CRONIN MURDERED.

THE CHICAGO PHYSICIAN'S BODY POUND IN A SEWER ON WEDNESDAY.

cored Arrest of a Man Supposed to Be Implicated In the Tragedy. The Police Reticent.

The body of Dr. P. H. Cronin, who strangely disappeared from his home recently, was found on Wednesday evening some distance north of Chicago in a sewer on Evanston avenue. A bloody towel was wrapped about the head. The rest of the body was stark naked. A Catholic emblem which the doctor always wore next his skin, and suspended about his neck, was untouched. On the dead man's head were a dozen deep cuts, which had severed the scalp and indented the skull. It is the opinion of the police that Cronin was foully murdered, and by a person who could not bring himself to disturb a Catholic emblem. Much arcitement was shown at detective

Much excitement was shown at detective headquarders when doubt as to the identity of the body was finally removed. It was evident from the expressions of the officials that one of the first objects of the police will be to have a number of suspicious assortions explained made by supposed friends of Cronin. Lieutenaut Elliott will have these people at the inquest and demand an explanation full and complete. Lieutenaut Elliott said: "The detectives claim that they have been handleapped from the start by a lack of assistance from those who claimed to know all concerning the doctor's disappearance. I will have this information now or there will be a number of prominent arrests." ch excitement was shown at detective unders when doubt as to the identity

Wholly accidental circumstances brought the corpse to light. A gang of laborers in the corpse to light. A gang of laborers in the corpse to light. A gang of laborers in the corpse to light. A gang of laborers in the corpse to light. A gang of laborers in the corpse to be calculated to be compared to the corpse working north on the cast side of Evanston avenue towards Fifty-ninth street. As they neared the catch basin at the corner they noticed a strong smell of patrefying flesh, and Roesch pried off the top of the catch basin and uncovered the body of Dr. Cronin. It had apparently been hastily pitched into the basin, for the head was underneath and the feet and legs were up in the opening. The place where the corpse was discovered is about 300 yards from the Argyle Park station of the Chicago & Evanstown branch of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. It is but two or three blocks from the lake and nearly a mile north from the corner of Sulzer street and Evanston avenue, where the mysterious block stained trank many was found the mile north from the corner of Sulzer street and Evanston avenue, where the mysterions blood-stained trunk, empty, was found the day after Cronin's disappearance. There are four catch basins at the interceptions of the street, and the body was in the one on the south ast corner. It seems altogether remarkacle that it was not sooner discovered, for the Lake View police started out to search all the catch basins in the city subur 6 the week after the trunk was found. IDENTIFYING THE BODY.

Inmediately upon taking the body out of the basin, Foreman Roesch notified the Lake View Police station and summoned the patrol wagon. The body was stretched out in the Lake View morgue, which occupies the front room in the basement under the station. Telephone messages were sent to the city police, and an hoar after the finding of the body a dozen of Cronin's friends were at the station.

During the evening Dr. J. R. Brandt, president of the Cook county hospital staff, who was an acquaintance of Cronin's, care-who was an acquaintance of Cronin's, carefully examined the body and positively Brandt's examination showed upon the brandt's examination showed upon the head the following cuts and braises: Over the left temple a cut four inches long, through the scalp and into the skuli; over the left parietal bone a cut one and a half inches long, which also marked the skull; inches long, which also marked the skull; a cut one and a half inches long over the frontal bone at the junction of the left parietal, a cut three inches long. Among many others, the dentist who last worked on Cronin's teeth reached the station late in the evening and positively identified the body, as did the man who for years had been Cronin's tailor.

A great hubbub was caused in the suburb by the finding of the corpse. Shortly after the body had been removed to the police station the street in front was jammed vehicles and scores of people were crowd-ing for admission to the basement where lay the doctor's remains. Officers were stationed on the stairway and at the base-ment door, and were once or twice obliged to use clubs in forcing the crowds back The tumult continued far into the night. Long before midnight at least forty men had known Cronin had identified the body. The police will keep the body and the towel at Lake View until the coroner orders otherwise.

The man Woodruff, or Black, who after arrest a fortnight ago confessed to having helped carry off a trunk containing a corpse, that of a woman, he claimed, from a barrin the city the night of Cronin's disappearance, was interviewed in jail. He manifested fested no surprise or discomposure when told that the body of Cronin had been found north of where the trunk was discovered. But while he apparently talked freely about the matter he seemed careful not to go outside the story he had originally told. He repeatedly said that if he had not been locked up in jail he could and would have cleared up the trunk mystery before this

CHICAGO, May 23.—It was rumored on good authority this morning that an arrest had been made of a confederate of Woodruff, who is believed to have been implicated in the murder of Dr. Cronin. The police authorities are extremely re ticent about the matter, and would neither affirm nor contradict the rumor. It is also stated that another arrest will be made to-

Alexander Sullivan, ex-president of the Irish National League of America, was horror-stricken when informed last night of the finding of Dr. Cronin's body. When asked what he had to say regarding the startling discovery, Mr. Sullivan replied: I am at a loss to know what to say, borrified, dumbfounded, for I have believed right in the course of time. "

Continuing, Mr. Sullivan said he had no theories to advance as to the probable cause of the doctor's murder. He did not think that the doctor's promised exposure of illeged crookedness in the Irish national organizations had anything to do with his

Mr. Sullivan in reply to further questions aid he treated with the utmost contempt the statement that certain persons accused him Sullivan) of knowing more about Cronin's disappearance than he cared to tell. He considered the statement beneath his notice. "As I have already said," continued Mr. Sullivan, "I am horrified to hear of his murder, and will do anything and everything in my power to help place the guilty persons where they belong.

States Attorney Longuecker says the pe ice have received important clues, and they expect to have the murderer under arrest within a short time. What these clues are or in what direction they turn suspicion, he declined to indicate. There are wild rumors to the effect that the police have made arrests of one or more persons in connection with the murder, but the officers at work on the case deny this,

He borrowed money from several different persons which he did not ay back and finally was landed in jail. He first said he was a farmer and lived in Miami, Indiana, where he owned a fine This was found to be false and he then related that he was from Laucaster and was a horse buyer. He seemed to be very well acquainted here and to a former Lan-castrian, now in the hotel business in Ko-komo, he told all the news.

HOW GERMANS DRILL. Realistic Target Practice - The New German Regulations.

Realistic Target Practice—The New German Regulations.

In the "Journal of the Cavalry association," Lieutenant A. L. Wagner reviews the new regulations for the German infantry, adopted last September by imperial order. He says that the most striking feature is the complete abolition of all tactical movements that are not of practical utility in war. Extra movements and fancy drill are prohibited under penalty of prompt dismissal of the officer introducing them. Nothing is left of the cast iron rigidity of the old Prussian school. The manual is wonderfully simplified, the only cadenced movements being order arms, present arms and left shoulder arms. Making the execution of the manual andible by bringing the piece smartly against hand or body, or bringing the butt of the rifle sharply to the ground is forbidden. Such positions as carry arms, support arms, arms port, secure arms, reverse arms and rest on arms, are entirely ignored. Bayont exercise is not mentioned in the regulations, being taught in the gymnastic training of the men. The regulations for skirmish drill are very thorough, and the recruit has no sooner learned his first lessons in marching and using his piece than he is set to work skirmishing. He is instructed how to use the inequalities of the ground to shelter himself, and in all the actual work of a skirmish line. The most explicit orders are given to the men on the firing line. For example: "At the artillery on the green binff; rear sight 800 and 900 meters; ready aim, fire; load," or "at the skirmishers lying down straight in your front; rear sight soo meters. Fire by file." Two or three skilling indexes of distance are keet sheet be skilling indexes of distance are keet sheet be skilling indexes of distance are keet sheet be skilling in the strain of the skilling in the skilling in the strain of the skilling in the s fire; load, "or "at the skirmishers lying down straight in your front; rear sight 500 meters. Fire by file." Two or three skillful judges of distance are kept close by the commander. No attention is paid to keeping accurate alignment or to precise intervals of the skirmish line, though proficiency in skirmish drill is held the highest proof of the efficiency of a command. Lioutenant Wagner was invited to accompany a battalion of a German regiment to its shooting grounds near Berlin. The battalion marched four miles to the shooting grounds as though proceeding through a hostile country. "Riding ahead with two field officers whose duties were those of our inspectors of rifle practice, I came in sight of a long line of targets, representing artillery and infantry. On the flank, and concealed from the line by which the troops were approaching, were targets representing cavalry. The battalion was approaching apparently unaware of the precise location of the largets. resenting cavalry. The battalion was approaching apparently unaware of the precise location of the targets. The 'point' came in view of the targets and halted the advanced guard hastening up, deployed, and, to my amazement, the artillery opened fire. The commander of the advanced guard commanded 'at 800 meters,' vanced guard commanded 'at 800 meters,' and the sights were adjusted; then, 'ready, aim, fire!' A bunch of little clouds of dust showed that the range was short. In the meantime the infantry targets opened fire. The advanced guard adjusted sights again and another volley seemed to show the range correctly, and file firing began. My mystification at the shooting back on the part of the targets was cleared by the My mystification at the shooting back on the part of the targets was cleared by the explanation that cartridges buried in the sand were exploded by the men in the explanation that cartridges buried in the sand were exploded by the men in the target pits."

The advance gnard moved forward and the rest of the force was deployed as in actual battle, "As the battalion advanced the cavalry targets came in sight on its right. The right ochelon quickly wheeled half right and opened magazine fire, which was continued until the cavalry was presumed to be driven back, when the company resumed its forward movement," When within 200 yards of the targets the whole battalion opened magazine fire and the charge was made, stopping short of the targets. "This concluded, the hits on the targets were counted and recorded. The shooting was not as good as that of our men, for the reason that a German is not naturally as good a shot as an American and the number of cartridges allowed each man per year for target practice is much less than the allowance in our service. But the drill was vastly superior to anything that we have. The entire factics of attack had been anyticed and in perior to anything that we have. The entire tactics of attack had been applied, and in conjunction therewith was target practice of the most valuable kind. striking feature of the German drill system is the great independence of company com-manders. The policy seems to be to select good men for captaincies, to leave to them everything pertaining to the companies as far as possible and then to hold them rig-idly responsible for the efficiency of their commands."

The Red Men's Great Council. The sessions of the Red Men in Allentown on Wednesday were devoted to rou-tine business. The committee on charters recommended that charters be granted to 21 new tribes, 3 beneficial degree councils and 17 councils Degree of Pocohontas, which were instituted during the year. The great chief of records made a supplementgreat chief of records made a supplementary report, in which he gave the total receipts of the Great Council for the past year as $8,322.15. At night the visitors were banqueted in Music hall. To-day the new officers were installed, and the great council will adjourn this afternoon.

Pennsylvania's National Guard. In the annual report of Adjutant General Hastings, the strength of the National Guard is shown to be as follows: First brigade, 2,628; Second, 3,090; Third, 2,622. The total appropriations for the year were $310,-024.50; expenditures, $307,505.66; balance, $2,319.53. The increased expense was occasioned by paying the troops for every day's service in camp and on account of rifle practice. The total cost of brigade encompment was $171,345.42. The average cost per man was $21.10. The total amount charged to rifle practice is $12,819.32, which includes the cost of the new rifle range at Mount Gretna. There are 3,239 qualified marksmen in the guard, and of this num-ber 482 are sharp-shooters.

FIVE IN THE CONTEST.

LOCAL PEDESTRIANS WHO ARE TRYING TO WIN SHEKELS AND FAME.

The Start Made On the Track in Mennerchor Hall On Wednesday Evening-Nolan In the Lead.

A walking match, which promites to be one of the best ever held in Lancister, commenced last evening at 8 o'clock in Mænnerchor hall, and will continue for Mennerchor hall, and will continue for seventy-five hours. There has been considerable difference of opinion in regard to the ability of Abraham Nolan and Frank Scheid as pedestrians, and some days ago a race was arranged between them for $100 a side. The race was left open to others who might wish to go in for a share of the gate receipts. George Kauffman, better known as "Lucas," George Lawrence and An-thony Wiegand, all of this city, took advantage of the offer, and the whole five advantage of the offer, and the whole five started last evening. The track is a fine one and 21 laps are required for a mile. There was quite a crowd present at the opening, and promptly at 8 o'clock the men were given a start by William Dean, the well known base ball umpire. They started off at a very brisk rate, and Nolan and Scheid made the first mile together in minutes and 30 seconds and the others as follows: Kauffman 6:10, Lawrence 7:15 and Wiegand 7:28. In the first hour the record was as follows: Nolan, 8 miles and 10 laps; Scheid, 7 miles and 14 laps; Lawrence, 7 miles and 14 laps; Lawrence, 7 miles and 14 laps; Wiegand, 6 miles and 17 laps. During this hour the race was very exciting between Nolan and Scheid.

The men, with the exception of Scheid, were off the track but very little during the night. Shortly after 11 o'clock Scheid became very sick in the stomach. He was compelled to leave the track and go to his room after making 21 miles and 7 laps. He was unable to take the track again during the night. He seems to be quite unfortunate, as he lost a race before on account of sickness.

At 8:30 this morning the record was as follows: Nolan, 69 miles and 4 laps: Scheid, 21 miles and 7 laps; Kauffman, 57 miles and 14 laps ; Lawrence, 66 miles and 2 laps; Wiegand, 62 miles and 18 laps. All the men were looking well, but Scheid was not yet on the track. Nolan seems determined to do great work in this match, and this morning he was ten miles ahead of his record in the last match.

Scheid had not come on the track since he left it last night up to three o'clock this afternoon. He will not return, as he has given up the race owing, to illness. At the above hour the only man on wasKauffman, who had just received a gaudy cap, which may make him run. The scores of those other than Scheid were: Nolan, 100 miles; Kauffman, 85; Lawrence, 81; Wiegand, 83. Nolan made his one hundreth mile at 2:15 and then retired for a Pig Iron Cost in Pittsburg.

From the Pittsburg Telegraph.

A member of the firm of Carnegie Bros. & Co., among the largest producers of pig iron in the North, in speaking on this question, said: "When Southern proquestion, said: "When Southern p ducers of pig iron talk of metal at $0 ton they do not take into consideration ton they do not take into consideration as much necessary expense as we do. When I make a comparison between the cost of the two I profess to know the precise cost of production in the two sections. The 89 per ton rate in the South means the actual cost of production without considering much necessary expense. Their farmaces are new and now are working easily. We have found by experience that repairs, which must be counted upon, amount to from 50 to 75 cents per ton. Then there is interest on the investment, and cost of transportation to the mills where it is converted. They have the raw material there; we have to assemble our raw material there. But after they have made their pig iron it costs them from $4 made their pig iron it costs them from $4 to $4.50 to ship it to this market.

"Another thing: If, according to the

Thomas Iron company, pig iron sells in the East at $13,50 per ton, that is not the cost, and those in this city who produce pig metal can run it for less than that. therefore, the South sells at 89, and they can't do it at a profit, they cannot land it in the Pittsburg district as cheap as we can make it here." Cruelly Ill-Treated a Child. Annie Leitenberger, living in the Seventh ward, was arrested on Wednesday evening for cruelly ill-treating her stepdaughter. Two Incorrigible Girls.

Isaac McCutcheon has made a complaint before Alderman McConomy against his two daughters, Louisa and Celia, aged 17 and 15 years, respectively. He says that the girls are incorrigible and he is un-able to control them. Constable Pyle went to Harrisburg and arrested the elder girl at the house of Fanny Carothers. Constable Yeisley arrested the other at the corner of Prince and Chestnut streets and both are now in the station house. They will be taken before the judges with a view to having them sent to the House of Refuge.

Grant Lindsey and his wife were complained against before Alderman A. F. Donnelly several months ago. They were allowed to go on their own recognizance for a hearing, but instead of appearing at the alderman's office at the time agreed upon they skipped away from town and deserted two small children. tution Under Captain Pratt on Wed-display of learning and the accomplish-ments of the students who have just completed the first five years' course. Capt. R. H. Pratt had requested that as many of the patrons of the school as possi-ble might be present, and bring the Indian children that had been left with them, in order that the secretary of the interior might see how much the children were benefitted by living in good families, and receiving training which it would be im-possible to give them while in school.

Many responded to this invitation, among whom were the Secretary of the Interior John W. Noble, with his wife, who arrived at 9 o'clock last evening. With him were Judge and Mrs. McCammon, Mrs. Justice Miller, and Miss Corkhill, Gen. Whittlesey, Messrs, Stevens, Gehr, and Phillips, all of Washington, and the Rev. Dr. McCauley, of Baltimore. Their train stopped opposite the school, and as the party entered the grounds they were sere-naded by the Indian school band, which is composed entirely of Indian boys.

A. K. Smiley, member of the board of Indian commissioners; Major Alver of Maryland Agricultural college, Senator Colquitt of Georgia, Gov. Beaver, Michael Shall of York, Col. J. C. Fuller of Phila-

Miss Longstreth, of Philadelphia, the earnest friend of the institution, was there. Lancaster was represented by Mrs. John C. Hager, Mrs. Geo. Franklin and Miss Mary Steinman.

Ninety-one of the pupils who are on farms and sixty patrons of the school were also there for the day.

The morning hours were spent in in-specting the industrial department, and here the inspecting party found the Indian boys at work in the printing office and at tailoring, carpentry, shoemaking, black-smithing, &c. Then there was a visit to the school rooms, where the teachers and classes went right along with their work. The aptness, brightness, and intelligence of the children surprised all greatly, as did the fact that two of the advanced Indian pupils were engaged in teaching the primary grade. After a pretty exhibition in the gymnasium the visitors were given a substantial luncheon at noon.

The afternoon was given up to the gen-eral exhibition in the large chapel, which was crowded by over one thousand people. On the platform were Socretary Noble, Senator Colquitt, Gov. Beaver, Capt. Pratt, the superintendent of the school, and the graduates. The exercises consisted of singing, declamations, and original essays and orations. The programme:

Addresses. Singing "Star Spangled Banner," School. Mrs. Campbell, formerly Miss Johnston, of Lancaster, is the instructor in singing in which they excelled.

Much originality was shown in the thinking and Kish Hawkins, a Cheyenne, William Campbell, a Chippewa, and Cecelia Loudrosh, a Winnebago seemed inusually intelligent.

The fact was brought out that Harvard college was originally intended for the Indians, but was refused by the chiefs.

The diplomas were presented by Secretary Noble, who made a brief but ringing address on the Indian question. He said that for President Harrison he could say that he was determined on securing entire justice to the Indian tribes in this country; that the men who are appointed as agents, inspectors and traders must understand that in the discharge of duty they must secure sobriety, truthfulness, justice and decency within their command. For himself he could say that Capt. Pratt was conferring a great blessing upon the people of this country by the results achieved in the work of this school. He was amazed at the result; at the quickness and readiness of the pupils, and at their appearance. He spoke encouraging words to the graduates and bid them Godspeed.

Senator Colquitt spoke in like strain. He said that the occasion was a revelation which inspired him; it was astonishing, and he would promise to extend every help he could in his capacity as a congress. The graduates were fourteen in number. Some have been there six years and some but three, having had some education before coming. Most of them will return home. Some will remain East. The diplomas which were presented yesterday were the first presented. SECRETARY NOBLE PLEASED.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Secretary Noble he attended, yesterday, the commencement exercises of the Indian training school. The secretary speaks in warm praise of the management of the school and says that the high proficiency of the Indian children in their studies was a revelation to him.

A New Game Fish Law

There are several important provisions in the new law for the protection of shad and game fish which was signed by Gov. Beaver on Wednesday. One section, the fifth, is of great interest to the occasional angler, and permits him to catch black bass, rock bass and Susquehama salmon on Decoration Day, the close season being now between January 1 and May 30. The new law also gives wardens the right to destroy fish dams, baskets, etc., and au-thorizes them to arrest persons guilty of violation of the law on sight. Heretofore a warrant was necessary, and many of-fenders thus essented. fenders thus escaped.

This morning by appointment Drs. D. Hayes Agnew, of Philadelphia and Geo. R. Welchaus, of Lancaster, called at the residence of Newton Lightner, esq., North Duke street, and very successfully removed from his neek a tumor about the size of a hulfed walnut. The tumor made its appearance a few weeks ago. The patient is doing wonderfully well. The operation was a very successful one,

RULES FOR SAILOR LADS. Requirements For Admission to the Requirements For Admission to the School-Ship.

From the Philadelphia Record.

The Pennsylvania national training school on board the United States ship Saratoga will be open within less than sixty days, unless Captain Lawrence, the president of the board of commissioners, is disappointed in his present expectation. Some delay has occurred about finishing up the repairs to the Saratoga because the appropriation for this year has given out, but it is thought that funds will be found to complete the fitting out in a few weeks.

The board of commissioners has completed its scheme for the regulation of the admission and training of scholars. The rules adopted provide that application shall be made upon regulation blanks, which will be furnished by the board at its office, No. 16 North Delaware avenue. The applicant, to insure his admission, must be over 15 years of age, and show that he has an aptitude or honest inclination for navigation, and must be the son of a citizen of the state. He must have the written consent of his parent or guardian and his good character must be certified to by two citizens.

Physical qualification is a prime necescharacter must be certified to by two citizens.

Physical qualification is a prime necessity, and each candidate must be examined by he ship's surgeof, who will be an officer in the United States navy. In addition to this he must pass an examination in the fundamental elements of reading, writing and arithmetic. Care will be taken, as far as possible, to admit only good boys who desire to become educated sailors. The school will be in no sense a reformatory, and boys needing the restraints of a reformatory institution will under no circumstances be admitted.

The commissioners expect to be able to stances be admitted.

The commissioners expect to be able to have 140 boys in the school constantly, and the scholars will be selected from all parts of the state. A course of two years training will be the limit of the scholarship, and each graduate who passes the final examination will be presented with a diploma certifying to his competency and the fact of his graduation. All of the scholars will be compelled to live on the ship, and will be under the control of the board. They will take a cruise annually, which will inwill take a cruise annually, which will in-elude a voyage across the ocean and a visit to forgin pool.

elude a voyage across the ocean and a visit to foreign ports.

Not only will tuition be free, but the scholars will be maintained at the joint expense of the city of Philadelphia and the state. The latter has already appropriated $10,000 annually for that purpose, and an appropriation bill for $15,000 annually, which has been approved by councils' finance committee, will be presented and passed to-day. As it is favored by the mayor the money will become available at once.

The first complement of scholars will be carefully selected by the board from the list of applicants as nearly in order of their application as possible. If more than 140 scholars should be selected as available those on the list after the 140th scholar will be enrolled and will be appointed to any future vacant scholarships in the order of their enrollment.

The faculty of the school will be six commissioned officers of the United States navy, who will be detailed by the navy department under an act of Congress providing for their assignment to such duties. There will also be on the ship sixteen United States seamen, who will act as guides. Already-seventy-one applications have been received by the board, most of them from Philadelphia, but many of them are from the country.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

Entertaining an Armed Mantac With Entertaining an Armed Maniac With Long Hours of story Telling.

The presence of mind of John F. Burris, a well known attorney of San Francisco, saved the life of himself, of Dr. Hadden, and of Mrs. Henry Weibold the other night at Agnew's station, near San Jose. Mr. Burris was attorney for Mrs. Weibold in her suit for divorce against her husband. Cruelty and insanity were the allegations. The lawyer, accompanied by Dr. Hadden, went to Agnew station, the residence of his client.

While the visitors were talking to Mrs. Weibold, her husband entered revolver in hand, advancing towards Burris. He announced his intention to kill the lawyer. The action and words of the madman so unnerved Dr. Hadden that he fainted. Mrs. Weibold ran out of the room. The lawyer, knowing he couldn't cope with Weibold, said:

"Better hearthis story before you kill." "Better hear this story before you kill me."

"What is it?" asked Weibold.
Burris started in as best he could and Weibold went to a chair and sat down. His eyes followed every movement of the attorney and his revolver never lost the point blank aim at Burris' head.

The story at last came to an end, and when it was finished Weibold again advanced on the lawyer, who waved him off and asked him to listen to a tale of adventure in a jungle with an elephant. Then for hour after hour Burris told marvelous for hour after hour burris told marvelous and asked him to be a supplementation. ales about his mythical adventures in Africa.

It was 8 o'clock in the evening when this contest began, and it continued until daybreak. Then sleepiness overcame the madman, and the lawyer sprang for the weapon and secured it. Webold did not awake. About this time the doctor regained consciousness and helped his friend to the open air, for, now that the agony was over, Burris seemed on the point of fainting. They walked to the insane asylum, only a short distance away, reported Weibold's condition, and he was secured.

A Montana Republican's Letter. A Montana Republican's Letter.

The Democratic victory in Montana last week has elicited a bitter letter to President Harrison from Mr. Richard F. Negley, an old Montana mountaineer and a Republican of thirty-three years' standing. In this letter, which was delivered at the White House in person Monday, Mr. Negley says:

ley says:

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

FRANK COMPTON BUTCHERS HIS WIFE AND THEN KILLS HIMSELF.

"Jeniousy" Written on the Wall by His Bloody Fingers After He Uses the Knife Upon His Throat.

WEST PITISTON, Pa., May 23.—Frank Compton killed his wife, Dora, this morning, and then cut his own throat. The weapon used was a large butcher kuife. The tragedy took place in the bed-room and is believed to have been the outcome of a quarrel between the couple. Compton charged his wife with the crime of receiving attentions of other men. After killing his wife and cutting his own throat, he walked down stairs and with his bloody fingers wrote the word "Jealousy" upon the sitting room wall. He also left on a slate a mossage which read: "Give my watch to my brother; I am going to heaven." He then went up stairs and fell beside his wife's body, where he died.

Compton was a gardener by occupation. He has two brothers, one living at Harrisburg and the other at Pottsville.

Last evening the last of three performances was given in Fulton opera house and the crowd present was very large. The house was full to overflowing and the gallery had many more people than at either of the two previous performances. The performers grow better and better each evening, and the way in which they give the opera would be highly creditable to any professional company. The audience was liberal in its applause last evening and at times the building fairly shook. On account of its great success the opera will be given again in this city at a future date, and the people of York and Columbia will have the pleasure of hearing it.
