ADDRESS, THE INTELLIGENCER, Lancaster, Pa.

LANCASTER, PA., June 21, 1889.

The Country to the City, Greeting. It is interesting to observe the diffi-culty which the Philadelphia politician has to grasp the reason for the nearly unanimous rejection which the country gave to the proposition that Philadel-phia has as unanimously approved, to make suffrage free of taxation. Various reasons come to the city politician's mind for this eccentricity of the country mind, but it has not yet come to him to suspect that the countrymen is wiser than he is, and that he voted to give the suffrage to no man who is unwilling to pay twentyave cents for the privilege, for the very simple and unquestionably sensible rea-son that he thought the suffrage was worth twenty-five cents to every citizen and that every voter should be ready to pay it when called upon; just as the untry voter now does. It may be news to the city politician, but it is the fact. that the poil tax is paid in the country; and that it would astonish the country intelligence to realize that it is not often paid in the city by mittees. Such a statement as that which we find attributed in the Philadelphia Times to Robert S. Patterson, a Demo crat of high character and official prominence in his party, will appear very strange indeed to the countrymen who are wont to go to the places where the collectors sit to receive their taxes, or to be waited upon by them individually, and who pay their poll tax without thought of refusing or of asking anybody to do it for them. Says Mr. Patterson: "I am very sorry that the suffrage amendment was defeated. It has and will cost the Democratic party a large amount of money. If the different ward committees had not furnished money to pay poll taxes 36,000 Democrats would not have had the right to vote last election. The fault is entirely with committees. They have educated the people to it Large numbers of people will not pay their poll taxes when they find that there are committees ready to pay it for them. The number of people who do not pay their poll taxes increases every

Of course there will be nothing fresh in this statement to the town politician anywhere in the state, but it will be otherwise with the rural voter, who does not understand how his vote is habitually killed in the cities by men who are deprived by the constitution and the laws of suffrage, but for whom it is seized fraudulently by the political committees. Both sides do it, and neither can call the other black. Respectable men like Mr. Patterson do it; and now are exposed in the most humiliating way as deliberate violators of the law, for no better reason than that others

In truth the demoralization that wittingly, when he takes up the work of the politician, is striking exemplified in this statement from Mr. Patterson. He was his party's executive and found that to save his party vote it was necessary that the tax of 30,000 voters should be paid. He knew that the law required the individual voter to pay it, and that it was unlawful to pay it otherwise; nevertheless the party necessity seemed to demand that the party should pay it, and he went right along with the swim, followed the habit of the political chairman, did what the ward workers wanted, and now regrets that the constitutional amendment that abolishes this tax, which the voter never paid, has been defeated, because of the continued cost of the payment to the party organization.

-He blames the party committee for this; and blamable they are indeed; not only because they have educated the voter not to pay the tax, by paying it for him, but because they have violated the spirit and the letter of the constitution of their state in so doing. There was no party necessity upon them to do it : a proper application to the court would have prevented the issue of tax receipts to all who did not pay for them ; but the committees found this path beset with trouble, and that to beat the law it would simply be necessary to give each taxpayer the money to get his reeipt; and that an appeal the courts might pile up trouble without profit to all concerned; and they took the easiest part, raised the funds, paid the taxes, and violated deliber. ately what they knew to be the law. The chairman whom expediency does not govern, and who would rather be right than be president, does not grow abundantly on the political bush.

It is pleasant now to see that they have been taught a lessen by the rural folk ; which many of them, however, seem too densely stupid to understand. In explaining the country vote they say that the farmers did not want to release poll tax lest their taxes would heavier. It is safe to say that no such thought occurred to the farmer ; who did not fail to comprehend that a tax of twenty-five cents upon the nonproperty owner does not realize an amount that is sensibly felt in the state's revenue. They retained it, not for the money it raised but for the elevation of the suffrage and the self respect of the voter; and because they understood that the ballot and the tax are inseparable in our and every other Democratic government. It is a lesson well ught; and one which the Philadelphia politician has good reason to feel deep shame that he has not learned or has not practised.

Their Goose.

The question is raised by Boss Mc-Manes against Boss Quay as to whether the latter has not got the Republican arty in trouble by fathering on it this bition amendment, which the party as to have left out on its door step. Mr. McManes says that Quay was not incere in his advocacy of it and never intended that his party should adopt be child when he told the Prohibinists that they would take it in.

And Mr. McManes is undoubtedly ht in this, even though he is Mr. hay's fee. Leaders in a party, who fall re well qualified to tell truth about such other; but this has been long an open secret about Quay, whom nobody suspects of any other aim as a party leader than successful strategy. He has made a number of hits, in the promiscuous showing around which he has done in the maudlin condition which has long been his customary state, and he cannot the climax tomary state, and he capped the climax of his successes by electing Harrison, after Wanamaker had gathered the boodle that would have enabled any man, drunk or sober, to take the trick.

And Mr. Quay has had many backsets to balance his victories, as might be predicted of the unsteady going of a man of his constitution. The greatest of these, in the way of political missteps, has been the submission of this prohibitory amendment; which has as surely settled the Republican party of Pennsylvania, as it has the Prohibition question. There were disrupting conditions of other kinds in the situation of the party to put it in peril, and this one comes upon the top of the flood with the crushing force of a South Fork deluge. A party with a jealous president personally distributing the offices, and with leaders cutting each other's throats over them in his presence, cannot stand a two hundred thousand majority against a promised ally, and bear the burthen of treachery and defeat that goes with it. Mr. Quay has cooked the goose.

The President Encouraging Conspirators. If we have any ambition to approach consistency in our dealings with foreign powers we must take more pains to restrain societies disposed to meddle vigorously in the troubles of other lands. We have nursed a great deal of indignation against the British for permitting privateers to be fitted out against us during the war, and we cannot allow the Clan-na-Gael to carry on a small warfare with Great Britain, as its members have admitted they are quite ready to do should occasion arise. O'Donovan Rossa could be let alone because he only fought with his mouth, but this Clan is an organization of men living peacefully under our laws and the benefits of our government, yet confessing their readiness to defy our laws and imperil the peace of the whole nation starting hostile operations at the command of their order. The nation cannot tolerate any power within itself that exists with a declared hostile purpose and the ability to enforce it. We do not allow the Anarchists to incite riot and bloodshed, we take vigorous measures to suppress White Caps and regulators who defy the law and we should not honor and encourage men who are leagued with the deliberate and openly avowed purpose of defying the neutrality laws whenever it suits them to do so.

By sending Egan as United States ninister to Chili President Harrison has honored and encouraged this dangerous clan, and it is not surprising that their growing contempt for our laws should eem to be further evinced by the Cronit

WILLIAMSPORT lumbermen are showing deal of pluck. Before the great flood had fairly subsided they had organized a committee and given out contracts for the recovery of the logs and sawed lumber, and one contractor is going at the work with about three thousand men and expects to recover some thirty million feet of sawed lumber between Williamsport and Green's dam. The logs between Williamsport and Harrisburg are to be ratted and floated to points on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad and hauted back to Williamsport. When this can not be done easily the timber is to be sold to parties down the river.

THE overshawing disaster at Johnstown fered fearfully by the floods, and facts that come to light about the country near Lock Haven are impressive. The people there were cut off from the rest of the world long after Johnstown and Williamsport had been reached. Only one life was lost in Lock Haven, but in the neighborhood about thirty were drowned and in some instances whole families disappeared and were not missed by their distressed and struggling neighbors until the flood had subsided and exploring parties found the home swept away. One citizen of Lock Haven writes: "The water in our streets was six feet and upwards and points considered the highest and most favorably located shared the common experience. Saw logs, timber and rubbish of all sorts floated through our streets, almost the same as in the river proper.' The people are yet struggling with the filth deposited by the river, employing all the men they can get and forcing tramps into service. They are also distributing provisions and relief to the whole county.

THE strange insect that has attacked the wheat in Indiana is known as the green midge and has not been heard of since 1865, when it almost destroyed the wheat crops of Indiana and neighboring states. Millions of them appear in a field, settling upon the stalk, from which they draw the sap causing the grain to shrivel before it is matured. Perhaps this will be another great calamity of this calamatous year.

THE North American Review is now under the management of Loyd S. Bryce, but there is a great difference in Brices, and anyone can see why. Calvin S. Brice is a political leader; Loyd S. Bryce may write political leaders.

Poor People's Chances.

Poor People's Chances.

Some years ago a city missionary was crossing one of the parks in New York on the Sabbath day and soid to a lad, "What are you doing here, breaking the Lord's day? You ought to be at church and worshipping God instead of breaking the Sabbath in this way." The poor lad in his rags looked up at the city missionary and said: "Oh, sir, it's very easy for you to talk that way, but God knows that we poor chaps ain't got no chance."

The sentiment seems to be growing that in the United States the time has arrived when "the poor chaps don't have no chance."

"the poor chaps don't have no chance."

There is some truth in it. The poor are not shut out from making a livelihood, but the gulf between riches and poverty continually grows more difficult to cross. As the country becomes densely populated keen business competition decreases the chances for accumulating wealth by ordinary business methods.

But the same conditions vastly improve the chances for great success to those who can strike out in new paths, can furnish something to the world that others cannot. True merit, in commodity or ability, will win easily and with grand results in this country, if the masses can be induced to recognize it. This recognition can only be accomplished by what

Second, to the true worth of the remedy, proved by actual ex-perience, showing it to be the only specific for kidney disease, and all diseases growing out of kidney derangements. Mr. Warner has something the people want, dis them so, then proves it to their satisfaction success follows as a matter of course.

On the question of real economy Hood's Sar-saparilla is so far ahead of other preparations as to place them entirely out of the race as competitors. Here are facts in regard to this popular medicine, easily susceptible of conclusive

1. Hood's Sarsaparilla Costs the Manufactures More than any other competing preparation, ecouse it is more highly concentrated and contains more real medical value

2. It costs the Jobber More, as a consequence the fact just stated. 3. It costs the Retail Druggist More, for the same reason—as can casily be learned by in-quiry. Hence the desire of some retailers to sell their own preparations, which cost them less and for which they get the same price, thus making more money. But 4. It Costs the Consumer LESS than any other medicine, because of its greater concentrated strength and the quantity in each bottle, and because it is the only preparation of which can truly be said, " 100 Doses One Dollar.
