A Mild Sensation.

A very shady about James Gordon Bennett, the Mahdi and Chinese Gordon comes forward as the author of the hour. In a most startling form the tale begins with the receipt by Bennett when at the Merton club, in Paris, of a dispatch from a Cairo correspondent stating that an envoy of the Mahdi had declared that Chinese Gordon was alive and might be ransomed for a million francs, or two hundred thousand dollars. Gordon at once raised the cash and set out for Egypt. In this form the story is quite too wild for even the compliment of an incredulous smile. The other version represents the ornamental editor of the Herald engaged in a useless discussion of the safety of proceeding to Khartoum, or other fanatical and intolerant Moslem cities. Several members of the club maintained with warmth that no European could visit the Mahdi's capital and return alive, but Bennett declared that any man with money and brains could do it, and offered a heavy wager that he could do it himself. The bet was taken and like a hero of Jules Verne the doughty editor set out at once for Khartoum. This tale has at least the merit of agreeing with the general estimate of Bennett. He is fond of adventure and notoriety, and the fame gained for himself and his paper by such an expedition might be a sufficient compensation to him for the risk.

Very recently there have been strange accounts published of the adventures of a daring man, with a crazy motive, whose curiosity and a love of exploration, have pierced in disguise to the very center of the most dangerous hot beds of fanatical Mohammedans. One man, who could not speak the language and knew little of the life and customs of the people, assumed the character of a deaf mute, stained his skin to the proper color and managed to accomplish a hazardous and useless journey to a mountain town of Morocco. He had the pleasure of overhearing a group of men discussing a rumor that a "Christian dog" was in the town and would surely be caught and killed. If Bennett has a taste for this sort of thing no one will object strenuously, and he certainly will be more picturesque and startling as a millionaire explorer than in his career of a newspaper editor. He may perhaps make the trip with perfect safety by giving assurance to the Mahdi that a great pile of money will be paid if he is allowed to return unharmed. But Mohammedan rulers have an unpleasant way of disregarding promises and valuing revenge and slaughter above money.

John, His Scheme and Employes.

John Wanamaker has made a second annual distribution of a portion of the profits of his big store and in a speech to the employes confessed his disappointment in the operation of the profit sharing scheme. He insisted with great earnestness and no very profound logic that the money was paid out with no other object than good will and interest in the welfare of the employes and that it was entirely out of place for any of them to say that he would rather have his salary increased instead of sharing the profit; yet he declared that he expected to gain better service by the outlay. He said a man would be stupid to stay with him if not fully paid and tried to draw a firm line between his profit sharing and the increase of salary. There is such a line quite visible. A steady employe of seven years standing would not seem very stupid if he refused a salary slightly larger because it was offset by the prospect of profit sharing.

The Erie Herald denounces the appropriation of $100,000 for a commission to take into consideration the practicability of a ship canal to connect Lake Erie and the Ohio river.

The Erie Herald denounces the appropriation of $100,000 for a commission to take into consideration the practicability of a ship canal to connect Lake Erie and the Ohio river. "The work that the canal commission is expected to accomplish ought not to cost the state $90,000. All the information obtainable on the subject is now in possession of the state authorities at Harrisburg. Of the amount appropriated $9,000 will, therefore, be wasted; and, as the governor's action on the appropriation bills shows, the amount wasted will be just so much of which some worthy charitable institution will be deprived."

The street sprinkler operates for the purpose of watering the dust, but to the citizen who wades through the product of the operation, it looks more like dusting the water.

Mr. Jenks' Opinion.

Solicitor General Jenks having succeeded in shaking off the office which he promptly resigned when Harrison came in, has been seized by a Pittsburg reporter on his way home and been made to deliver his opinion of the administration. Harrison he thinks an honest man who is troubled with an idea that he is a greater man than he is and knows it all; so that he is informed with difficulty and led about as humbly as a mule. He is the most influential man with him, he declares to be Attorney General Miller, followed closely by Quay, with Allison a bad third, and the big field away back behind the distance stand.

PERSONAL.

EX-SECRETARY BAYARD, it is again announced, will marry Miss Chamberlain, daughter of Dr. Clynner, C. S. A., of Washington. CHARLES SWAYNE, formerly of Philadelphia, has been appointed judge of the Northern district of Florida by President Harrison. DR. H. C. W. Showalter and Miss Annie Smoker, of New Holland, were married on Wednesday at the home of the bride's father, Mr. A. G. Stucker, Rev. J. W. Hassler performed the ceremony. EX-GOVERNOR CRETIN declares that in consequence of the veto of the bill for the erection of the memorial hall at Gettysburg, the committee will make an address to the soldiers, suggesting a meeting to decide whether the enterprise will be abandoned or an attempt will be made to erect a small hall. JUDGE WHITE, of license court fame, has decided to take the stump in the interest of the proposed prohibition amendment. The nomination has caused considerable comment in Pittsburg, especially among the liquor men. The judge is very bitter since the proposition was made to impeach him. WASHINGTON IRVING BISHOP is not to be buried until Monday, the eighth day after his death. This is to secure an official examination of the autopsy ordered by Dr. Irwin. Mrs. Bishop has written, Dr. A. Spitzka and Dr. D. M. Hamilton, asking them to conduct an examination, and has also demanded of the coroner, GEORGE BANCROFT, the venerable historian, that a verdict be pronounced in his house in Washington, and is not supposed to be longer able to take care of himself, even in conversation, and all called upon to stand between him and all other persons, one but his physician and a few intimate friends are permitted to approach him. Mr. BANCROFT is in his 80th year. GOVERNOR BAYARD says: "I have never had any question as to my duty in regard to the amendment and will vote for it, of course, as I have always intended to do. The amendment is in my mind has been one of duty as a representative of the people. Without pretending to represent the Republican party, I expect to take ground publicly in favor of the amendment in due time."

Wanamaker's Profit Sharing.

A Big Sum For the Employes Distributed on Friday. Mr. John Wanamaker on Friday evening distributed to 375 persons who had been employed at his large store seven years and upwards part of the profits of the last year. What an event in the life of his profession. The fact that Harrison took Miller into his cabinet affords good evidence that Mr. Jenks' view may be right, for it is not probable that he would have taken his law partner with him if he had not wanted him very much. It is, we believe, a unique thing in presidential practice.

The Panama Canal.

That best advertised of newspaper men, John C. Klein, of Samon fame, fills some fourteen columns of the New York World with an account of the Panama canal failure. After all that has been said and written of the herculean character of this enterprise it is a shameful thing that the American government should have given the death blow to a movement for its revival by absurd sentimentalism. The Monroe doctrine, the thirty-five million of France, which so readily shouldered and bravely bore this gigantic burden when they had not recovered from the immense cost of the German war, must now have a very poor opinion of the nation that their fathers helped to found in America. The history of the enterprise under the nominal leadership of De Lesseps is a disheartening record of bad management, outrageous wastefulness and deception. The pride of France was in the work, and if the government had given it practical support, the money of these people would have again been found pushing through a ditch that will be of lasting and incalculable value not to France alone, but to the whole world.

Much Human Blood Shed.

In Chicago, on Thursday night, Frank Jastinski, aged 16 years, stepped out in front of his father's saloon, on Sunday, in his hands. Glancing down the street he saw Frank Kowki, a lad of his age, and an acquaintance, standing in the front door of another saloon. Jastinski took the rifle, took deliberate aim, and fired. Kowki fell, the ball having passed through his body, two inches from the heart. Jastinski then fired at Mike Meka, who stood at the front door of his home, and Meka fell, the bullet striking below the left shoulder. Jastinski escaped. Kowki's wound is fatal, and Meka's injury is not considered serious. Jastinski, a native of Poland, came to the same gang with young Kuberowski, who, without provocation, shot a lad named Frank, who was in the saloon, and had gathered in his room "Wild West" outfit, including knives and revolvers, as well as a lot of flash literature.

A Heroic Act.

The heroic act of R. M. Hull, an engraving clerk of the Ohio House of Representatives, is now the talk of the people of Columbus. One morning last week, Mr. Hull, accompanied by his wife and two children, was walking through the city and her little daughter, aged five years, ascended to the dome of the capitol to get a view of the city. The dome is fully fifty feet above the building, and has two tiers of windows running around it. A large pane of glass had been broken in by a stone, and the child, through this opening the little girl's head first, alighting on a projecting stone or sill eighteen feet below. This ledge was only three feet wide and below it fully twenty-five feet was the roof. The child, who had been jumping through the broken window, lay on her hands and feet, and dropped to the ledge, where she lay, a nearly lifeless form of the little girl. How he steadied himself to keep from falling over the narrow glass, and how he held on to one steady himself, but taking the landing form of the child in his arms, climbed a lightning rod until he was able to deliver his rescued child to the waiting arms of a policeman who had been attracted to the dome by seeing his perilous situation on the ledge. "The mother was quite beside herself with grief during the progress of the rescue, and when she saw her joy knew no bounds." Her little daughter, though bleeding and torn, was restored to her.

The Limit of Profitable Fertility.

From the Portland Oregonian. A parsnip six feet in length was left at the Oregonian office yesterday. It was raised by Mr. E. C. Glasspool, of Jackson county, in a soil of light sand and with little manure. The parsnip is a very nutritious and wholesome vegetable, but if they all grew down into the ground six feet it would cost more to dig them than they would be worth.

Honesty and Intelligenc.

If you're honest, you say. Granted. Yet how many are dishonest through ignorance, expediency, or intentionally. One can be dishonest and yet say nothing. A clerk who lets a customer buy a damaged piece of goods, a witness who holds back the truth which would clear a prisoner, a medical practitioner who takes his patient's money when he knows he is doing him no good,—all are culpably dishonest.

Wanamaker's.

It's like the start of a vacation to see the Adirondack Camp. It's half of an education in home beautifying to see the Cottage Beautiful. Take centre elevator. There's a new hand at the Clothing. You needn't look sharp to see it. The new hand always leaves a plain mark, you know—first of all on the price-tags. Here's a line of Boys' $5 Suits—$5 yesterday; they're $3.50 to-day. That's the way things are being done. Look at this! Scotch Hosiery, silk lined, exactly such a suit as a dressy man would feel extra well dressed in, and the price $18! Just so all through Men's Clothing. Then there's the Custom Department for people hard to suit. The new hand has been there. Did you ever see neater, fitter stuffs to put into clothes for particular men. What a multitude of things go as Men's Furnishings! Half a dozen of our longest counters are almost too little for what we must show of them. Prices and styles are always right, but of course there are extra interesting spots at all times. Half a dozen as they come: 25c Neckwear. For Summer, White Flannel, White Lawn and Dotted Flannel; 50c Tecks and Four-in-hands; 12 1/2c Suspenders. White and striped. About 2,000 pairs regular 25c goods for 12 1/2c. 12 1/2c Hose. Men's Fancy Striped Cotton Hose in a variety of styles at 12 1/2c. Market price double that. Men's Shirts. Flannel Shirts in plaid and stripes, $1.50 to $2.00. White, $2.00 to $3.00. Silk Shirts, plaid and stripes, $1.50 to $2.00. Domestic Flannel Shirts, 50c. Trimmed Night Shirts, 50c—by odds the best for the money we ever sold. Balbriggan Underwear. Men's Balbriggan Underwear, brown and colored, 25c. Unusual value. Enough to give you the price-step among these things. Market Street entrance, Main Aisle. There's hardly been a day since it's season opened that we hadn't a fine showing of Gloriosa on the counters. The stock was never fuller than now. Grays, navies, and reds in solid colors, and half a dozen choice shades in stripes. 48 inches, $1.50. Southwest of centre. Over 4,000 yards of the 25c All-Wool Challis sold on Thursday; about as many more yesterday. In the week we've had them more than half the original big lot has gone. Doubtful if a yard of them will see another Saturday in the store. A hundred yards in sixteen choice colorings. 25c seems absurdly little for such goods. A rarely good 50c Mohair; plain colors and glaze. 38 inches. Finer, 75c and $1. Imported Checks, Stripes and Small Plaids. Every thread wool, and in particularly pretty styles for whole suits. A little time back they were $1.25; you shall have them at 75c. 50 inches wide. To-day ought to end the 90c to $3 Jerseys. They'll be sold for years. A new lot of imported Ruchings is just in place. We've seen nothing so pretty in many a day. Braided, tinsel, and beaded; gold, silver, and cashmere colorings. 2 1/2 yds at 25c
2 1/2 yds at 30c
2 1/2 yds at 35c
2 1/2 yds at 40c
