth ward. Some time ago they had a quarrel in which Finefrock slapped Loomis' mouth. Since that time the latter has been very bitter and determined to "do" his enemy at the first opportunity. This morning, Finefrock was on his way to work, about 5 o'clock, when it was yet quite dark. He says that as he turned the corner of Mulberry and James streets Loomis, who seemed to have been lying in wait for him, sprung from an alley. Before Finefreck had time to think or do anything comis struck him on the head with black jack or some other weapon. Finefrock fell to the pavement badly stinned and Loomis took to his heels and made his secape. The attack was so sudden and unexpected to Finefrock that he did not have time to ward off the blow or defend himself in any way. The assaulted man received a very ugly cut in his head which Dr. Yeagley sawed up. It will not be be lithy for Loomis if Finefrock catches im in the near future.
