Portable Jails.

Besides expressing amazement and orror over the idleness of the convicts New York prisons, Major Griffiths, the visiting inspector of English prisons, gives some very good suggestions from his own experience in prison management.
The competition of prison labor with houset labor raised the same outcry in England that has been heard of late in America, and the just complaint was met by restricting the labor of the ers to public works or to making othing and other things for themselves. A prison, he argues, should be a mova-ble barracks, so constructed that the shole body of prisoners with their cells can be easily moved to wherever their labor may be needed. Our dsons are costly and solid structures dented usually in localities where there wery little outside work that the pers can do, but in | England there has been a perfect revolution of ideas on rison building, and the latest improved gated iron and wood one story high, and the prisoners, he says become snalls, and carry their house on their backs. The barracks is only used for elceping and meals, and the prisoners spend their lays at work outside, and are moved bout wherever their labor is wanted on ablic works, that would not otherwise ave been undertaken. We of Lancaster are contemplating the rection of a new jail and there are loubtiess similar structures in process of action all over the country, but it might se well to pause a bit and see if this itisher can't teach us something. We can well afford to admit their superior excellence in the care of oriminals as they are supposed to have more of them. If, as he says, they have in England met and solved the problems that are vexing us, why should we not profit by their experience and learn somehing more about these one story movcable jails which serve to keep criminals sfely, and this system of labor that with the honest workman ?

Colleges of Villalny.

Mejor Arthur Griffithe, an English inspector of prisons, and a well known writer on the subject, has been inspecting the penal institutions of New York and adds his strong voice to the growing classer against the awful idleness in the ons of that state since the passage of be Yates bill. At Sing Sing alone be saw over 1,600 prisoners eating the bread of idleness making no return to the honest hard working tax-payers. He saw ndreds and hundreds of felons trooping to dine on food they had not earned, it is to yard like entleman at ease, or loading in their sammocks enjoying the newest novel [or the latest news." He gives solemn warning that in the immediate future we may "Disturbances, riots, and outbreaks from this mass of sulien, enruled, denaturalized, and hopeless wretches, deprived summarily of the highest attributes of our common humanity. Discipline will undoubted by suffer; health, too, will surely go, and disease, the spidemic and endemic disease that follows close on the heels of over-crowding within four walls, will probably decimate and depopulate your jatls. For I am astisfied that this great axiom is true and unaliterable. The idleness of prisoners breach immorality and disease and even mannity, and does nothing but harm to the community which is neade to bear such a heavy burden."

New Yorkers should not need that

New Yorkers should not need the warning of a foreigner to call their atatton to this shameful abuse of the first les of prison management which hoold aim at the reform of the crimical giving him habits of industry, and handleraft by which an honest ring could be carned. It ought to be enough that imprisonment of this and will surely produce a very dangerous ad hopeless class of criminals, and the as of New York state are at present stateg more nor less than gigantic colges of villainy.

Begucions Sugasta.

Prime Minister Segasta, of Spale, has de a good stroke of policy by boldly sclaring that the time has arrived for es's to devote her whole attention to sonomical matters in preference to dilitary affairs. Considering the almost es military feebleness of poor old Spain, and the fact that it is largely due to her commercial and industrial decay, the position is so wise that it is only survival to accret is found in the survival Boanish national pride. So long as Chraiter remains in British hands the pariotic Spaniard must think of a lilliary career for his country, but it will be a great thing for Spain if Sagasta lead the nation in paths the processing its margia. It is perfectly safe to the processing its margia.

mercial life. Of late years Spain has given some slight evidence of a possibility of a revival of her old time energy but there are vast tracts where the railroad and the telegraph are unknown and the ignorance of the people dense in the extreme. It is hardly true, as Sarasta and that for a railroad with no as Sagasta said, that for a nation with no warlike designs, armaments are not needed. China harbored no warlike designs yet she endly needed arma-ments when the English forced opium upon her, and the French robbed her of Tonquin. But it is true that Spain is so far behind the age, and in such a desperate condition generally that armaments are of relatively little importance to her, and she is perishing for the need of railroads and schools.

THE city of Montreal is always troubled THE city of Montreal is always troubled in the winter with a large number of unemployed laborers who work out of doors in the summer and have a hard sime to keep slive in the winter. This year their distress was so great that the authorities at last aunounced that they would give them work, and last Friday a thousand men applied. A few hundred were put to work on the roads shovelling snow, and the reat were told to break stone at $5 a toles. At this rate a skillful man could make a dollar a day, but the work is very make a dollar a day, but the work is very hard, and an untrained man could hardly make half that. The men all declared that they would rather starve than scoept the

THE American base ball team is in Rome making that bistoric city how! with indignation by a calm proposal to lease the colliseum for a game of ball. The agent for this travelling attraction has actually an-nounced that he would have the use of the ruin if it cost $5,000. This is not quite so megnificent but much more berberous than the American effort referred to by Max O'Reil in the way of leasing the Paris "Arc de Triomphe." In the centre of the old Collecum stands a greet memorial cross to the martyrs who suffered death there for the amusement of the Romans. There are some few things that money can not buy and among them might be ranked permission to play base ball in St. Peter's or the Roman Collecum. The very suggestion seems sacriligeous. Sup-pose an Italian opera singer should try to rent Mount Vernon as a summer residence or ask Congress to lease the capitol at Washington for the performance of Washington for the performance of grand opera! He would be considered a rare and interesting variety of fool, and it is a sad fact that many Americans are regarded in that light abroad.

THE pope laments in his encyclical letter to the discose of New York, the absence of ecclesiastical authority from the public schools and the efforts of many "to learn by the aid of reason alone, laying Divine truth saide." This is only what many good people of all creeds have lamented without being understood to favor any effort to in-troduce religious training in the public schools, for such a thing is ob-viously impossible. It is to similar sentiments that our Sunday schools owe their existence, and the importance of giving to the young a fair share of religious training has grown with the progress of our public schools. This is a duty that lies upon the parents and the clergy, and a duty that the state can not assume for them. The children educated in our public schools will naturally apply to everything the mental skill and energy so given them, and no thoughtful man can fall to appreciate the importance of giving to them in the home or Sunday school a firm religious faith that may stand by them when experience has proved the weakness of human reason, and the relatively small span of the knowledge gained in ashcole. knowledge gained in schools.

REV. ACHILLES L. LODER, paster of the Second Presbyterian church in Pottaville, Pa., resigned on Sunday. Mr. Loder had adopted for pulpit use the revised version of the Bible, had made a practice of ciucidating his discourses with pictorial flustrations, and introduced other innovations which encountered the disapproval of a portion of his flock. Mr. Loder declares that this autagonism, though unwarranted, has destroyed his usefulness in the congregation, and he proposes to appeal to the presbytery for vindication.

Seizing a heavy poker he brained his wife and two daughters, aged respectively 12 and 17, and also killed the hired girl, set fire to the house and burned their bodies. He is in jail at Wirt Court House and the sheriff has a strong guard to prevent lynching if possible. Elsmer claims that thieves did the terrible work.
