ADDRESS, THE INTELLIGENCER, Lancaster, Pa.

LANCASTER, PA., July 3, 1889.

They Answer Back.

The license judges of Philadelphia have issued wholesale licenses to all the applicants who desire them, in obedience to what they claim to understand to be the decision of the supreme court, and without waiting for a special application or attempting any discrimination as to the character of the parties. They accompany their act with an extended expression of their disgust at what they consider their discourteous treatment by the supreme court and with an argument against the consistency of that court in declaring that a remonstrance is the proper basis for the action of the court in refusing a license. The license judges deny that this has been the regular practice and reply that they think it a bad practice. And it is notable that they take this exception to the soundness of the opinion of the supreme court while declaring that they "have no grievance arising from the fact that the supreme court has interpreted the act of May 24, 1887, differently from the construction we put on it." Their grievance they say is that the court did not treat them decently; but they are manifestly eager to get in a stab at the court wherever they think its armor is open; and it is with monstrously poor grace that they submit themselves to its control.

As bad boys when they are spanked for ill-doing and find they have to quit that kind of work, go off into quite the other extreme and strive to see whether they cannot follow the paternal injunction so literally as to show it to be absurd; so these license judges seize upon the supreme court suggestion that the proceedings taken in refusing a wholesale license should be formally instituted and be determined by evidence and with opportunity to the applicant to defend his application, as an instruction that the license court may not refuse a license even where the applicant is ineligible by law, unless some one has so interested himself in the matter as to file a remonstrance against his application.

And yet this is the license court which has undertaken to hear every applicant for license and not only to hear testimony in open court but to inform themselves out of court, through any attainable sources of information, so that they may refuse licenses to the unworthy. Is it not clear that if these judges had shown as catholic a desire to execute the wholesale license law, in its spirit as it is adjudged by the supreme court, that they would have scanned the list of applicants and have caused the proper papers of remonstrance to be filed, which are ruled to be proper to give them jurisdiction, and that they would then have let the knowledge they say they have that a number of the applicants were not entitled to license under the undoubted qualification demanded in the law, have had its proper effect in the rejection of the license application?

These judges well know that the supreme court did not direct that licenses should be given to such parties; and it is in base disregard of their duty that they issue licenses to those whom they say they know to be disqualified by the law. The attempt to make the supreme court responsible for the issue of such licenses is an impudent exhibition of childish malice.

What the supreme court declared was that the license court was not warranted in adding to the requirements of the law, or in refusing wholesale licenses because in their opinion they were unnecessary; and that their action in the matter of rejecting licenses should be taken with a proper regard for the forms of the law and so that their reasons and the facts sustaining them might appear on the record and be reviewed. No more sensible declaration was ever made by a court; and no more contemptible an effort was ever made to pervert a supreme court correction than has been made by these Philadelphia judges, whose duty and pleasure it should have been to give an intelligent obedience to the mandate of the court and to have scrupulously refrained from treating it with diny, $1,1.. This much they owed to the dignity of their places and the unwritten law of their profession. In violating decorum they have violated good sense, and made it all the more clear that their discretion is of a very poor sort.

A Large Contract.

Mr. Francis W. Fox comes over from England to gather American dollars for the suppression of the slave trade in Africa. No doubt Mr. Fox will go home in due time with an interesting collection of dollars, and possibly they will be very well spent; but contemplating the matter in all its vastness, it would appear that it is too great to be pushed to a satisfactory end by appealing to philanthropy and taking up a collection. A continent about three times the size of Europe is not to be cleared of slavery by any gentle sort of crusading. The horrors of the slave trade are sickening and a disgrace to our age, and to the strength of our Christian civilization, which boasts that it dominates the globe. We freely admit the need of doing something without delay, but let it by all means be the right thing, and let us be very sure it is right before we go ahead. In the opinion of many thoughtful people, the slave trade can best be fought by railroad building on a large scale, and this only appears possible under conditions equivalent to a conquest and firm rules that raise the whole problem to a matter for statesmen and great nations. It is in any form a gigantic task and should and will be undertaken on a colossal scale. All signs point to the dark continent as the future theatre of great events.

Cannon Crackers.

The glorious fourth is at hand and so is the uproarious and explosive celebration of the same. He has given something to the Johnstown sufferers and so is very much pleased with his own nobility of mind and prepared to encourage suffering at home by making a great noise in the world in a cheap and easy way. A small variety of man never feels so big as when he explodes a cannon cracker. He may be painfully conscious of his own smallness of mind and character; the world has never taken satisfactory notice of him; but now it must listen, for he has applied fire to a ten cent fire cracker, and watches it with a smile that plainly says, "Oh, yes, I am no account, but just wait till you hear the big noise I own." Then when his noise breaks loose, his ecstacy is child-like though he would be greatly offended if any one said so to him, for he thinks he is a full grown and patriotic American.

A boy may stimulate his patriotic feelings by simulating the din of war on the Fourth of July; but the grown man who is responsible for most of the noise can have no fancy of that kind in his head. The cannon cracker in the hands of a man is a symbol of vanity and selfishness, not patriotism. A patriot is ever jealous for the welfare of his country, which depends upon the welfare of his countrymen, which is certainly not advanced by the explosion of cannon crackers.

Let the citizen who is bent upon celebration expend his cash and energy in fireworks that are beautiful and impressive, delighting the eye with changing colors, and vivid contracts of brilliant light and darkness; or better, let him send his money to Johnstown, read a few chapters of American history and think a few healthy, patriotic thoughts.

We Are Sorry.

We greatly regret that the magnificent hospitality of Robert Coleman to the faculty and alumni of Trinity college is having so much water in it. One would think that a college faculty ought to command better weather; but their continued ducking only shows how little the Almighty is a respecter of persons. After Mr. Coleman had spent so much labor and cash in getting his fellow collegians to Mount Gretna, there is not a man who would not have given him and them sunny skies and pleasant breezes and all the fairness that the earth can put on, for their solace and satisfaction; but Providence has not the human weakness and we must conclude that there is a wise result to flow from all this tribulation, water and mud. Perhaps it is to discourage future attempts upon the part of rich and generous graduates to transplant whole colleges to their parks and to indulge in like wholesale hospitality. But it would seem that there is not such probability of the frequent repetition of such a deed, as to call for its especial discouragement. And perhaps the valuable lesson is to be simply sought in the exhibition of lovely resignation which the Trinity faculty and alumni are doubtless showing on the heights of Lebanon to all the inhabitants of its valleys; a Christian virtue which may be looked for in full bloom from this institution of the Episcopal church; which at least believes itself to be endowed with all the beauties, perfections and exaltations that can adorn the Christian character.

INDIANA'S state board of education is having a fight with the publishers of school books. A new law fixes the price of the books, and the publishers of standard works have not submitted proposals to furnish them under the law. Manuscripts were presented to the board by educators from all parts of the country, and copyrights were offered for royalties of from one to ten cents per copy on the books sold. A proposition which will probably be accepted was submitted by a company of Indiana capitalists, representing about $10,000,000 in wealth, who are willing to undertake to carry out the new law. They have secured copyrights on a series of books to be known as the Indiana Educational Series, which they will supply to Indiana school children at the prices fixed by the law, which are about sixty per cent. below the present retail charges of text book publishers.

A CONVICT in the Eastern penitentiary, whose name and offense the prison rules will not permit to be made known, has proved himself a man of sense and feeling. He had saved fifteen dollars by working overtime and wanted to give it all to the Johnstown sufferers, but the warder refused to accept more than five dollars.

A Tennessee gentleman named Proudfit, struck by the contributions of the prisoners in the penitentiary sent to Governor Beaver two checks—one for $1,000 for the sufferers and another $5 for the prisoner who had subscribed that amount. The governor transmitted the latter to Warden Cassidy yesterday, but when the sum was offered to the prisoner he indignantly rejected it, saying that the $5 that he gave was his own and that he did not want any consideration from anyone for giving his own money.

IT is disgraceful to the civilization of this city and positive evidence of the impotence of the police government that such infernal noises are permitted to disturb the people, as those which deafen their ears to-day. In every city where officers have a decent conception of their duties, the Fourth of July firing, of a loudness sufficient to disturb the people, is unknown. While firecrackers of children are permitted, pistols and double knockers of the silly young man are forbidden. Such creatures who have so little sense as to be tickled by the noise of their powder, should properly reform their instincts in the quietude of a prison cell.

WHILE we celebrate our national birthday the four new states take their first steps in state government, and it is pretty safe to prophecy that their ruling power will never move more uprightly, even though a Dakota town has tried to bribe the delegates by an offer of free board.

WE print elsewhere a communication from Mr. Gates, which seems to make at least one good point in its reference to the magnitude of the charges against him and the descrepitude of the evidence. We do not know more of the case than is found in the committee's report, which is all in his favor. The majority of the school board refused to endorse it. For this remarkable performance no reason is publicly given. It is due to the public that there should be. Such a contemptuous overriding of a committee's report demands explanation.

THE Angelus remained in France because of the American tariff of thirty per cent. on works of art. If the American had secured the painting at $110,800, it would have cost him, with tariff, freight, fees and a five per cent. tax charged by the French government, not less than $150,000.

PERSONAL.

S. S. COX, who was reported on Monday to be very ill in St. Paul, Minnesota, is said to be in good health and will deliver an oration in Huron, Dakota, to-morrow.

EMPEROR WILLIAM, during his visit to Southern Germany, repeated the expressed regret at the Wuhlgemuth affair, and said he was confident that cordial relations would be restored between Germany and Switzerland.

REV. DR. ISAAC K. LOOS, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, Bethlehem, was prostrated by a stroke of paralysis, affecting his whole right side and organs of speech. His condition is critical, he having just recovered from the effects of a previous attack.

REV. DR. THOMAS F. DAVIES, of Philadelphia, recently elected bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Michigan, has written to the committee in Detroit accepting the charge, subject to the approval of the general convention, which will meet in October.

JOHN W. LOGAN, father of Judge Logan, of the Pennsylvania railroad company, died at his home in Parnassus on Monday night at the age of 85 years. He was probably the best known resident of the valley of the Allegheny, always having lived on land originally taken from the commonwealth by his father and occupied by him until his death. Mr. Logan was of well known Scotch-Irish ancestry, and during his entire mature life was an active elder in the Presbyterian church.

A "Waterspout" at Altoona.

A waterspout broke over Altoona about 10 o'clock Tuesday night doing great damage. The rain at night came down in torrents, overflowing the streets and bursting the sewers.

Reports from South Fork state that the great viaduct is in danger, and no tidings from the West have come in since 6 o'clock. The Juniata is rising between bounds at Tyrone, and if the storm continues middle division trains will be annulled till morning.

Kittanning Point reservoir, Altoona's water supply, is expected to break. The water is pouring over its banks like a small Niagara. Should it go the city will lose $100,000.

Mrs. H. L. Nicholson, wife of the Pennsylvania ticket agent, at Altoona, was struck by lightning, and is not expected to recover. The Pennsylvania agent at Hollidaysburg, A. M. Hyle, wife and child, were found unconscious in their home from the effects of a stroke. The damage by the waterspout is widespread.

A Lunatic's Fatal Fall.

Persons passing along State street, in front of the Palmer house, Chicago, on Tuesday afternoon, were horrified at seeing a man, clad only in a sheet, climb out of a window and walk along the projecting cornice. Suddenly with a shriek he fell to a projection below. A ladder was procured and an attempt was made to rescue him, when with a scream he threw himself to the pavement below, fracturing his skull and receiving other injuries which will probably cause his death.

He was evidently insane, and proved to be G. W. Howe, a prominent young civil engineer, of Leadville, Col. He was on his way home from Washington, where he had been in attendance as a delegate to the convention of the Patriotic Sons of America.

Base Ball News.

The championship games played yesterday were: Pittsburg 10, Philadelphia 3; Chicago 5, Boston 4; Cleveland 5, Washington 4; New York 8, Indianapolis 6; Columbus 13, Kansas City 9; Worcester 6, Hartford 5; Wilkesbarre at Jersey City, rain; Lowell at New Haven, rain; Harrisburg 10, York 4.

Harrisburg has been trying to get Jerry McCormick, late of the Philadelphia Giants, but he signed in Dover.

Sweitzer and Keffer are to be released by York and young Beasley will take Rinn's place on third for Harrisburg.

The Harrisburg club was unable until yesterday to hit O'Neil, of the York. The Lancaster club could scarcely hit a house, yet O'Neil was pie for them and they smashed him out of the box nearly every game.

The rain has been good for the Athletic club; they could not possibly lose.

A Rat Stampedes a School.

A rat ran across one of the rooms of the First ward school of Long Island City on Thursday afternoon. One of the girls screamed, and in an instant the children, 500 in number, in all the rooms stampeded, crying "fire." There was the wildest excitement, and it took but a few minutes for a large crowd of anxious parents to congregate before the building. To add to the confusion the fire department was turned out. It was ascertained later that nobody was killed or seriously hurt.

A Haul by Masked Robbers.

In Pleasant Unity, near Greensburg, Pa., shortly after 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, Dr. T. L. Smith was awakened by a loud rap at his door by a man who said he wanted a tooth pulled. When the doctor opened the door he was confronted by three masked men, with drawn revolvers, who demanded his money. He was knocked down and savagely beaten until left for dead. The ruffians then overpowed the other inmates of the house, robbed it of nearly $800, and escaped.

Dr. McInerny Not Dead.

William Connelly, the superintendent of the labor bureau at Castle Garden, announces that he received a message from his friend, Dr. McInerny, whose disappearance has been connected by rumor with the Cronin tragedy. The message:

"I am well, and was never in better health. My present mission, as you well know, has nothing whatever to do with politics or public matters. I am away on purely personal matters."

Mackin Pardoned.

Governor Fifer, of Illinois, has pardoned Joseph Mackin, the Chicago political worker, now serving a term of imprisonment for crimes against popular suffrage. The governor accompanied the pardon with a review of the papers in the case, in which he stated that the application had stronger support than had ever been presented to a governor in a like case before.

Arrested for Selling Cigarettes.

M. G. Arnshorn, a Reading merchant, was arrested on Tuesday by County Detective Kramer, on the charge of selling cigarettes to children under the age of 16 years. This is the first arrest in Berks county under the new law passed by the last Legislature relative to the sale of cigarettes.

ODE ON THE SMALL BOY.

About this time he carries in his pockets
A lot of crackers, red lights, blue lights, rockets,
Toy pistols, matches, pin wheels and torpedoes—
What patriot celebrates the Fourth as he does?
He gives that day full play to his emotions,
And on the next his wounds need cooling lotions.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

IT COSTS LESS

On the question of real economy Hood's Sarsaparilla is so far ahead of other preparations as to place them entirely out of the race as competitors. Here are facts in regard to this popular medicine, easily susceptible of conclusive proof.

1. Hood's Sarsaparilla Costs the Manufacturer More than any other competing preparation, because it is more highly concentrated and contains more real medical value.

2. It costs the Jobber More, as a consequence of the fact just stated.

3. It costs the Retail Druggist More, for the same reason as can easily be learned by inquiry. Hence the desire of some retailers to sell their own preparations, which cost them less, and for which they get the same price, thus making more money. But

4. It Costs the Consumer LESS than any other medicine, because of its greater concentrated strength and the quantity in each bottle, and because it is the only preparation of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar."

That the people appreciate this is shown by the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has the Largest sale of any sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It possesses peculiar merit and effects wonderful cures.

A POINT FOR YOU.

When you buy your spring medicine you want the best. Ask for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist upon having it. Do not let any argument or persuasion influence you to buy what you do not want. Be sure to get the ideal spring medicine.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

MT. GRETNA.

MT. GRETNA

Park and Narrow Gauge Railroad.

The aim of its management is to make Mt. Gretna the most desirable day resort in Pennsylvania; to this end every form of amusement and convenience for excursions and picnics is here provided.

The especial attraction this year at Mt. Gretna is its Narrow Gauge Railway, the completion of which throws open for view the magnificent scenery of the South Mountain. This little two foot gauge railway, unique in design and construction (the only one of its kind in operation), alone ballasted and steel railed, begins at the entrance to the Park and terminates at Governor Dick, the Summit of the South Mountain, 1,200 feet above the sea level. Its cars are miniature reproductions of the highest type of car building.

OBSERVATION CARS.

The trains over this division consist of Observation Cars, affording an unobstructed view of the scenery en route. They pass in full view of the Military Parade Grounds, Lake Conewago, the State Rifle Range, and over Horse Shoe Bend, gradually ascending until GOVERNOR DICK is reached, four miles distant. The view from the observatory is especially noteworthy.

Church, school, military, and civic organizations, clubs and tourist parties can have free and exclusive use of the Park on application to H. A. GROSS,
Gen. Pas. Agent C. & L. R. R., Lebanon, Pa.
