Bills paid, $73.65. Coupons cancelled, A serious accident happened this morning about 7:30 o'clock at the Columbia wagon works, resulting from the breaking of a scaffold at the eastern part of the blacksmith and machine shop. The ledger board of the scaffold broke, and was caused by the hod-carriers throwing the bricks too hard on this board. At the time it fell John Rich and Henry Albright, bricklayers, and George Smith, George Parker and Henry Turner, hod carriers, were on the scaffold. The men fell about fifteen feet to the ground and the brick and boards fell on them. Rich was badly bruised about the body and cut on the head. Parker was severely bruised about the back and cut about the face, Turner was hurt about the shoulders and legs, Albright received a few bruises and Smith escaped unburt. Rich was taken to his home on Locust street and is badly injured, although no bones are broken. The other men, excepting those who remained at work, walked wal of Hostilities Between Robert Renewal of Hostilities Between Robert H. Coleman and Robesonia Iron Co.

The long litigation which has taken place at various times between the owners of Robesonia furnace and the owners of the Cornwall ore hills, concerning the rights of the former in the ore deposits, has broken out again, and a suit in equity has been instituted in the courts of Lebanon county, wherein the Robesonia iron company is plaintiff and Robert H. Coleman and a number of the other Colemans whose interests are identical are Coleman and a number of the other Colemans whose interests are identical are defendants. The Robesonia furnace under an ancient grant has the right as long as grass grows and water runs to take as much ore from the Cornwall mines as will supply one furnace. This, it was decided, after nearly a century of litigation, gave the right to take as much as would supply the largest furnace that could be built, and not, as was contended, merely for a furnace of the size of those in operation at the time the grant was made. When this decision was rendered it gave to the Robesonia furnace an immense value, and it was shortly thereafter purchased for $850,000 by the Freeman branch of the Coleman family, who have since been operating it.

The bill just filed alleges that the complainants are being charged 25 cents & ton for moving their ore a distance of from 500 to 800 feet from the mine to their railroad.

to 800 feet from the mine to their railroad. They complain that J. Taylor Boyd, gen-eral superintendent of the Cornwall Ore eral superintendent of the Cornwall Ore Bank company, has given them notice to remove their fixtures and denying their right to locate upon the land any perman-ent structure of any kind, and notifying them that unless all such structures are not removed within two weeks he will remove them. The complainants ask that their rights be declared and that the defendants be enjoined from interfering with their improvements or from attempting to remove them. The case was presented for the complainants by Wayne MacVeagh, of Philadelphia, and the defendants were represented by John G. Johnson, of the same of the complainants of the same of the control of the cont

The present litigation is very important masmuch as it brings in question again the great Robesonia ore right, which is worth a fortune every year. Should it go against the complainants the value of their right will in a great measure be destroyed Judge McPherson, before whom the ap-plication was made, made no immediate disposition of the complaint, saying be

ALL EAGER TO BE BITTEN.

The man who was bitten at Sedalia, Missouri, by Dr. Small's mad dog and cured by the madstone is well and hearty now, but Doctor Small thinks his mind is affected. Mad dogs are becoming scarce, but it will be a long time before Sedalia forgets this epidemic. Small has withdrawn his $500 offer, but still refuses to believe in the madstone. Though the dog was dead this was not the end of Dr.Small's proposition. Acceptances began to pour in, not only by mail, but by telegraph. Up to date he has had to pay out several dollars in receiving telegrams. Among those who telegraphed was a woman in Kansas City who wanted to be bitten. She asked if women came under the rules of the proposition and wanted to come on the next train if so. J. W. Dickson, of Kansas City, the owner of madstone, wrote by mail and wanted to be bitten. He wanted the dog taken to Kansas City, and offered to put up a forfeit of $1,000 to bind him to be bitten or he would come to the dog and bring his madstone with him. Mr. Dickson claims to have cured 1,300 people bitten by mad dogs with his single madstone in twenty years. His stone was brought by his father from Ireland, and can be traced back, he says, to the 1712. He further wrote to Dr. Small and turned the challenge.

"He you will let the dog bite you and I Sublime Faith in the Madstone and No Fear of Mad Dogs.

the challenge.

"If you will let the dog bite you and I don't cure you with my madstone, I will give your family $10,000, and I am ready to put up the money now; furthermore, if you will cite one individual out of the 1,350 cores tested by me for bydroubdis in the cases treated by me for hydrophobia in the last twenty years that I have lost I will give you $5,000. I can find, besides myself, plenty of men right here in Kansas City, who will take your offer of $500. I will guarantee to bring five men to be bitten, each one for $100, if this will suit you."

The President Resents Criticism. from the Boston Herald.

President Harrison is annoyed at the President Harrison is amoyer at the criticism in some new-papers upon his Sunday trips. He is quoted by a friend as saying of them to-day: "Don't you think they are utterly unreasonable? As you know, no one is more solicitous for the proper observance of the sabbath than I am, and no one would be more scrupulous about his own conduct in this respect than I have been, yet these newspapers are trying to make people believe that I have suddenly make people believe that I have suddenly become grossly inconsistent in this regard. They know just how it is. They know that I have no other time for rest, and they know that I must have rest if I am to keep on with my work. They know, too, that when I have gone down the river over Sunday I have done nothing but rest, except to go to church. So they have to misrepresent the facts to base a charge against me. It is unjust and unreasonable." me. It is unjust and unreasonable
