The Delillager case, after a size of twenty-six hours and the been told by the court that any together until they agreed, they asterally a compromise them who are disposed to hem for doing so, will do well to mive in the place of the jury-lemnider what effect so long contils a jury room would have upon mily of their opinions. If any there is to empromise verdicts, a the court that practically orders to made and confines the jury-sill they are made, and not upon years who yield their judgment they are told is the direction of that they shall agree.

If they are oper jurymen, it is the fault of the which has permitted them to be . In this state no name goes into jury wheel without the inspection dges; and it must be assumed all the material of our juries is fit rial. If so, there is no justification empelling any of the members of a pield any part of their decided judgto that of their fellows. It is much er that their disagreement should recorded and a new trial be had another set of jurors; and a sound disagreement should be suffi ent evidence that the case is not propmade out. The expense of disposition is no consideration er. If the county is never robbed

But there may be a moral conviction of guilt without amounting to a legal ainty; and that is about the fact in the Dellinger case. The evidence simply stains a supposition of guilt; and half de jurymen were apparently satisfied

And there was plenty of room for the sellef that, if guilty, the degree of the ne was but murder in the second degree. The difference in the two degree, is in the degree of deliberation of the crime. If the woman was taken to the water with intent to drown Ler, it ras certainly a deliberate offense; if, when there, the intention was suddenly ed in anger, it was but the second erade of muid r; and if the body drawn from the water by the murerer, there is room to suppose that he the to save its life, after taking it.

Land Boomers.

The International company of Mexico is an association of a small number of capitalists of New York and Hartford, who with an imposing name control a vast amount of the peninsula of Lower California that lies on the map as a thin rib of mountains between the ocean and the gulf. The Mexican govment granted this vast territory to be company on condition that it would ize it; which it is making a vigorous effort to do, and has already built the town of Eusenada upon the bay of Todos Santos, and accumulated there a popula-Sion of a couple of thousand, and built a fine hotel. The climate is delightful and has many attractions for invalids.

It is upon its climate that Southern California is boomed; and naturally its owns may be jealous of the country over the border to the south, and this may sount for some part of the unfavorable port from Los Angeles of the gold diserveries near Ensenada. But it is quite bable that the desire of the Interstional company to attract people to its ands has much to do with the coloring of the reports of the gold discovered on them. The vast majority of their land s worth nothing unless it has mineral value. The lack of water is a drawback spon the agricultural value even of its valleys. Mineral discoveries are needed to stimulate its growth and to afford a fair chance for profitable carriage to the roads projected into it; and there is a of chance that they will be made. Ined it is said that gold has long been known there, but has not been found in paying quantities. Probably that is the until its value has been tested it will be wise to so consider.

He Will Not Resign.

Mr. Harrison's attorney general seems bave been too quick in asking by teleoh for the resignation of the United tates district attorney for West Virginia. is gives ground for the suspicion that his m was prompted by the Rapublican soliticians of West Virginia, who are under indictment, to the number of a couple of hundred, for frauds practiced in the late congressional election there.

They may be innocent, and the Demoratic United States attorney may be cuting them; but if this is so, they show it at their trial, and it does not sok well for the Republican attorney Washington, to ask for the head of the er who is prosecuting the Republima politicians of West Virginia, charged with election frauds, and without aiaging any wrong doing or incapacity in Corporations Exempled.

The lower House of the state Legisla ture is wrestling with the new revenue bill, and the majority show a decided inclination not to agree with the revenue officers of the state in taxing the capital stock of manufacturing corporations. It was urged in behalf of the proposed tax of three mills on their capistock that it was a small tax anyway and one that the corporations could well afford to pay in return for their corporate privileges. This argument seems to be sound; but the majority thought otherwise, believing that manufacturing industries should have all possible encouragement from the state. And there is reason in this, too. The whole matter is not very important, as the proposed tax will raise but $450,000 of revenue, and it will neither embarrass the state to lose it, or greatly trouble the may be considered to pay their share of taxation without extra impositions. THE war drags along in Hayti, the latest rumors being of reverses to Legitime, whose cruiser, the Dessalines, is said to have sunk at sea after having retired severely injured from an engagement with the forts. A small tody of his troops were also defeated, and they burned the town of Grandeslines after maltreating the defenseless women and children. It is high time that a great civilized nation undertook to stop these barbarous procesdings so near to government Hayti docs, and our Monroe deciring warns other strong governments

A BALTIMORE man casually pitched a girl down stairs on her head under the impression that she was his daughter. He was mistaken, but the girl will probably die and furnish an interesting question for a murder trial.

SEVERAL days ago in Brooklyn, a family indulged in strawberry los cream and were taken violently ill. Their physician treated them for arsenical poleoning, and they all recovered, but he wisely secured quantity of the cream and sent it to s hemist who found traces of arsenic. The coloring matter used proved on analysis to be sniline, which contains arsenic, and not the cochineal which is generally used for coloring. The health commissioner, an officer quite unknown in Lancaster, got to work on the case and found that a firm of whole poloring matter under the name of "carlie red." and no one could tell where it had all been used, but near the ice cream saloon it was found that at least seventy persons had been made ill by the mixture, though there was not enough areenic in the cream to cause fatal results. The confectioner did not know that he was using a poison and the incident seems to impress the need of more careful guardianehip of the chemical additions to our food supply. It is high time that more frequent applica tion was made of the detective ability of our analytical chemists, and the public should be protected from poisonous colors in cake and cream and from the copper-lined soda fountain now about to begin its spring

PROFESSOR E. D. Corn, of Philadelphia, has the fossil skeleton of Phenacodusprimacyus. The snimal saddled with this name is supposed by paleontologists to be the parent type of all hoofed animals, and this fosell, found some years ago in the valley of Wind River, Wyoming, is re-markably perfect. The animal had lain down and not a bone was displaced, and even the smallest bones appear to be preserved in the fossil. "In appearance the skeleton is not formidable. The animal, which is believed to have been full grown, sheep or a yearling calf. The skull has some resemblance to that of a horse, but is more of the general type of rhinoceros. There are no tusks, but slight protuberances which indicate an approach to them. The teeth have much the same character as these of modern animals. Each of the four feet has five long and slender toes, which have the general appearance of human fingers, except that each of the toes is capped with a small perfectly shaped hoof, which is a copy in miniature of a horse's hoof. He fed on plants and flesh, as it was bost able to procure the one or the other. From the appearance of his feet he was a flat footed animal, but the toos also rested on the ground and aided him in climbing steep Inclines " The time of the existence of this animal can only be guessed at by the geologists from the fact that the strata he was found in belonged to the early eccene or lower tertiary period. He is supposed to have lived between 400,000 and 500,000 years ago for in a matter like this a few hundred thousand years more or less do not make any difference.

In Erie John Lanix, a wagonmaker, came home Tuesday night intoxicated and began a quarrel with his wife. The quarrel was renewed next morning, when Lanix dragged his wife into a bedroom and beat her unmerelfully with his fists. The woman begged him to spare her life until she could say a prayer. While she was on her knees Lanix tried to cut her throat with a pocket-knife, but she succeeded in escaping from the house. Lanix then cut his own throat, and when the officers arrived he was neggling at one of his wrists. Lanix cannot live. His wife lies at the point of death from internal injuries.
