Nay, give me the o'd days again When poets' blood was red ; When love was warm, and men were men, And fait the things they end : When woman chose to please her heart, And not for others' praise-May, smile; I know my sing song art Is that of other days. - Walter Clarke in January Suble Saik.

Are we to Have Another War?

Are we to Have Another War? Some political prophets aver that we shall. Be that as it may, the battle waged by medical science against disease will never cease until we arrive at that utopian epoch when the human family shall cease to be afflicted with bodily aliments. One of the most potent weapons which the armory of medicine fur-nishes, is Hostotist's Stomach Bitters, which is of special utility se a family remedy, as it is adapted to the immediate relief and ultimate ours of those disorders of the stomach, livers and bowels which are of commones constra-tion are inseparable companions, and these aliments are completely endicated by the Bitters. But the remedial scope of this super-latively wholesome and genial medicine takes in also herrows aliments, rheumatism and bither grouples; its action in these, as in the other complaints, being characterized by un-equalled thoroughness.
