ESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT E LANCASTER BAR CONDOLES THE DEATH OF THE LATE DANIEL G. BAKER.

Eloquent Tribute Paid to His Mem ory By H. M. Houser, His Office Associate-Some Characteristics.

A meeting of the Lancaster bar, to take ction on the death of Daniel G. Baker, ms held at 10 o'clock this morning, in the Anthenici Elimaker, esq., was chosen president of the meeting, and Major A. C. Rainchl secretary.

The president, on stating the object of the meeting, paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of the deceased. Remarks eulogistic to Mr. Baker were made by William R. Wilson, S. P. Eby, Judge Patterson and H. M. Houser. The atter, who was in the law office of Mr. Baker, paid the following tribute to his

Having been intimately associated with Daniel G. Baker during the last ten years of his life, occupying the same office with him, this occasion has for me a peculiar in-terest ; and I should be disobedient to the promptings of my heart if I did not, how-ever feebly, pay my nute of tribute to the memory of the deceased.

Dahiel G. Baker's life was well rounded in years, having passed the alloted period of man's life, having reached the age of seventy one. As a lawyer, as a husband and father, as a man, his life presents a record of which any of us might be proud. He was a successful lawyer, he enjoyed a good clientage and in his younger days athered together sufficient of the honest rewards of his labors to make him comwhich have been erected on the grounds. fortable during his declining years.

He was a safe counselor and his advice was sought and paid for by those who appreciated an honest, level headed adviser. He never subsidized his clientage nor resorted to artificial means to build up his practice. "He believed that solid merit and honesty would bring their own reward, and so he pursued his way in a quiet, unobtrusive manner and the success he merited came to him. He knew no such thing as malice; the petty jealousies of his profession found no Whatever else may ome in his breast. be said of Daniel G. Baker this will be said by all, that he was an honest, upright lawyer, and enjoyed the confidence of every one.

I knew Mr. Baker mainly during his declining years, while the shadows of the great beyond were slowly gathering round him, and his life was in its sunset As he gradually retired from the busier acenes of life he became the spirit of gentleness, of kindness and affection.

1 Those who were intimately associated with him only knew how beautiful were the closing scenes of his life. The family circle, the circle of intimate friend's will long cherish the memory of the loving gentle spirit as it gradually withdrew from the scenes of this life and fixed its gaze upon "The fields beyond the swelling flood."

William R. Wilson, M. Brosius, D. G. Eshleman, Hiram B. Swarr and A. F. Hostetter were appointed a committe to prepare resolutions of respect, and they re-ported the following, which were adopted :

WHEREAS, In the order of nature and Providence our brother, Daniel G. Baker, has been removed from the field of his use-fulness among us, and desiring to place upon record a suitable expression of our appreciation of his superior character and excellent attainments, as well as the pro-found sense of loss we feel at his separa-

" Bully " Lyon Arrested.

" Bully " Lyon is the name of Reading's character, who is almost as well known in Lancaster as Berks. He is queer a sort of a detective and is a now a constable of the Fourth ward of Reading. Of late he has turned informer and has prosecuted a numper of liquor men for violating the laws. Re cently he sent his own brother to jail for vagrancy. He has made himself very unpopular with the majority of the people. Last evening he was standing at Sixth and Penn street, as the Herald says, " with a lot of other loafers" and he was told to move on by Officer Kendall. He refused to go, but the officer called another to his assistance and they hustled Lyon to the lockup. He was afterward bailed out and he at once prosecuted the officer for assault and battert

Log Sale at Williamsport.

On the inside of to-day's paper will be found an account of a sale of logs in Wil-liamsport yesterday which is not altogether Col. James Cochran, a lumberman of Williamsport, and Edward Eberman, of this city, together bought all the logs lying between Highspire and York Furnace, which are estimated at 20,000,000 feet. The total value of these is about $120,000. Henry Bayard & Co. and Dyard & Co. bought all the logs lying between York Furnace and the Chesapeake bay, about 135,000,000 feet. The prices were Hemlock, $2.30 per 1,000 feet ; pine, $7.25; oak and hardwood, $4.25. Messra, Eberman and Cochran will take a trip along the river to-morrow to look at the purchase.

A Little Girl's Narrow Escape.

This morning the horse and wagon of David Miller was standing on Market street, near Lemon. The horse had not been hitched up properly and he began kicking. In the wagons were too little girls, and they became frightened. One jumped out of the wagon and landed safely e ground. The other in getting out had her clothing eaught, and she hung be tween the wagon bed and the wheel. Th horse continued to kick and the child might have lost her life had it not been for William Resh, who ran and caught the horse by the head, throwing him down upon his haunches. He then rescued the child from her perilous position.

Runaway Boys.

A telegram from the Gap was received by Chief Smeltz this morning to be on the lookout for two runaway boys and the police officers have been instructed to institute search for them. These boys are dressed in blue pants and blue shirts, no coats. Should any one see them they would confer a great favor to their parents by sending word to the chief or any of the

The alderman settled that difficulty, as he went to the house of the deputy orphans' clerk at an early hour this morning and had that officer go to the court house where the proper papers were taken out. The knot was then tied.

Back From Johnstown.

Col. B. Frank Eshleman, of Governor Beaver's staff, who for almost two week has been at Johnstown with the military arrived at home this morning, having been released by Col. Hudson. The colonel is looking well and he reports the work of cleaning up in Johnstown progressing in a satisfactory manner.

A great many Lancaster people have visited Johnstown since the flood, and a large number are going up to-morrow night to be there over Sunday.

The Fourth at Lititz.

There will be the usual Fourth of July elebration at Lititz this year, and it promses to draw a great crowd of people Lititz has always been very patriotic and its celebrations have been very successful. This year the speakers will be Gen. J. P. Gobin, of Lebanon, Rev. W. J. Johnson, of Manheim, and Charles Adam, esq. of Carlisle. The Liberty band and the Fairville band will furnish the instrumental music and there will be singing of national airs by 600 children. The illumination and pyrotechnic display will be very fine.

Special Committee Organized. The special committee of councils ap-pointed to inquire into the feasibility of ing the old water works as an electric light station met on Thursday evening and organized by electing John J. Altick chairman and Alderman Deen clerk. The committee will visit and examine the works and all the facts furnished to an expert, se that he can make a report to councils.

Funeral of Joseph Entz.

The funeral of Joseph Entz took place its morning, and was largely attended The Knights of St. John, with the Iroquois hand, and St. Michael's society attended in a hody. The remains were taken from the residence of the doceased, 554 St. Joseph street, to St. Joseph's church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Father Schmidt. The interment was made at St. Joseph's cemetery.

A Store Front Finished.

This afternoon the stone work on B. J. MeGrann's new building in Centre Square, which is one of the handsomest in the city, was finished by the employes of McClure's marble works, on South Queen street. The work was superintended by P. E. Gruger and John M. Moedinger. They handled and put up one hundred tons of stone without an accident of any kind, and made a fine job of the building.

Could Not Identify Them.

Harry Althouse, Wm. Phillips, Abram Ditzler and Edward Ditzler, the four boys arrested for maliciously traspassing upon the land of John W. Musser, were heard by Alderman Halbach last evening. The boys were discharged, because none of the witnesses could identify them as the guilty parties.

A Valuable Relic.

Harry Druckenmiller, who is working at Johnstown, is the possessor of a watch that he found on the ground after the flood. It is a Lancaster movement, and for that reason Mr. Druckenmiller prizes it very highly as a relic.

A Little Girl Injured.
