

TRAGIC DEATHS.

Terrible Fate of Miss Ballie Norbeck, Thursday Evening.

Fatally Injured By Falling 35 Feet

HER ATTEMPT TO SLIDE DOWN THE BANISTER IN THE COOPER HOUSE.

After losing her equilibrium the fragments of the front parlor floor, between the front parlor and the kitchen, fell on her.

Miss Ballie Norbeck, a domestic employed at the Cooper house, met with a terrible death on Thursday evening.

She was at work on the fourth floor of the hotel, and at half-past six o'clock was through with her work and was about descending to the lower floor.

Miss Norbeck said to her associate and Mrs. Keller that she would show them a trick she used to do on the trap and three barrels on the banister as to slide down.

Unfortunately she reached too far over the banister, lost her balance and fell to the hall below.

She remained unconscious until a short time before her death, when she recognized those about her.

Miss Norbeck was between 30 and 31 years old, and had been employed at the Cooper house about two months.

The distance she fell was measured this morning and was found to be thirty five feet.

The stairway from which the girl fell is the main one in the building and is located behind the sitting room and close to the entrance to the dining room.

In her fall her body struck the banister at the foot of the stairs, and which broke her fall and probably saved her from instant death.

When Mr. Keller called for aid and picked her up he thought she was dead, but on closer examination he saw that she was alive and he hastily sent for Dr. Muhlberg.

Dr. Muhlberg responded at once, as above noted. Mrs. Keller and her servant, who saw the girl fall, were terror-stricken at the terrible sight and were so overcome with fright that they did not make an outcry.

At the moment, hurried down stairs and rendered all the assistance possible to the injured girl.

Miss Norbeck had frequently used the banister instead of the stairs, and was warned that she would be hurt if she continued, but she laughed at the mere expression of the warning.

Corner Honoman was notified of the accident and at an early hour this morning, accompanied by his physician, Dr. R. M. Biondo, he impounded as his jury to hold the inquest.

Dr. Muhlberg examined the body and the jury heard the testimony of the witnesses of the tragic death of Miss Norbeck.

The testimony of the witnesses called was a substantial statement of the facts as above narrated. The verdict of the jury was that death resulted from injuries received by falling headlong down the stairs, a distance of about thirty-five feet.
