mince-pies and chicken cro-quettes and hash, there must be some way of making the meat that goes into them into little bits. A dozen machines for doing it besides the chop-ping-knife and wooden bowl.

By all odds the simplest and best working Meat Chopper we know of is the Philadelphia. Four pieces only. A child can take it apart, clean it, and put it together again in a few seconds.

The common meat cutter is a grinder. The meat is rolled and jammed and crowded to get through the machine until the juice drips. Every house-keeper knows how the flavor and keeping qualities of meat are hurt by making it into a mushy mass.

The Philadelphia Meat Chopper doesn't grind, it cuts. Meat that passes through it is chopped into bits as a sharp pair of scissors would snip strips of paper. The cutting is by scis-sors action. There is no squeezing and heating of the meat as by other methods. At the first push whatever is to be cut is brought plump against the cutters. A gristle or a stringy piece or a fibre of any kind cannot pass through uncut.
