make political news of the offered by Mr. John

B. Leeds, politician.

In a large chylously a distinct issue in a state outset of the administration at the outset of the administration, at this policy to be pursued in its made between the state of the same and politician Quay, Putaneter General and Merchant maker; who have until date in political partnership; Mr. tensitor's part in the partnership thing of raising the funds for man Quay's election operations, it is reward the position which Quay's mental campaign/has achieved for him, its opinion, is the dispensation of the less; and especially in Pennsylvania. With Wanamaker, business man, in a middle as bureau chief, and Quay, stician, in the saddle as party leader, we comes a natural and immovable it, as the road forks are reached, one as the road forks are reached, one alk, as the road forks are reached, one adding to the best business administration of the offices and the other to the set political disposition of them.

The plain question raised by Wans-makes's relection of Field and Quay's of Lenis, is as to whether the Philadelphia oe shall be run mainly for politier for business uses.

ot disposed to subordinate the perfect sinistration of the postoffice to the ivancement of political ends. Just as sarly Mr. Quay thinks that political ions come first and business

It is a very interesting situation, and that Mr. Quay might have fore-m; and which if he had, he would not ommended Mr. Wanamaker for he piace of dispenser of the postoffice patrounge. If he had thought a little while about it, he would have seen that life. Wanamaker, however, eager to suphim with money to purchase an elec-se, in which he considered his business aterests to be engaged, would be likely inuing to further his tusiness inter-and to achieve for himself a con-ation of the fame which he has master General Wanamaker has the best of him very decidedly. He will see that has the country with him; and that it will be dangerous to raise so openly, in his own household, the question between preferment for business or political con-iderations. He will hardly be so silly to ask the president to decide at the postmaster general on such lesue; though there is no great ty in predicting that Quay will quall before such a situation, audacity ms in his make-up. The disposition Harrison may be to steer between the tants and to get up a new man for stmaster who is half politician and half ss man; but there can be no successimpromise of the issue raised as to induct of the postoffice department y his administration

Ignorant Comment.

We think that we have before sug-seted to the Philadelphia Record that, ar a journal which professes to be expert recomment upon the general industrial tuntion, it is not sufficiently equipped ith knowledge of those industries, to he its comment always valuable. The on business, particularly, as one of the restest industries of Pennsylvanis, is so with which the editor who undertes to speak of it, should have some

The Record is not alone in its ignoe; for the Press, which sets itself up an organ of the trade, and has a Pittsg iron manufacturer as its owner, has dd enough to note the failure the Reading iron company as an inon of the westward march of the dustry and its coming extinction in the at; when it might as justly have resited artial removal of the Pennsylvania bell company from Harrisburg to Spar-ber Point, as an evidence that the steel dustry is gravitating from the West the Eastern seaboard. The Record, commenting on the re-testion of the iron workers wages the mills in this district, says "that take of the manufacturers in this lats obviously in their prompt to a cut down in the wages as the ole means of reducing expenses end which might unquestionably tained without disturbing the small seed the honest toller." Such ignorant ment greatly detracts from the in-seed the press. It is very common, ially in city journals, which should at equipped, but which often show ast intelligence among their more more weavers of editorial comment. Becord should know that the f the iron workers in this district ot been reduced at all during the fall in the price of bar and ron that has been progressing to than a year, and which has be consed, as it assets. In the pig iron and coal, which are materials consumed by these starers, have fallen in price; until giron is as low as it has ever been an appropriately for it to go noe it is below cost, save most favorably situated fur-and it is not believed that the other freight. They have now put down the price of labor and seek to put down the sost of freight. If the Record can assist them in that or show where else their cost may be reduced, it has the land Thursday.

THE Patindelphia Press discusses or me in Pennsylvania, including the numerous burgiaries in this city, and concludes that burgiaries in this city, and concludes that "the simultaneous occurrence of so much wickedness at this time and in such widely separated communities seemingly tends to a demonstration of the theory that crime and casualty at certain periods become epidemic, thereby presenting a series of phenomena as strange as they are inexplicable." Bosh! The tumor on the political lobe of the Frees brain is evidently extending to the rest of its mental machinery. Bill Nye had better watch the Frees for estious hints of humor, but it will be hard to find anything more absurd than an epidemic of casualty.

Dun's review of trade finds that though things look blue in speculative departments the signs of recovery in legitimate business are on the increase. "Prices settle downward steedily, the decline for the week, in the average for all commodities, having been about three-quarters of one per cent, and for the month thus far about 1½ per cent, a change which tries apeculative holders, but facilitates distribution. The interior money markets are all comparatively cany and well supplied, but in most instances it is added that the demand is light or but moderate. The disclosure of an increase in weekly output of pig iron causes weakness, and some concerns are considering the expediency of closing. With production at a rate exceeding by half a million tons a year the consumption in the latter half of 1887, and with the dullest possible market for bar iron, nalls greatly depressed and some mills stopping, and but a moderate demand for structural or plate iron, it is believed that stocks of unsold pig must be rapidly accumulating. In the dry goods business a steady but not a very large trade is in progress, notwithstanding the depressing influence of the past unfavorable season. An auction sale of ginghams, at prices which resulted in ices to manufacturers, was still considered fairly satisfactory, and somewhat more attention is noted in prints, while woolens are steady, with fair delivaries, but only moderate new tory, and somewhat more attention is noted in prints, while woolens are steady, with fair deliveries, but only moderate new transactions. In foreign goods the month is called the duliest for years, and the complaint of poor collections is more common in the dry goads than in other trades. No disturbance has cocurred in the money market, and rates are half a cent lower, the treasury having raid cut 2 500 000 more the treasury having paid out $2,600,000 more than it has taken in for the past week." This is not a very cheering report and if it had been preceded by the inauguration of Cleveland instead of Harrison, would be published by the high tariff journals under startling headlines, and would be commented upon editorially as evidence of the progress of our country towards the bowwows under Democratic guidance.

city park is felt most pressing, and we read enviously of the great crowds of Philadelphians appoint in an an it might readily have been supposed that he would not be mady to excrifee his reputation as an administrator of affairs to suit the idea of while and plunder; and it might readily have been foreseen, too, that a man who has shown the chility and independence needed for so make and successful a business career sownmaker has had, would not be ready to play second fiddle to any other fellow, in running the postoffice department.

Quay did not see these things which now seem obvious; and it is very interesting to note his surprise at the development and his very natural disposition to kick at the revelation. Perhaps when he considers it further, he may see that Postmater General Wanamaker has the best On Sundays like the last the need of a

MADE GRAZY BY HIS LOSS.

Thieves stole His Wife's Petticest, in Which He Had His Meney.

John Morris, an Austrian residing in the eastern part of Wilkesbarre, was a same man until Saturday. Now he is crasy as a loos, and all on account of the loss of savings of a lifetime. Morris did not believe in the safety of banking institutions, so he made a bank out of his wife's petticest. The woman carried the money around in the daytime, and at night deposited the garment under her pillow. On Saturday night when she went to bed she put the petticost in its usual place. When about doning into sleep she was suddenly sroused by three masked men, who gagged her, stole the patticost, and then made their escape.

At the time the robbare Thieves Stole His Wife's Potticent, in Which

At the time the robbery was committed the husband was not at home. He had been invited out to a neighbor's house to play cards. Morris says there was a conspiracy entered into by some of the neighbors to get him from home and then rob his wife. William Standish, a neighbor, has been arrested and held in $2,000 bail. Mrs Morris identified him as one of the men who entered her room. Standish, on the other hand, has five neighbors who swear he was at home at the time the robbery was committed. There was $1,200 sewed up in the garment.

A Burglar Trapped by a Widow's Nerva.

Mis Oliver Elton, a wealthy widow, 75 years old, of Waterbury, Conn., was aroused at 2 o'clock Saturday morning by her servant, who thought burglars were in the house. Mrs. Elton descended the stairs and saw the form of a man in her pantry. Coolly closing and locking the door ahe called the police by telephone. The efficiers responded and captured Morris Mausfield, a workman who lives in another part of the town. His story was that he had mistaken the house for the one in which he lived, and had entered through the window to avoid waking the other occupants. He was bound over on the charge of burglary.

Disarming an Unseen Foc.

"This was sometime a paradox." as Hamiet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unseen foc, malaria, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Wherever malaria evolves its misty venom to polson the air, and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnates the water, there in the very stronghold of miasma, is the auxiliary potent to disarm the foc and assure efficient protection. Fever and ague, billous remittent, dumb ague and remittent forced to relax their grasp and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is its preventive force that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malariacursed localities, for it is a certain buckler of defence against which the enemy is poweriess. Cures, likewise, dyspepsia, rheumatiam, kidney and billous aliments. Disarming an Unseen Foc.
