TRAGEDY IN THREE ACTS.
Whispering to her lover,
Oh, but the world is heaven!
Poppies beneath, and above her
The bright blue sky of Devon.

Backward and forward faring. Oh, but the world is chilly! Flaunting beneath the glaring Gaslight of Piccadilly.

Standing beside the river, Oh, but the world is hell! Madly, with heart a-quiver, Bidding it all farewell.

-From the Temple Bar

What is the sonnet? Tis a flower whos In some sublime emotion of the soul, That springeth into form as beautiful As Illy or violet, or winsome weed,

Or glowing rose or daisy of the mead;
Obedient to a lyrical control,
Bursts into bloom the theme of joy or dole, Of hope or memory, noble thought or deed.
The wider realms of man's creative power
Lie open to the mighty kings of song,
To whom all things in heaven and earth

' long : But the kind Muse hath many a secret bower For humbler votaries—the gentle throng Who cultivate the Sonnet's fragrant flower.

ATTACKED BY A BURGLAR.

He Breaks Into a House, Chokes a Woman and Bites a Man.

Charles Dawson, aged 23 years, of Philadelphia, was arrested early Sunday morning in the house of Henry Veeshof, of 1904 Ann street, that city, after he had attempted to choke Mrs. Veeshef and bitten her husband in the hand. About 3 o'clock the woman was awakened by a noise in the house. She proceeded to make an examination, and on opening a wardrobe on the stairs she saw Dawson secreted there. The burglar was taken by surprise, but when Mrs. Veeshof asked him what he wanted he recovered his self-possession, and, with an oath, said "I want your money."

The woman protested that she had none, and Dawson suddenly jumped forward and grabbed her around the throat. The assault was so unexpected that she had no time to alarm her folks, and when the housebreaker's hands tightened around her windpipe she was unable to make any outcry. Mrs. Veeshof, however, determined to make a fight for her life, and valiantly struggled with her assailant. The noise finally awakened her husband, who, on reaching the scene, was completely taken aback by the sight.

Mrs. Veeshof was almost overpowered. and Bites a Man.

Mrs. Veeshof was almost overpowered, but the burglar, when he saw that assistance had arrived, released his hold on her throat and turned on the newcomer. The two wrestled around on the stairs, Veeshof attempting to hold the man until the police arrived, the wife in the meantime screaming for help. During the struggle Dawson managed to get Veeshof's hand in his mouth and bit it severely. Finally the woman's cries summoned a policeman, who took the burglar to the station house. Beyond suffering slightly from the shock Mrs. Veeshof was uninjured, white her husband's wound consisted of the laceration of the hand. Dawson was given a hearing before Magistrate O'Brien, who committed him to jail. committed him to jail.

Sad Fate of an Office Seeker.

Henry W. Rogers, a middle-aged man, went to Washington on the fourth of March for a consulate. He was locked up Saturday night in the Twelfth street station house as a vagrant. He had nearly $20 in coppers and five-cent pieces in his clothes, the result of his solicitations on the street. He was taken before Judge Miller, in the police court, one day last week, and gave his personal bonds to get out of town. But he was sure of getting his position in a few days more and so he stayed. A Seastek Passenger,

But, set right by a wineglass ful or two of Hostetter's Stomath Bitters, he renewed interest in his personal saf This fine corrective centralizes in brackish water-often compulserily drank on shipboard, to the grievous detriment of health—the perniclous impurities which give rise to disorders of the stomach, liver and bawels. To the mariner the tourist, the western pioneer and miner, the Bitters is invaluable as a means of protection agninst malaria, when its seeds are latent in air and water. To the effect of overwork, menta or manuel, it is a most reliable aptidote, and to the debilitated and nervous, it affords great and speedily felt relief and vigor.

It is never too late to mend a sprained ankle swollen limbs, stiff neck or any pain or ache if you but use that sovereign remedy, Salvattor Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain. Price Scents.

THE OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY is organized for the purpose of providing the State of Oregon with an urgently needed means of communication with other states and foreign countries by means of a rail-road from YAQUINA BAY on the Pacific Ocean, unning through the central portion of the state to the eastern boundary thereof, a distance of about six hundred miles, where connection will be made with the railroad line already built to that point, as well as with those under con struction and projected.

YAQUINA BAY, from its commanding geographical position and the scarcity of ports or he Oregon seaboard, is destined to be the future great scaport of Oregon, for, among others, the following reasons: First-It is the ONLY PORT IN OREGON ON THE SEA connected by a railway with the great agricultural districts in the state.

Second—THE OREGON PACIFIC RAIL-

ROAD crosses the four north and south lines of railroad in the Willamette valley, the great agricultural district of Oregon, and the Wida-mette River at Albany, gathering business to be delivered at the port of Yaquina. Third-The distance to the Pacific Ocean from while by the way of Portland and the Columbia river it is 230 miles to the sea. Fourth—It is, the terminus of a railroad traversing an agricultural country of ursurpassed fertility, producing millions of bushels of grain annually and large yields of other agricultural producits, and supporting herds of cattle, sireep and horses. The railroad also passes through a country rich in deposits of cost, iron, gold and silver, and, for fifty miles, through one of the finest bodies of timber anywhere in the world. The timber district has been preserved to this time by the absence of needed railroad facilities.

world. The timber district has been preserved to this time by the absence of needed railroad facilities.

Firth—The whole business of central, southern and enstern Oregon will be carried by the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD-COMPANY to Yaquina, and distributed from that port, in about one-half the time consumed, and at about one-half the time consumed, and at about one-half the cost for transportation charged by any other existing or projected lines.

The business immediately available to the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD, and the large business that will come to it, as its line is pushed further eastward, until it reaches Bohas City, and there makes connection with the present transcontinental lines as well as others to be completed, demonstrates that Yaquina Bay is to be the future great scapert of Oregon, The topography of the castern pertion of the state of Oregon, and the territory of Idaho, compels all roads crossing Oregon over its eastern border to enter the state at or near the point determined as its eastern terminus by the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

With adequate occan shipping facilities to handle the traffic there would now be available sufficient business to meet all the fixed charges.

From the heart of the Willamette Valley to the sea the distance by the Oregon Pacific railroad is but 72 miles, while the shortest line by other roads is 20 miles in length, which will enable the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD to hold the business against competition. As distance and time add to the cost of transportation road is but 72 miles, while the shortest line by other roads is 220 miles in length, which will enable the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD to held the business against competition. As distance and time add to the cost of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competing lines to handle the business at the same rate as is done by the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY. Central Eastern Oregon being a treeless country will draw its timber and coal supply from along the line of the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD in the Cascade Mountains. The supplies of timber and coal will be taken East on the trails going to the great fortile plains of that district for agricultural products to be delivered at the port of Yaquina, thus securing traffic each way. This gives, without interference, the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD the remunerative local business, and will enable it to do through business at priest that will command its full share of that traffic. The OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY will locate and own the towns along the line of its road, and reap the benefits resulting therefrom. The principal lands through which the company's line runs and is located are owned by the company and amount to over nine hundred and fifty thousand acres. More than three-quarters of these lands are open rolling plains and immediately available for tillage.

The franchise confers exceptional advantages on the Company, and amount to aver nine hundred and fifty thousand acres. More than three-quarters of these lands are open rolling plains and immediately available for tillage.

The franchise confers exceptional advantages on the Company has in operation 136 miles of continuous road, at the end of which it enters the timber tract above referred to; 30 miles are in the hands of the Construction Department, and 40 miles of roadbed through the Malheur Valley are ready for rails. The whole line will be completed by the autumn of 180. Steel mils for completion of the road, together with fastenings, have been purchased.
