THE DEVIL Through the dear
And un louded atmosphere,
Thy palpitating spliables tell in upon the ear

There's a part
Of the art
Of thy music-throbbing heart,
That thrills a something in us that awakens
with a start,
And in rhyme
With the chime
And executude of time,
Goes marching on to glary of the molody subjuite.

And the guest
Of the-breast
Etan thy railing robs of rest is a patriotic spirit as a Continental dressed;
And he looms
Of a century of tombs,
And the blood he spilled at Leriogton in living beauty blooms.

And his eyes

Wear the guise

Of a purp me pure and wise a

As the love of them is it ited to a something in the skies,

That is bright
Rod and White,
With a blur of starry light,
As it laughs in eilken ripples to the brecess day and night.

There are deep

Hushes creep
O'er the pulses as they leap,
And the murmur, fainter growing, on the silence talks asleep.

While the prayer

Elsing there

Wills the sea and earth and air As a heritage to freedom's sons and daughter Then, with sound

As the thunderings resound, And a cry Come thy wild reverberations in a three tha

Like the flag it flutters by, Wings rapturously upward till it neetles is Of, the drum! There is some

. Intonation in thy grum
Monotony of utterance that strikes the spirit

Through the clear
And unclouded atmosphere
Thy palpitating syllables roll in upon the ear!

-James Whitcomb Biley in Wasp. Trials of an Egyptian School Boy.

the Abbott collection of Egyptia

Wm. C. Prime in Journal of Commerce.

In the Abbott collection of Egyptian antiquities, in possession of the New York Historical society, is a bundle of wax tablets, looking not unlike school boys' states of our day. They were the tablets (cerving the same purposes with modern states) of the school boys in an Egyptian school in the Ptolemaic period. On one of the tablets was a copy, a line of Greek, set by the master scross the top of the tablet. (Young readers may need to be told that the tablet was wood, covered with a black waxen composition, in which the boy could; make marks with a sharp stick, like a pencil, and he could crase a mark by smoothing down the wax with the blunt or flatiened end of his stick.)

This boy had worked along just as modern boys work in their copy-books. Probably he got to be weary. At all events he misspelled a word. He carefully erased it, smoothing down the wax, wrote it again, and it was again wrong. He smoothed the wax and wrote the word once more, and once more his wearied brain and his pencil went wrong. Some of you excisism "Confound it!" Some boys in the up country might say "Darn it!" The small Egypties not only said, but with his pencil carniched a Greek word (phihatesthe, it seems to be) meaning just about what one means who mays "Deuce take it!" And there it is to day, the record of a school-boy's little quarret with his own perverse brain, in the days before Cleopatra was born.

The difficulty of administering medicine to young children is entirely overcome by using Dr. Buil's Cough Syrap, the safest, most pleasant and efficient remedy for the little ones. Price to cents.

Bad breath is most always caused by a sick stomach. This can easily be cured. Lazador is the remedy for such cases. Price 25 cents.
