The leading ideas advanced by each orator are herewith briefly stated : Salutatory, "Among the Immortal Sages," by H. L. Greenawald.

After bidding all a cordial welcome the speaker took up his subject. In all ages we find men pre-enimently prominent in the intellectual sphere. Can we pass by the sages of spcient days without fitting notice? There is something eternal about men active in the reformation. Leaders in the sphere of art lived and labored upon the genial soil of Italy. Such men, whether they lived then or now, should ever be re-

"The Spirit of Progression," by T. M. effer. Nature is the embodiment of a living thought. The development of the thought is gradual. Man is the culmination of nature and more. Life never refect development as its exists in our age may be traced to nature. History begins, lives and grows in nature. One after another the gloomy dungeons of the age are beaten down by degrees, and thus the spirit of progress is being taken up on every hand, and shall continue so to do until all is revealed.

is to come to view. There is One to whom all is clear. By Him, through his numerto light. Turn to nature and note how she plays her part, though she refuses to reveal all. Records are destroyed. New secrets amples were advanced in proof of this. Many heroes have gone down silently to stand, but it is under the guidance of Him who is omniscient and who orders all things

Eulogy by George B. Smith, "William, the Silent." "All that is great in history consists of good and of great men." William of Orange is a personage who, equally patriot, culogist and of a Christian. Nothing could dampen his zeal for his country and his God. He chose the rugged course of life. "To whom much is given, from him much is required" was truly felt by him. He was central in many never-to-beforgotten conflicts. He reanimated many a discouraged heart. He was truly pa triotic. In him was a giant strength ever to be admired. He was a man of his age. He was a true advocate of liberty, and shove all he was a noble Christian.

"The Majesty of Truth," by C. E. Schaeffer. Among all that is ignoble and degenerating in humanity there are still prominent and towering objects. Truth has a real substantial existence. It has the power to draw all things unto itself. All men in all spheres when encountered by truth must recognize and reverence it. makes men free in that it ordains what is just and right. Truth never appears so majestically as when grounded in personality. He that struggles for truth is on the way to victory. It is real, substantial and eternal.

Poem-"The Last Arrow," by Bruce

The scene of the poem was in the midst of an Indian tribe. A daughter of this tribe was carried away by certain Frenchmen. The conflict which followed in the attempt to recover her was romantically depicted. The chieftain's quiver is drained to three arrows, each of which he vows shall with telling effect be employed. The last arrow pierces the traitor's heart.

Gothean Oration-" Respectability of the American Citizen," by Charles E. Creitz. The struggle of humanity during all ages has been for liberty. Here upon our soil mighty forces have wrought to lay the foundation of the same enviable, true national characteristic. To maintain this characteristic lays responsibility upon the shoulders of every true citizen.

Conscientious honesty and fidelity are required of every one who is an American

Who is to hold the destiny of this mighty nation? The American citizen, if any one, view our history and study our independence and thus be equipped truly to mee this mighty, yet desired responsibility. Every citizen has his part to accomplish and this he can effectually do by a firm trust in the one living God of nations. The orators did themselves credit, and thus rendered this anniversary occasion enjoyable for their many listners.

Class Honors.

The following are the honors of the class of '89, of Franklin and Marshall college: First honor, Marshall oration, Anselm V. Hiester, Annville, Pa.; second honor, Franklin oration, Isaac M. Shaeffer, Lyons, Pa.; third honor, salutatory, George B. Smith, Maxatawny, Pa., and valedictory, Charles E. Creitz, Lynnport, Pa. The first second and third honors are awarded according to the highest average grade during the course of the class in college. The valedictory is awarded on the basis of proficiency in writing and speaking. The class being quite large, the faculty, in accordance with the wish of the class, decided that the ten having the highest grades and the valedictorian shall be the

The Lancaster Club Get Away With the Dutchmen at Home.
Yesterday the Lancaster club met the Reading, and took a game from the team of that city on their own fighting ground. Reading showed several new men in the game. They were Rittenhouse, late of the Lancaster club, and Yeager and Cullen, of Philadelphia. Ever since Rittenhouse was released here, not for bad pitching, but for weak batting and had behavior, he has been sore on the Lancaster club. He left here with Reading and Induced the manager to let him pitch against his old companions. The result of it was that he was hit asfely nine times, while but seven singles were made off Kilroy. The Reading club played poorly in the field. The singles were made off Kilroy. The Read-ing club played poorly in the field. The score was as follows:

To-morrow and Monday the Reading club will be in Lancaster and play games. These teams are very evenly matched and of much better patronage than they have received up to the present time. Consider-able money has been expended in securing grounds, players, &c., and the team nov stands second in the race for the champion on the 'senser team.

The champlooship games played yesterday resulted: Philadelphia 16, Chicago, 12; New York 6, Cleveland 3; Boston 14, Pittsburg 4; Washington 3, Indianapolis 1; Kansas City 17, Athletic 9; Cincinnati 4, Baltimore 2; St. Louis 9, Brooklyn 7; Columbus 10, Louisville 6; Lancaster 9, Reading 4; Easton 9, New Haven 5; Jersey City 6, Worcester 3; Newark 18, Lowell 2.

GERMAN MINERS WIN. The Great strike In Westphalia Practically Ended.

A compromise is being arranged between the German miners and their employers, and it is expected the men will resume work everywhere on Tuesday. In receiving the Westphalia mine-owners Emperor William made a long speech, in the course of which he said: "The workmen have made a good impression upon me, having held aloof from all touch with the Socialists. I urgently invite the mining companies to maintain as heretofore as close touch as possible with the workmen. I would ask that care be taken to give the workmen chances to formulate their wishes. It must ever be borne in mind that companies employing great numbers of workmen have a duty to perform to the state. They must use every form to the state. They must use every effort to provide for the welfare of the men. What above all must be avoided is the placing of the population of a whole province in such difficulties as have attend the present strike."

After the audience delegates of the miners met Herr Hamacher, and a prolonged conference resulted in the accounts.

Thousands Homeless.

The fire in St. Sauveur, Quebec, on Thursday, was more destructive than reported on that day. It destroyed seven hundred houses. As many of them were tenements the number of families homeless is placed at 1,200, comprising five or six thousand persons. The majority of the people burned out were of the laboring class, and, as insurance rates were very class, and, as insurance rates were very high, their loss is total. Saint Sauveur is a separate municipality from Quebec, but is separated by only the width of a street. It has a population of about 15,000. There was a scarcity of water. The loss is estimated at 8000 000.

A Two-Legged Colt.

Mr. Henry Kreider, whose farm is located near Jonestown, Lebanon county, is the possessor of a unique freak of nature. On Sunday a colt was born with front legs. There are small stumps there, but nothing which might be called legs. Otherwise the colt is finely formed. It is a beautiful bay and has a white star on its forehead.

When the colt attemps to rise it stands straight on its hind legs, but cannot retain that position very long. It is certainly a strange sight. The mare which bore the colt is an old farm worker and the sire is of good stock. It is described locally as a "wunderbares ding."

A Tobacco Suit. B. F. Eshleman, attorney for S. M. Mumma, of Mt. Joy, has entered suit against M. Newberger & Co. for breach of contract. It is claimed that Mr. Mumma sold by sample 40 cases of leaf tobacco to berger & Co. refused to take it at the price purchased, alleging that it was not up to sample. The firm made an offer of $800 less than the price agreed upon for the tobacco, but the plaintiff refused to accept

IT CELEBRATES THE SOTH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS RETURN FROM THE WAR.

A Brief History of the Regiment Raises In Lancaster County by Col. Franklin-A Banquet This Evening.

The 122d Regiment, Pennsylvania Vol-unteers, is holding a reunion to-day in this city. The date selected by the officers of the association is the twenty-sixth an-niversary of the return of the regiment caster county one and was recruited by Col. Emlen Franklin in the month of July, 1802, for a term of nine months. In a short time fourteen full companies were rulsed, but only ten could be mustered into the The remaining companies were assigned to other regiments. On the 12th of August, 1802, the regiment was organized. On the 16th of August it arrived at Washington and a few days later was sent to Fairfax Court House and was assigned to General Piatt's brigade, which subsequently became the Third, of the Third division,

Third corps.

The regiment took a prominent part in the battle of Chancellorsville and lost a large number of men in this engagement. Their commander, General Whipple, received a mortal wound in this battle and died on the field, and the 122d regimen was given the honor of escorting his remains to Washington.

The regiment arrived home from the war on May 17, 1863, and was accorded a rousing reception by the citizens of Lan-caster and the Patriot Daughters associa-

The staff and field officers of the regi ment were Colonel, Emlen Franklin; lieu-tenant colonel, Edward McGovern; major, Thaddeus Stevens, jr.; adjutant, Daniel H. Heitshu; quartermaster, John T. Mc-Gonigle; surgeon, Wm. C. Iane; assistant surgeons, Washington Burg, I. C. Hogendobler; chaplain, Rev. Elvin Kirke; sergeant major, Wm. H. H. Buckius; quartermaster sergeant, Jacob Martin commissary sergeant, Daniel S. Bursk ; hospital steward, Andrew N. Thomsa.

This is the second reunion the regiment has had. The first was on May 17, 1885, on which occasion 216 members of the regiment paraded the streets of the city. regiment paraded the streets of the city, after which there was a meeting held at Fulton hall, which was presided over by Col. Franklin. Addresses were delivered on that occasion by K. Allen Lovell, of the Huntingdon bar, who served with the 122d, J. Davis Duffield, of the Philadelphia

In the evening a banquet was held at Mænuerchor hall, which was participated in by the survivors of the 122d, and a number of invited guests. It was at this meeting that steps were taken for the organization of the Regimental association. The rolls show that there are about 500 survivors of the regiment, and that they are scattered through the country from Maine to California.

The business meeting of the association is being held this afternoon. This evening a banquet will be served at Mænnerchor CUTTING THE TREES.

among property owners in different parts of the city that their trees have been cut up badly by persons or companies having weeks ago the fire department finished the work of trimming trees, and persons living on West Chestnut street and in other sections claim that their trees were butchered to a greater extent than was necessary by the fire department men. The new poles of the fire department are much higher than those of the telephone, electric light and telegraph companies, so that the wires do not come in contact with trees in as Engineer Vondersmith was seen in regard to the cutting of trees by his men. He says that they did out trees, but not more than was necessary. Some trees like willows, grow faster than others, and more has to be cut from them. The fire slarm wires are uncovered, and the chief says that whenever a tree limb touches them the slightest bit they are affected. They therefore require close attention

The fire department wire has but a small battery, while the electric light companie have large engines at the back of them. The chief says that he dislikes as much as any one to cut people's trees, but is compelled to do so in order to protect his company say that their men have not cut any trees. Those of the United States com pany, the one that furnishes the city light are now busy cutting trees. The men say that they only trim the trees off, taking as little as possible, but some rather large limbs have been seen upon their wagons

Grand Army posts:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
LANCASTER, Pa., May 16, 1899

Mr. Albert V. Hurst, Chalrman G. A. R. Memorial Committee.

DEAR SIR—I beg leave to inform you have of an opinion rendered by the that in view of an opinion rendered by the city solicitor, in which it is clearly shows that the resolution of councils appropria-ting $200 for memorial service is illegal, and that the constitution of the state ex-pressly forbids the Legislature authorizing pressly forbids the Legislature authorizing any city, etc., to appropriate money to any corporation, association, institution or individual. I have no authority to draw a warrant upon the city treasurer in conformity with said resolution. Being a soldier myself, and a member of the G. A. R. since its organization in Lancaster, it is most natural that my sympathy would be in full accord with the object for which this appropriation has been made. I can assure you that I would deem it a pleasure to comply with your request if I could to comply with your request if I could lawfully do so.

With these facts I feel confident that you would not, under these circumstances, injure the reputation and high standing of the G. A. R. by accepting any money from the city not lawfully granted, especially to be used in connection with so commendable a purpose as that of the ceremony of streeting flowers upon the strewing flowers upon the graves of our doad comrades. Yours, very respectfully, EDWARD EDGERLEY, Mayor.

Scathing Criticism of the Doctors by the Mother of the Mind Reader.

There is general sympathy with Mrs. Rishop, the great mind reader's mother, and with his wife. The wife is ill in bed at the Hoffman house and the mother is in the same hotel greatly agitated and suffering from nervous excitement. She was surrounded by a number of indies, her friends, yesterday, and they did what they could to soothe her, but she is unable to est and is liable to become as ill as her daughter-in-law.

riends, yesterday, and they did what they could to soothe her, but she is unable to eat and is liable to become as ill as her daughter-in-law.

Mhe says that she herself is subject to trances and that her son inherited the tendency from her; that he would frequently lie for days to all appearances dead; that these attacks followed the exercise of his strange powers, and that he, knowing how liable he was to fall into such a state, was morbidly afraid of just what, she thinks, actually did happen to him—an autopay while he was still alive.

Mrs. Bishop sat propped up with pillows on a sofs in the Hoffman house yesterday afternoon and denouned the conduct of the doctors in terms which, although ladylike throughout, were as vigorous as the English language supplies.

"Yea, they murdered my poor boy," she said, "deliberately murdered him in the interest of science. It is an infamous outrage, and I will never stop until those who perpetrated it are punished. I have written to Coroner Levy and demanded an inquest. I have engaged four eminent lawyers, and I will have the matter brought before the grand jury, and if there is an indictment found I will have it pressed if it takes everything I own in the world and I have to crawl on my knees and beg.

"It is not for myself alone I am doing this—it is for the protectiop of humannity from the repetition of such brutal crimes. You or I or anybody may suffer as my son suffered. Doad or silve we may be silced and sawed into bits in the interest of science. Where is the thing going to end? At this pace it will get so that if a surgeon meets you on the street and thinks he sees any physical peculiarity about you, he will dissect you on the street and thinks he sees any physical peculiarity about you, he will dissect you on the spot in the interest of science.

"My boy was not dead. Nothing will continue make was dead.

meets you on the street and thinks he sees any physical peculiarity about you, he will dissect you on the spot in the interest of science.

"My boy was not dead. Nothing will convince me he was dead; he was in a trance such as I have been in myself. He was not only alive but keenly conscious of all that went on, and, oh! I tell you, sir, it almost makes me mad to think of his lying there helpless and speechless, paralyzed beyond all power of the slightest motion, and knowing when that awful saw was put to his head. Can anybody conceive of anything more horrible? It seems as though I should go frantie when I think of it.

"And why was there all that indecent haste? Why did they not communicate with me or with his wife, who was living with me in my house in Philadelphia? We were not hard to find. Why did they not telegraph to me and ask my consent? Even supposing Irving was dead—which he was not—but even supposing he was, they had no right to do such a thing without leave or suthority. Nothing shall stop me or turn me. I will pursue those men until they are punished, and I know the people will be with me, for their dear ones are as ilable now to be mangled and mutilated as was mine. It is time the infamy stopped, and in the name of humanity I am going to do all in my power to see that it is."

All this and very much more to the same purport the unhappy woman said yesterday, controlling herself for the most part presty well, but with the tears seldom out of her eyes. She said that in addition to the lawyers she has telegraphed to an eminent scientist in Washington, who has already arrived, and will gire his testimony when called upon. Mrs. Bishop said also that three of the most eminent physicians in the city had called upon her and told her that they thought she had been subjected to a gross outrage and offered their services in any way she could make use of them. They left their cards, with the request that their names be not made public for the present.

John DeHuff, of New Hampshire, who is now here on a visit to relatives, lived for a few of his boyhood acquaintances, and the other day visited a large buttonwood tree in Schoenberger's park, under the shade of which he used to play over fifty years ago. While in the vicinity of the park he met John B. Haag. Mr. DeHuff egan talking of the sports and companions of his youth and remarked that his acquaintances had either passed to the grave or removed from the town. In the list of chums he included Jacob the speaker by saying he was the son of that man. The aged visitor's countenance of his new friend and reflectively replied:

"I presume he has joined the great ma-jority." When told that Mr. Hang was enjoying good health, notwithstanding he is in the seventies, the surprise to Mr. De-Huff led him to quickly say: "I must see him." They rect; the greeting was of the warmest, for it was fifty-four years since they parted.

Mr. DeHuff was until a few years ago in ousiness in Boston. He is now engaged in farming in New Hampshire.

MEXICAN DESPERADOES.

Mine Superintendent Killed and the Safe Robbed of $8,000.

A Mine Saperintendent Killed and the Safe Robbed of $8,000.

The Santa Fe mines, near Carthage, N. M., was the scene of a terrible murder and robbery on Wednesday. About $20,000 strived from Topeka with which to pay off the miners working in the mines of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway. All the money, except $8,000, had been paid out, and this sum was in charge of Superintendent G. W. Richards, in the office. About 3 o'clock, while Mr. Richards was alone, two Mexican desperadoes gained access to the office and shot Richards, killing him instantly. They then captured all the cash in the safe, amounting to over $8,000, and taking their horses fied to the mountains. A posse of miners on fleet horses is in pursuit, with good prospects of capturing the desperadoes. General Manager Dobynson offers a reward of $1,500 for their capture.

Richards had been in the employ of the company as mining engineer and superintendent of mines several years. He came from Quincy, Ill., and was educated in the University of Illinois.

A Lancaster Woman With Big Feet.

A Lancaster Woman With Big Feet.

The largest foot under a Pennsylvania petticoat is casually mentioned by the gossiper of the New York San as follows:

One of the most successful boot and shoe drummers in Pennsylvania says that the size and shape of feet vary in different places just as the shapes of the states vary on the maps. That was one of his first discoveries. He sold a case of boots in Harrisburg, and nobody there could get one of them on because the boots had low insteps. Over in the coal region around Pottsville low insteps are the rule, and so the shapes change with different localities. In Lancaster there is a woman who wears number fourteens, and has to buy men's boots. Hers is the biggest female foot in the state. Many Seamen Drowned.

The Oregon Railway and Navigation company's side-wheel iron steamer Alaska foundered at sea, off Cape Blanco, on the 13th inst., while on her way from Portland to San Francisco. Fortunately she had no passengers on board. Five of her crew are reported drowned. The captain, mate and 11 of her crew were picked up by another steamer and taken to Astoria. Two boats, containing the remainder of the crew, have not been heard of. The ship cost $3.50,000, and was the finest in the Northwest.

The Democrats Successful. The Republicans concede the control of the constitutional convention of Montana to the Democrats by from 3 to 5 majority. The Helena Herald (Rep.) figures the convention at 38 Democrats, 35 Republicans, I Labor and 1 Independent, but this is partly estimated. One district at Missouri is so close that the official count will be needed to decide the election. The vote was light, to which fact the Republicans ascribe their defeat. EXPLATED HIS CRIME

Washington, May 17.—Nelson Colbert, colored, was hanged at 1254 o'clock this afternoon, for the murder of Philip Wentzell, on October 3d last. His neck was broken.

Wentzell, who was over seventy ye of age, had for a number of years been superintendent of the Columbia street car stables, and was familiarly known to the on the evening of the murder he came to the stable under the influence of liquor and was doing his work in a careless manner when the superintendent spoke kindly to him, telling him to be more careful. Colbert became insolent and insulting and his conduct becoming unboarable Wentzell discharged him. He demanded the pay due him, but was told by Wentzell that he would have to call the next day for it. The aged superintendent then turned to pass out of the door when Colbert sont a builet through his chest and he died a few hours later.

There Will Be an Extension of the Road There Will Be an Extension of the Reed From Quarryville.

Civil Engineer S. C. Slaymaker is now making the drafts of the survey he has completed in the lower end of Lancaster county. The route of the road is from Quarryville to White Rock, thence to Oxford and from Oxford to Singerly, on the B. & O. road. The total distance of the proposed road is 29 miles, of which eight and a half is a narrow guage road. The survey was made by the direction of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company. It will take him a Ohio railroad company. It will take him a week to finish the drafts and furnish the railroad company with an estimate o cost of the proposed road.

Engineer Slaymaker has received instructions from the Pennsylvania railroad officials to make a re-survey of parts of the proposed New Holland railroad. These are several very heavy grades on the roans at present surveyed and the compar desires to avoid them if possible.
