Shall a wise lesson loars.

First thou shalt view the coil,
Given to thy patient toil;
See how the teaming earth
To all good things gives birth
Half the year cold she lies,
Burted in snow and los,
But when the days of spring
Back the war m sums hime bring,
Mockly she stulies again,
Forgetting all her pain;
And when we wound her fields
Harvest most rich she yielde.
So when wo die is thy heart
Heenly with scho and smart,
Whim pain and perif stund,
And when the rain of griet
Rrings thy spent soul raitef,
See that in song of praise
at til thy faint wide thou raise;
And that then yield brave deed
Although thy weak heart bleed;
Regard then then the ser-

Although thy weak heart bleeds.

Regard thou then the sea,
Which, though so seeming free,
Yet a fixed law obeys
Through all its errant ways.

Harn, how the breakers roar,
Beating upon the shore!
The billows mountain high
Threaten the very sky;
Yet there's no antry wave,
How'se's it form and rave,
Dare in rebellion try
To pass its boundary.

Rear'st thou the water teach
Louder than longue can preach,
Fo shall thy firm set will Govern thy passion still;
Though a fierce war they wage,
Yee, though they storm and rage,
Not one least whit shall they
Thy strong resolve dismay.

Consider than the sir.

Consider then the air,
Which, parsing everywhere,
Although 'tis never seen,
God's greatest boom hath been.
Eo let thy charity
Challenge no human eye,
and while itself doth hide,
Unto mone be denied,
But both on good and ill
Its constant grace distil
Bringing new life and cheer
To thy and fellows here. Mark how the mounting fisme

Mark how the mounting flame,
Returning whence it came,
Ever doth burning rise
To seek the starry skies.
There's no imperious force
May stay its upward course;
This world holds maught so dear
As can detain it here!
So seek thy goal above,
Unmoved by fear or love;
Thus shalt thou learn from fire
Unswerving to aspire
From this cold breast of earth
To heaven that gave thee birth!

A Scrap of Paper Raves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of writing paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time: she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle: it helped her, she bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds.
