The annual inspection of the fire departmembers of the committee who took part were Messrs. Schum, Everts, Fritch, Cresbach and Eberman. They were accompanied on their trip by Mayor Edgerley, Dr. H. F. Eberman, clerk of the committee, Dr. B. F. Groff, veterinary of the depart-ment horses, Chief Engineer Vondersmith and an INTELLIGENCER reporter.

All the engine houses and apparatus were thoroughly inspected by the com-mittee. The cleanly manner in which the horses are kept, the excellent condition in which the apparatus is, reflects great credit on the fire department. The members of each company appears to vie with each other in friendly rivalry in keeping things in order and making improvements, and he result is four as fine engine houses and fire engines as can be found in most cities in one of Powl's buses at 2 o'clock Tuessy afternoon, and set out on a grand our of inspection of the stone quarries ear the city. The discovery of good hard one, so situated as to be available for us pon the city streets, was declared to be e object of the expedition, and the whole erty stuck faithfully to the work, alough an athletic councilman terrified the swspaper men by suggesting to the rest the committee that they now had them here revenge could be easily taken, and at the INTELLIGENCER man should be in through the stone crusher. This was ringing home the doom selected editori-ly by the INTELLIGENCER for the commite. The first quarry visited was concealed ader an old building in Schoenberger's irk. The committee looked at the house id accepted the assurance that there was an quarry under it which could be reached tearing down the building, a work that to be undertaken shortly. of a wall near by was said to have been quarried there. While looking at this wall the wind gave an emphatic warning that it was high time to seek shelter from the coming storm, and in an unsavory second-story room of the old house the party took refuge. Here the storm found them and after inspecting the hail and the pouring rain they were treated to a grand review of the sewage of Lancaster. Gas run became a raging torrent. It rose within its stone-walled banks at the rate of at least three inches per minute. Stone after stone was submerged until the very brim was passed, and water rushed in great waves against the trees that grow on the margin. The foot bridge on which the expedition crossed the stream was far under water, and planks and other debris told of small damage somewhere up the stream. FISHING FOR BASE BALLS. A man walked out from the gas works in the pouring rain, armed with a long pole with a small net on the end of it. He took position on the edge of the torrent and kept his net ready and his eyes fixed on the water. Occasionally he would make a dip with the net and once he brought up something. There was much speculation as to what this lone fisherman could be after. When the storm was over he was interviewed and declared that he was fishing for base balls, but had only caught one, as several nice ones went by out of reach. Hundreds of the base balls of the small boys of Lancaster are lost by rolling down the sewer openings, and the lone fisherman observe that a heavy storm washes them down Gas run. Lancaster now has the champion combination base ball and fish story. She can brag of a man who ishes for base balls.

The expedition next proceeded to the quarry of the Carpenter estate, out Rock-land street, where the quantity of stone available does not appear to be large. Crossing the creek by the Old Factory bridge they turned through a gate to the left and drove over the lands of H. Bechtold to his quarries along the Conestoga, oppo-site the old city water works. Here there seemed to be stone of various kinds, some very hard, but the party were impressed with its distance from town. less the old and rickety bridge back of the poor house could be used, and the stone sauled through the poor house grounds, the haul to town would be a very long one The large quarry below the poor house was next inspected. A mass of slate runs through the centre, though there seems to be good stone here. The expedition then set out for Mr. McGrann's

It is also a long way from town, but the party seemed more favorably impressed with this quarry than with any other. On passing Mr. McGranu's on the way home they met that gentleman and received his assurance that they could have some of the stone to try in the crusher, and that he was ready to negotiate for its use on the streets. He suggested that it would be well to pave sections of street with stone from various quarries and so determine which was the best for the purpose. The return of the expedition was as cheerful as the departure.

MALIETOA TO RETURN.

The special correspondent of the Ass ciated Press in Berlin was informed. Tue day evening that Germany has finally con-sented to restore King Malietoa. This action was taken finally after prolonged and persistent efforts on the part of the American commissioners.

But now comes another hitch in the negotiations. This fresh difficulty grows out of the claim for indemnity made by Germany. The American section of the conference holds that if any indemnity is paid it must be a merely nominal sum, Germany, on the contrary, maintains that in the conflicts between the German forces and Samoans the latter were invariably the

and Salmoans aggressors.

Besides, the native partisans of King Malietoa were guilty of the barbarous practices of beheading German sallors, as well as inflicting upon the wounded particular cruelties. These acts, Germany insists, cruelties. These acts, Germany insists, should entail upon Samoa the payment of special indemnity. Earnest efforts are making in committee to settle the dispute, making in committee to settle the dispute, but the matter is very likely to require a reference to the plenary conference.

From certain indications at the rooms of the American delegates, as well as at the quarters of the English commissioners and at the German foreign office, it was evident all day that there was some serious hitch in the negotiations of the Samoan commission. Mr. Phops, who is known as the "peacemaker" both in the conference and in the working committee, was in evident trouble. First he was interviewing an English commissioner in his converse. English commissioner in his own rooms Then he hurried off to the foreign office where he remained for some time closeted with the German representatives, and then repeating the process. When asked as to the situation Commissioners Phelps, Kas-son and Bates said that there was no great change, and that everything was progressing satisfactorily. Both the German and iglish commissioners refused to talk on

As far as can be learned the department of state at Washington has not yet been officially advised of the reported hitch in the Samoan conference. Prominent officials of the department when approached latly declined to say anything about the matter, as in their view the discussion of a subject under negotiation would violate diplomatic proprieties. Doubtless the United States representatives have broarded United States representatives have broached the subject of the restoration of Malieton as their instructions were presumably col-ored by the debates in the last Congress taking this stand, but just how far they are instructed to persist in their contention cannot be learned.

Visited Teutonia Lodge. The members of the Conestoga Lodge No. 463, Knights of Pythias, of Columbia, paid a friendly visit last evening to Teutonia Lodge No. 165, of this city. After the routine business was transacted, several members of both lodges made speeches. After the meeting adjourned the visitors were taken to G. E. Reichman's, were a splendid collation was prepared and ample justice done to the good things set before them. The balance of the evening was spent in singing and speech-making. At a late hour the visitors left for home, well satisfied with the reception given them by their sister lodge.

The Boys Of the White Bose City Are Given a Few Points In the National Game-Bad Umpiring.

There is no doubt that the Lancaster club is putting up a great game of ball at club is putting up a great game of ball at the present time. Yesterday the team went to York and strengthened their grip on second place by taking a game from the club which has been contesting with them very closely in the race. The Lancaster people presented Carroll as their pitcher, while Keffer filled the same position for the home team. Both pitchers were hit rather hard, but Carroll had the best of it. The Lancaster also did the better fielding and outran the home team on the bases. The York team appeared in new suits and the people of that city seemed to think that they are their Jonahs. The umpiring was bad because the man that filled the position knew no better and he presented the home club with two runs. About the truth of the umpiring of the Middle States League at present is that Lancaster is the only city rom which there is no cause for complaint by visiting clubs. The score of yesterday's their new suits of light gray flannel yesterday and made a spruce appearance on the field. Lancaster came on the grounds in a natty uniform of deeper gray and overshadowed our boys in every way. Lancaster can teach them how to run bases, two points in the game in which our boys are wofully deficient. With one or two exceptions they seem to think the bags are made to stand on, or as good places to stop and think when they happen to reach them. When a ball is fielded each player hugs his base as if he was afraid it would skip the ground if he left it to back up another position. Lancaster, Harrisburg

One of the greatest attractions of the season in Lancaster will be the Cuban Giants day. The batting order for the first game will be: G. Williams, 3b; Thomas, c; Grant, 2b; Harrison, s. s.; Frye, 1b; Boyd, c. f.; Seldon, l. f.; Malone, r. f.; Whyte, p. A band will be secured to give concerts during the game.

The York club was to have given the Lancaster a lesson in playing base ball yesterday, but they have postponed it until o-morrow; meanwhile Lancaster holds a tight grip on second place.

The York club has a tough gang in their nine and the managers of the different clubs say their only equals are some of the people who attend the games. Strange umpires may settle this rowdyism, although some of the people should be in jail for their bad conduct.

A Marvelous story Well Vouched For.
What a Doctor Says.

Dr. W. B. Carpenter says in his "Physiology": "It is quite certain that an apparent cessation of all the vital functions may take place without that entire loss of vitality which would leave the organism in the condition of a dead body liable to be speedily disintegrated by the operation of chemical and physical agencies." It is also apparently a fact that such "apparent cessation of aff the vital functions" may continue for an indefinite period when the right conditions exist. The best known illustration of this is the case of the Fakir of Lahore, who was buried for six weeks, at the instance of Runjeet Singh, as attested by Sir Claude Wade, the British resident at the court of Loodhiana, in 1837. In this thoroughly authenticated case—which, however, is but one of a class of similar facts known to Anglo-Indians and travellers—the Fakir was first put into a linen bag, the bag was placed in a wooden box, fastened with a padlock, the wooden box was deposited in a cell in the middle of a square brick vault, every aperture of which but one was bricked up, while the remaining door was built up with mud above the lock, and fastened with the Rajah's seal. As a final precaution, a company of soldiers were detailed to guard the vault day and night, four sentries constantly patrolling its four sides during the whole period. When, at the expiration of six weeks, the vault and the box were successively opened. Sir Claude Wade, who, with Runjeet Singh, had entered the building, and taken their places close to the bedy, so as to see everything, this is what appeared before them: "The servant then began pouring warm water over the figure; but as my object was to see if any frauduappeared before them: "The servant then began pouring warm water over the figure; but as my object was to see if any fraudulent practices, could be detected, I proposed to Runjeet Singh to tear open the bag and have a perfect view of the body before any means of resuscitation were employed. I accordingly did so; and may here remark that the bag, when first seen by us, appeared mildewed, as if it had been buried by some time. The legs and arms of the body were shrivelled and stiff, the face full, the head reclining on the shoulder like that of a corpse. I then called to the medical gentleman who was attending me to come down and inspect the body, which he did, but could discover no pulsation in the heart, the temples, or the arm. There was, however, a heat about the region of the brain, which no other part of the body exhibited.

"The servant then recommended bathing him with hot water, and gradually relaxing his arms and legs from the rigid state in which they were contracted, Runject Singh taking his right and his lett leg. to aid by friction in restoring them to their proper action; during which time the servant placed a hot wheaten cake, about an inch thick, on the top of his head—a process which he twice or thrice renewed. He then pulled out of his nostrils and ears the wax and cotton with which they were He then pulled out of his nostrils and ears the wax and cotton with which they were stopped; and after great exertion opened his mouth by inserting the point of a knife between his teeth, and, while holding his jaws open with his left hand, drew the tongue forward with his right—in the course of which the tongue flew back several times to its curved position upward, in which it had originally been, so as to close the guilet. He then rubbed his cyclids with ghee (or clarified butter) for some seconds, until he succeeded in opening them, when the eyes appeared quite motionless and glazed. After the cake had been applied for the third time to the top of his head, his body was violently convulsed, the nostrils became inflated, respiration ensued, and the limbs began to assume a natural fulness; but the pulsation was still faintly perceptible. The servant then put some of the ghee on his tongue, and made him swallow it. A few minutes afterwerd the cycballs became dilated, and recovered their natural color, when the Fakir, recognizing Runjeet Singh sitting close to him, artical 'ted in a low, sepulched in the affirmative, and invested the Fakir with a pearl necklace and superb pair of gold bracelets, and pieces of muslin and silk. a pearl necklace and superb pair of gold bracelets, and pieces of muslin and silk, and shawis forming what is called a khelat, such as is usually conferred by the Prin-cess of India on persons of distinction. From the time of the hox being opened, to the recovery of the voice, not more than half an hour could have clapsed; and in another half our the Fakir talked with my-self and those about him freely though self and those about him freely, though feebly, like a sick person; and we then left him, convinced that there had been no fraud or collusion in the exhibition we had witnessed?"

This case, so circumstantially narrated and so strongly authenticated, does not stand alone. Another case is recorded by Lieutenant Boileau, in which a man had been buried for ten days in a grave lined with masonry and covered wite large slates of stone, and strictly guarded; and the subject told Lieutenant Boilean that he subject told Lieutenant Boilean that he was ready to submit to an interment of a twelve months' duration, if desired. In all these cases the appearance of the body when disinterred is described as being quite corpse-like, and no pulsation could be detected at the hearl or at the arteries. It may well be asked, in view of such possibilities of suspended animation, how physicians can be positive that death has occurred in cases of catalepsy or trance by any other indication than that of decomposition. Dr. Carpenter asserts that "a large proportion" of "the signs commonly relied upon by which real is certainly distinguishable from apparent death" are "fallacious," and he concludes that "the most satisfactory proof" of death that "the most satisfactory proof" of death "is given by the occurrence of putrefac-tion." "No reliance." he says, "is to be placed upon the apparent cessation of the heart's action and of the respiratory move-ments; since the reduction of these to so low a condition that they are no longer dis-tinguishable is by no means incompatible with the persistence of vitality."

THE CARTER DIVORCE CASE. A Marvelous Story Well Vouched For.

> VERDICT RENDERED IN A SENSATIONAL CASE IN CHICAGO'S COURTS.

Mrs. Carter Adjudged Guilty of Adultery, and Her Husband Acquitted of Charges Alleged Against Him.

CHICAGO, May 22.—The notable divorce case of Carter vs. Carter, which has been on trial for several weeks in the circuit court, before Judge Jameson, was finished this morning at 2:36 o'clock, when the jury came in with its verdict. The suit was brought by Mrs. Leslie Carter, who charged her husband with unnamable offenses. Mr. Carter filed a cross bill, charging his wife with adultery. The prominence of the parties, the unusual unusal in such hearings made it a cele brated case, and the court room has been crowded since the trial began. During its progress the testimony took the listeners in imagination over a good part of Europe ; gave them glimpses of the royal prodigality with which Mrs. Carter lavished money on personal adornments and equipages, though her husband was by no means a rich man; traced the payment to her of several large checks drawn by prominent merchants of New York; made evident her friendship for Kyrle Bellew, the actor; touched upon her relations with her physician, and, in short, developed a series of sensations to satisfy the expectations of the most pruriiently inclined.

The arguments were completed yesterday afternoon, and the case was given to

CONTRACTOR SHAUB HURT.

A Tree Falls Upon Him, Breaking His Henry Shaub, the well known contractor of this city, met with an accident last evening which might have cost him his life, and even to-day reports were circulated that he was dead, although they were not true. Mr. Shaub received the contract from J. A. Burger for tearing down the building on North Queen street, be-tween the Grape hotel and Reilly Brothers & Raub's store, to make way for the new edifice of the Trust company. In the yard in the rear of the building stood an old pear tree, which had to be cut down. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Shaub put several men to work cutting at it. They had progressed very well with their work by four o'clock and Mr. Shaub was sitting on a brick wall looking at them. The tree was rotten inside and it fell before it was supposed that it would. Mr. Shaub saw it coming and tried to get out of the way, but was unsuccossful. The tree fell his way and a very heavy limb struck him, pinning him to the ground. The workmen saw at once that he was hurt and they ran to his assistance. He was extricated from his position and placed in a cab, which took him to his home on East Chestnut street, Drs. McCormick and Muldenberg were sent for, and they attended his injuries. They found that both bones of his left leg, thigh on the same side. One rib was also broken, and there was a very ugly cut in the head. To-day Mr. Shaub is doing very well, and he is not injured internally, as was reported.

THE SCHUETZEN VEREIN.

Held on Tuesday. The Lancaster Schuetzen Verein held their first regular practice on Tuesday under the rules which were recently passed for the season of 1889. Although the weather was very bad, as a terrible storm set in about the time the shooters left town, there was a very good attendance. On the way to the grounds several of the gentlemen were soaked by the rain. They were not in the least disappointed nor was their ardor dampened, as they were desirous of having a good shoot. Among the visitors were Wayne Carpenter, L. M. Weist and Lem Wolf, of the North End rifle club. The score at 170 yards, out of a possible 216,

During the preliminary and subsequent practice to the above score of regular target practice, several other bull's-eyes were made, making four each for Messrs. Wiest and Wolfer and three for Carpenter.

John Cook, of Reading, purchased a farm in Alsace township, Berks county, and engaged a farmer named Fick to plow one of the fields. Samuel J. Stauffer, the occupant of the farm, claimed to have the privilege of remaining there with his family and the late.

occupant of the farm, claimed to have the privilege of remaining there with his family until July. He objected to Cook taking possession or beginning any farming operations.

When Fick and his son started in to plow on Tuesday morning, Mrs. Stauffer remonstrated with them. They paid no attention to her, whereupon she went to the barn and filled her apron with eggs of ancient origin, which she carried to the field and used them in pelting Fick and his son in the liveliest manner. She soon covered them with a maledorous coating, and they beat a hasty retreat with their and they beat a hasty retreat with their horses and plows, and Mrs. Stauffer re-mained master of the situation.

This action resulted in three suits being brought before Alderman Long by John Cook and Mr. Fick and son against Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Stauffer, assault and battery, surety of the peace and trespass. The affair has created great excitement in the neighborhood.

But Miss Kate Patten, of Boston, Still Lives.

"I am not dead!" That was the murmured exclanation which came on Tuesday from the lips of Miss Kate Patten, the pretty young daughter of Enos Patten, of No. 14 Oak Grove terrace, Boston.

Sure enough, Miss Patten was not dead, though if she hadn't said so herself just then an undertaker would have been at work on her in the course of an hour.

She had been sick since Thursday. The family physician, Dr. Stone, said her discase was diphtheria and Dr. Dodge and Dr. Whitney, whom he had called in, agreed with him. Both had pronounced life extinct and were turning to leave the room when they were startled by the voice from the bed. They returned, and the fair sufferer was made as comfortable as possible and the physicians took their leave for the night.

A few hours later they were again summoned to her bedside and she was again pronounced dead. This time there could be ne mistake. The heart was silent, the jaw had fallen and there could be no raillying.

But contrary, however, to the expectajaw had fallen and there could be no rallyling.

But contrary, however, to the expectations of the doctors, and without any assistance from them (for they considered it entirely usoless). Miss Patten an hour later completely revived and emerged from her trance-like sleep as before, only in a more pronounced manner. She became talkative and showed every desire to tarry in this world a while longer.

A third attack, however, was more prolonged than either of the previous ones, and even the family of the girl believed that she had died, and preparations for the undertaker were made. The patient after an hour showed signs of life, and shortly after the doctors pronounced her out of Here's Another.

Lafayette Rennard, of Phenixville, is recovering from a trance in which he lay for two days, during which time he was supposed to be dead, and notice of his death was published in the local papers.

He had been ill for some time with pulmonary trouble, and on last Thursday sank into a comatose state. He was pronounced dead by the physician and all present, and his body was prepared for interment. On Saturday faint signs of life were noticed about the body, and a physician was hastily summoned. He was at once treated, and has since been growing steadily better.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.

Three Handsome Ones Placed in St Mary's Catholic Church. Three handsome memorial windows are being placed in St. Mary's Catholic church this week by workmen from New York, who represent the importers. These windows were imported from Innspruck-onthe-Tyrol to the order of the persons having the windows placed.

One window is a memorial to James Stewart and represents the ascension of our Lord. The second window was the offering of Miss Agnes Kelly, in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelly, and is a representation of the presentation of our Lord in the temple. The third was the memorial of R. A. Malone for his wife, Mary A. Malone, and represents Christ in the temple among the doctors.

The windows have been greatly admired.

The windows have been greatly admired for their beauty by those who have seen them. The work of placing them will be completed to-morrow evening. Other memorial windows will be placed in the church in the near future and add much to its already handsome appearance Three Charges Against Him. Elmer Roth was arrested on Tuesday by Officer Gardner and Constable Snader. Roth is a cigarmaker and worked recently at Ephrata. He skipped away from there, was traced to this city and locked up. Jus-tice Keller committed him for a hearing on the charge of defrauding a board-ing house keeper. In addition to ing house keeper. In addition to this charge there are two others against him at Alderman Halbach's. The complaints against him before this magistrate are obtaining money and credit from H. Hamburger & Co., for whom he worked some time ago, and defrauding Charles Herchelroth, of this city, out of a board bill. He could not give security and was taken to jail. Roth, it is said, is a firstclass mechanic, but of a roving disposition and skips about the country from one town to another and leaves his boarding house keepers in the lurch. PRILADELPHIA, May 22.—In compliance with the request from President Laugh-lin, of the board of charities and correction, George W. Symonds, the reporter of the Philadelphia Inquirer vho secured admission to the department of the Philadelphia hospital, (the county almshouse) and afterwards wrote up the institution, to-day appeared before Magistrate Smith and affidavit charging Keepers Joseph Marshall, Joseph Devlin and Williamson with assault and battery upon numerous patients of the institution. The warrants were once issued for the arrest of three keepers. A hearing has been pected some interesting revelations will be made. The prosecution is in the hands of the district attorney. Mr. Symonds will Terrible Explosion in a Hotel. Boston, May 22.—An explosion of gas occurred in the basement of the Van Ness house, on Eliot street, this morning. The windows of the hotel were blown out and those in the vicinity smashed, while the lower portion of the hotel was wrecked. Eight men were seriously injured and Edward Levers, porter, is not expected to survive his injuries. The cause is said to have been the lighting of a match in the Tsement, where a gas purifying machine preparatory remova had been disconnected from pipes which had been left unplugged. It is supposed that one of the men now in the hospital lit the match.

MINERS AND IRON-WORKERS

THEY ARE SEEKING TO SETTLE THE WAGES QUESTION NOW TROUBLING THEM.

Illinois Colliers Dissatisfied With the Proposed Reduction-The Fight

JOLIET, Ill., May 22.—The coal miners of the Twelfth district of the National Progressive Union met in convention here yesterday. The operators were invited to the meeting, but refused to attend. Work is suspended in the district owing to a proposed reduction in wages of 10 cents per ton. The miners offer to accept a reduction of 2) cents per ton, which would make the wages 77; cents, the basis upon which the Ohio and Pennsylvania miners have settled. The operators claim they canno compete with machine mined coal at that

Resolutions were adopted, at a late hour last night, offering to submit to arbitra-tion if the proposition to accept a 21 cent reduction should not avail, and affirming their purpose to fight to a finish if arbitra-tion is rejected by the operators. They call upon locomotive engineers and firemen to refuse to haul coal from mines working under lower prices and upon all organized labor to refuse to handle coal shipped from such places.

Iron-Workers to Meet. PITTSBURG, May 12.—The annual convention of Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers will open in this important gatherings of that body ever held.

Some significant changes have been made by the different lodges, and one of them will be amply considered. A propo-sition has been made to make a scale which will continue for two or three years, but will be based on manufacturers' card rate for bar iron. It is also proposed to change the scale in steel mills in accordance with Andrew Carnegie's ideas, but his scale is not acceptable and will not be agreed to by the organization. The association, it is said, is willing to extend the time of the scale, but will not change it to the selling price of steel, as proposed. They may make some conces-sions as far as the manner of paying the men is concerned, but will not sceept any reduction on the present wages.

ANOTHER STEAMSHIP SINKS. The Cynthia In Collision With the Poly-The Cynthia in Collision with the Polynosian—Eight Lives Lost.

MONTREAL, May 22. — The steamships
Cynthia and Polynesian collided this morning in the channel opposite Long Point, about twelve miles from here.

Eight lives are reported lost. The Cynthia was a freight steamer and was bound inward from Glasgew.

The Polynesian was bound outward with freight and passengers for Liverpool.
The Cynthia sank in about 12 fathoms of water. The survivors swam ashore.
The Polynesian proceeded to Quebec in a damaged condition.

When the collision occurred those one dock of the Cynthia had barely time to rush below and warn the members of the crew who were off watch and asleep in their berths to get on deck and swim ashore for their lives.

The Cynthia carried no passengers. She was from Glasgow with a general cargo, chiefly of pig iron. Following is the list of the crew of the Cynthia who lost their lives: Hugh Irving, the chief cook, of Glasgow; Alexander Nicholas, sailor, Glasgow; Andrew Vance and Charles McCracken, trimmers ; James Low, fireman, Glasgow: James Ferron, boatswain; Chas. Blackstock, mess-room boy, and David commission to-day. He denied that he had ever published in United Ireland articles inciting to outrage. The league, he said, was founded chiefly to oppose secret land-lord combinations. He had been a member of the committee of the league since its organization. Witness had never heard a suggestion to encourage outrage. Several branches of the league had been suppressed in consequence of the strong language used at meetings and excessive boycotting to which they resorted. Witness attended the

The cross-examination of Mr. O'Brien was conducted by Attorney General Webster. Witness said he could not produce any record of the league suppressing branches or protesting against boycotting. He did not consider boycotting unconstitutional. It was simply Irish for blackballing. He drew a distinction between criminality and illegality. "The Irish," he said, "haven earnest, healthy repulsion for criminality. As to illegality, meaning irreverence for the law as law, illegality is bred in us." This remark occasioned laughter.
