Councils Delays.
The councils at their meeting last night did a large business in the way of reading money, but nothing unlawful or perhaps even unwisely, save in appropriating $200 for Decoration Day, which is undoubtedly unlawful and nearly unwise; this appropriation has been generally condemned by public sentiment and by the press of the city.

The purchase of the triangular plot between Broad street and the reservoir grounds is well enough if it can be had for its real value, which is very small. The expenditure of $20,000 for a central market house may be wise or otherwise. In the lapse of time the location of the central market is likely to be determined by the city, whose residents will all be gradually removed from the central blocks. It is not likely that the new market house will stand for twenty-five years; which will make a cost of $1,000 a year in addition to the interest charged on $20,000, or a total of $2,000 a year to be charged against the investment.

We note that the councils had nothing to say to the street committee relative to the condition of the streets which were macadamized last year; and that the committee is left to its own devices for this year, although it has shown its purpose to persevere in putting soft stones upon the street, by undertaking to move the stone crusher to another part of the same quarry in which it now stands; and this not with a view to getting better stone, but to get larger stones to accommodate the broken stone. It is a fact, of which the committee is fully aware, that these stones are entirely unfit for repair work and for top dressing, for which use only the stones need to be broken so small as they are intended to be made by the breaker; though we notice on the first square on East Orange street, which is now receiving a top dressing, that many of the stones are six or eight inches in length; which shows that the breaker does not break.

We regret that the street committee shows so great disregard of what it knows well to be the city's interest as to have determined to keep the stone breaker at its present quarry; and that councils shows disposition to interfere with this disposition. It is a matter of prime importance to the welfare of the city to have enduring and clean roadways; which it never can have while their covering is of the slaty stone that is now provided for them. The committee propose that the stones shall be picked and that the softest stones at Angle's quarry shall be rejected; but this is not done, as the stones now being spread on East Orange street show; and if it was done it would be ineffective, as the hardest stone in the quarry is wholly unfit to put on the surface of a roadway that has any travel upon it.

A resolution passed to forbid the issuing of a writ to revive a city lien until within six months of the expiration, was a very proper one; though we should be sorry to credit the statement with which the mover of the resolution accompanied it, that it the habit was of the city solicitor's office to issue writs of replevin with unnecessary frequency, and thus accumulate costs upon the debtor, for the only purpose of securing the $3 attorney fee, that is taxed as part of such costs. This would be very dishonorable and unprofessional conduct and such as should attract the attention of the Bar association and the discipline of the court. We do not credit this charge against the present reputable solicitor, but his reputation demands his attention. This $3 attorney fee is a little thing that calls for abolition. It has survived its usefulness. There may have been a time when $3 was something like a retainer of the service of the lawyer of the successful suitor; but such a time has long passed, and it is but a flea bite now to the lawyer's mouthful. If the losing side should pay the winning side his lawyer's cost, it serves no purpose but to swell the bill of costs. It does not take a penny off the lawyer's charge to his client; few of whom know that he gets this little bite off the other side.

Clothes and Cannon.
During the great military parade the story goes that Deper stood beside Wanamaker watching the Pennsylvania troops go by in their shabby uniforms and the orator suggested to the clothes dealer that there was a fine chance to furnish Pennsylvania's guard with a new suit cheap. As a sequel to this we note that the Philadelphia Press gives prominence to a declaration of Adjutant General Hastings that the Legislature is to be asked for this new suit. He has talked over the matter with Governor Beaver, and perhaps has also consulted John, for he has the figures already and the suit is to be cheap. Hastings says that New York spent $400,000 in equipping her troops and that it would not cost anything like that for Pennsylvania's soldiers. He will hopefully ask for $750,000. To complete this charming story it will only be necessary for John Wanamaker to get the contract.

In the recent display, our state troops in their fatigues and heavy uniforms won admiration by force of numbers and their rough and ready but creditable appearance. General Hastings claims that he has been told that they looked better than some of the regulars, and as the latter were gathered from forts along the sea coast, where a corporal's head of artillerymen pass their time cutting grass on obsolete destances, this praise is not very strong. Our troops made little display of the pomp and panoply of glorious war, but they looked like business, and were no doubt better prepared for it than any other state troops in the line. But neither is this strong praise. The line was miserably prepared for modern war. Its artillery was of so obsolete a pattern, that a Gatling gun battery actually excited curiosity, and even business like. Pennsylvania displayed cannon that Blomark would have smiled at. In weapons and in training in the field, the whole line must have been conscious of a deficiency not apparent on parade; and if our state is to spend $70,000 on her troops, it had better go towards securing these things than for the purchase of cheap and gaudy uniforms for dress parades.

The Literary Fellows.
The general comment upon the oratory and poetry of the New York centennial is that it was not better than good; save in the case of Dr. Potter, who carries off all the oratorical palm of the occasion. Nothing extraordinary in this line could have been surely looked for, for great orators do not grow on every vine, nor are they on hand upon every occasion; still the idea of a centennial suggests an extraordinary expectation, and it was natural to look for something great from New York, where greatness is presumed to be had on demand, if anywhere; and when she had the only chance to produce it, she did not do it. She did not have the stuff herself, apparently; and did not have the committee who knew where to get it. She got a first-class poetry manufacturer to furnish the poem, but he did not get on the divine afflatus, somehow. She had a first-class after-dinner speaker for the oration; but a centennial oration proved to be a chink in the above his persimmon. There was no Daniel Webster on hand; though Dan Dougherty lately deserted Philadelphia for New York he did not get this chance of immortality, though the immortality may have evaded him, too, though he had had the chance. It required a strong gun to command that situation. We have them, but they are not to be found among the after dinner oratorical brilliants.

Is it not odd that a bill of fare in French should have been provided for the centennial banquet? It is not odd considering the parties who participated in the affair. The centennial people probably could hardly conceive the idea of a banquet at which the fare was not announced in French. It is the regular habit of the pretentious hotel, and to many people has seemed foolish; but certainly on the occasion of a centennial of an event strictly belonging to the history of France, it is not odd in which an English speaking race alone had a part, it was appropriate to use alone the English tongue. The presumption that sustains the French bill of fare is that all well educated persons read French; to the extent, and to most of those who were at the board. The French cook who does not know enough English to put his bill of fare before an English speaking company in their own tongue, needs an interpreter to preserve him from the great impertinence of forcing the tongue of the hiring upon the master's banquet table.

When it rains after a grave is dug in Wilmington a canvas tent is placed over it until interment is made. This is an easy plan that should be more generally followed, for a damp grave is the most unsentimental thing about a modern funeral.

CHICAGO has another case of suspended animation and a very curious one. "Miss Wilhelmina Stahl, aged 21 years, died a week ago of rheumatism of the heart. When the day for the funeral arrived, the body showed no signs of decomposition, the lips remained red, the cheeks were flushed and there was no pallor of the body. The girl had once before gone into a trance in Germany, and the doctor believed that it was another trance. The body was put into bed and artificial heat applied, and physicians were called in. The looking glass was tried, artificial respiration and artificial abdominal pressure were applied without result. Finally, the tibial artery was opened and then completely severed, and a drop of blood flowed, showing conclusively that the girl was dead. The mother was not convinced, and the body remains unburied, and the efforts at resuscitation continue."

There will be no Hazle county in Pennsylvania for at least two years. But some day it will come, just as Lackawanna came. —Scranton Republican.

And if this county splitting agitation continues, where will it end? In population it is the largest in the State, and in other counties together and our lower end may take a notion to independence.

The Columbia News says that Representative Kauffman thus explained his absence from the centennial festivities: "I am opposed to going to New York in a body and have always voted and talked that way on the floor of the House. If the Legislature had adjourned and every man paid his own expenses I would have gone. I claim the Legislature has no right to vote money into its own pocket and that is what it did when it passed the bill appropriating this money for the New York trip. At this time when all business is depressed and taxes are increasing I think it an exceeding great mistake for a Pennsylvania Legislature to squander $35,000 of the people's money having a good time." Representative Kauffman shows a disposition towards a straight path and walk which does him credit.

A SUBSCRIBER to the INTELLIGENCER has ordered the paper discontinued for the reason that it "does not devote as much space to the prohibition as to the anti-prohibition side." If he compared the daily papers on Wednesday he would find that the INTELLIGENCER gave a more extended account of the county convention of prohibitionists than either of its contemporaries. The INTELLIGENCER prints the news, and both sides of a question are always presented. The intelligent reader can only reach an intelligent conclusion when that is done.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, May 2, 1890.
To-day a first look at the new Summer Dresses for women.
Novelties from wherever dress ideas start. Of course you come to Directoire shapes and Accordion Skirts at almost every turn, but there are a multitude of other dress-thoughts, little and big, that you'll be glad to get acquainted with.
Dresses of White Lawns, White Linen d'Inde, Challis, fine Scotch and French Zephyrs, Chambrays, India and Surah Silks, White and Black Laces, and the latest get-ups in Boating and Mountain Suits.

A special showing of Jerseys for seashore and country wear. "Jersey" doesn't stand for simply a close fitting waist nowadays. As much art in cut and trimming and getting together of some of them as in an elaborate dress waist. Directoire style crops out in some; Persian trimming and plaited fronts in others ($5 and $6.50).
All styles of Jerseys with Fedora fronts in all the new shades.
A very little money will give you a rare choice in some sorts:

All-wool, vest front, $1.25
Same style, better grade, $1.50
Same, cashmere finish, $2

We have grouped some garments that have been lingering a little and whacked the prices to half or less to rush them out.
Colored and Black Jersey Coats, $2.
Fine Black Coats, $3.
Imported Jackets, mixed colors and plaids, at worth of materials—$3.
Beaded Wraps, Pelerines and Capes, $5.
Cloth Wraps, rich trimmings, $7.
Camel Hair Wraps, trimmed with lace and jet, $10, originally $25.
Imported Wraps, latest style materials and trimmings, $15, originally $25 to $45.
Second floor, Chestnut street side. Four elevators.

Parisian to the last stitch. Some of the richest Silk Underwear for women that ever crossed the ocean. They are among our very newest things from Paris. Surah and China Silk Night Gowns, $10 to $25; Chemises, $5.50 to $15. Surah Silk Underskirts, $5. That gives you a notion of the range. Every tint delicate; every garment an art study. You'll enjoy looking at them, if for nothing else than to know what ultra luxury and elegance in this sort of wear is.

These exquisite Silk things are with the Muslin Underwear—in its way just as talkable. Besides quality and style, you have price to marvel at. A glance at a few of the kinds. In many of them you get the work for nothing.
Night Gowns:
Cambrie, with two rows of insertion between plaids, and edge down front, 60c.
Cambrie, elaborately trimmed. Only a small quantity. $1.50.
Cambrie, with Mother Hubbard pointed yoke covered with plaids, and neat edge on yoke, neck and sleeves, 60c.
Cambrie, with two rows of white embroidery between plaids, and edge on yoke, neck and sleeves, 75c.

Chemises:
Muslin, open front, embroidery on neck and sleeves. All sizes, 35c to 45c. We have sold hundreds of dozens at 50c each.
Cambrie with Val lace yoke and Val lace edge on neck and sleeves, 60c.
Cambrie, French and Medice lace yoke, and same lace edge on neck and sleeves, 60c.

Drawers:
Muslin, with plaited canolite ruffle, 35c.
Muslin, with Hamburg ruffle and 4 plaits 40c.
Muslin, extra size, with Hamburg ruffle and 4 plaits, 50c.

Skirts:
Muslin, with wide Hamburg ruffle, 75c.
Muslin, with Hamburg ruffle, 7 1/2 inches wide. Have been 85c; now $1.75.
Muslin, with neat Hamburg ruffle, 81c.
Muslin, with perpendicular plaits in ruffle, edged with neat Hamburg embroidery. Have been $2; $1.50.

A lot of $2 imported Mountain and Seaside Sacks, exactly right for morning and evening wear, at $5.
Natty little jackets in woven and printed French Flannels, $2.50 to $4.
Second floor, Juniper street side.

BOOK NEWS for May is ready, with a spirited picture of Count Tolstoi—one of the most talked about of modern writers.
Whoever wants to get an inkling of books as they come from the press—hint enough to guess from whether to read or not—needs BOOK NEWS. It is made for just such people. It is eyes for them. It does the rummaging and leaf-turning and weighing of worth for them. What it tells is as a book-wisely friend would tell it. No prejudices. It doesn't so much try to say whether the book is positively to be approved as to say just what the book is. One person may condemn that which another will praise. From what BOOK NEWS tells you'll know whether the book will be bad or good to you.
And you'll know the fair price—a money saving thing to

McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.
THE GENUINE DR. C.
McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS!
Intemperance a Disease

When the celebrated Dr. Rush declared that drunkenness was a disease, he enunciated a truth which the experience and observation of medical men in every clime confirm. The many apparently insane excesses of those who indulge in the use of spirituous liquors may be accounted for. The true cause of conduct, which is taken for intemperance, is very frequently a disease of the Liver. No organ in the human system when deranged, produces a more frightful catalogue of diseases and if, instead of applying remedies to the manifestations of the disease, as is too often the case, physicians prescribe with a view to the original cause, fewer deaths would result from diseases induced by a deranged state of the Liver. Three-fourths of the diseases enumerated under the head of Consumption have their origin in a diseased Liver. The genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburg, Pa., are a sure cure. Mr. J. J. Jones, of West Union, Park Co., Illinois, writes to the proprietors, Fleming Brothers, of Pittsburg, Pa., that he has suffered from a chronic and protracted attack of fever and ague, and was completely restored to health by the use of the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S Liver Pills alone. These Pills unquestionably possess great properties, and can be taken with decided advantage for many diseases requiring invigorating remedies, but the Liver Pills stand pre-eminent as the means of restoring a diseased liver to healthy action; hence the great celebrity they have attained. List of Diseases cured by the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburg, Pa. All druggists keep them. Price 25 cents a box.

Comfortable Footwear FOR GENTLEMEN.
The "Southern Tie" is an important, though new feature in foot covering, for those troubled with sensitive feet. In height it is between a high and a low shoe. The leather is kangaroo skin, very light and thin, with remarkable wearing qualities, and possesses the advantage of having the strongest fibre of any leather of its weight. If calfskin as thin and light as this were used, it would not wear. It will not stretch and get out of shape, as do all soft leathers. Impervious to dampness; excellent for outdoor use, but if used on rough or rocky roads, it is liable to cut, being so thin. These shoes are made from such portions of the skin as are not sufficiently large to manufacture the higher cut seamless uppers of very fine grades. It is this fact that enables us to offer the Southern and Strap Ties in fine quality at low cost. Were the uppers of these shoes cut from the whole skin the material in them could hardly be purchased at the price you here find quoted for the shoes complete.
