Since that his father has turned his attention in the same direction at Lancaster, and the chances are that the young man will have his choice of the two locations when his father gets tired of money making.

st. Stephen's Church Celebrates the Auniversary of its Organization.

Special exercises attracted large congregations at St. Stephen's German Lutheran church, Duke and Church streets, on Sunday morning and evening. The occasion was the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of that church and the fourtee anniversary of the corner stone laying. In honor of the two events celebrated the church was handsomely decorated.

Over the pulpit on an arch creeted are the letters 15 and on the sides the dates 1574-1889. In front of the pulpit is a raised platform on which were placed a large number of bouquets handsomely arranged. Around the gallery are arranged fifteen banners to represent the anniversary cele-brated. The letters made the words "Gott ist dieliebe," "God is love."

The exercises at the morning service were opened with a prelude on the organ, after which Mozart's 12th mass was finely rendered by a selected choir. The sermo was preached by the pastor, Rev. E. Meister, from Matthew 13; 44 to 49th verses His theme was the everlasting inheritance in the temple not built by bands but everlasting in Heaven. In his sermon he referred to the organization of the church in 1874, and reserved with pride to its present membership of 400 with a large Sunday school in a flourishing condition, and concluded by saying that "God descrees all the honor and to him thanks are given." A feature of the morning's service was the solo "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," which was sung by Prof. Wm. B. Hall. The evening exercises were opened with the selection "To Thee, O Country," by the selected chorus; this was followed by duett "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," by Miss Leila Baer and George Hambright Next came a solo "O Herr, lass nich nicht Schuldig Werden," by Miss Lizzie Boehr

The evening sermon was preached by Rev. Meister from 84th Psalm "How amiable are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts," A short address was also delivered by Rev. Dr. B. F. Alleman, of St. John's Lutheran church.

BOAT AND DOG LOST.

The Niegara Falls Crank Makes Another Experiment With a Barrel Boat.
Carlisle D. Graham having braved the perils of the Whirlpoool and Devil's rapids, at Niegara Falls, was not satisfied to abandon his trip over the great cataract because one boat went to pieces, so he built a new one which he tested Sunday afternoon in the presence of several thousand excursionists. This barrel was more like the one in which he navigated the whirlpool, but was smaller and lighter than the one wrecked on June 30. It was six feet long by about three feet in diameter, and was heavily hooped with iron. A Newfoundland dog was placed in the barrel, the manhole cover was locked securely, and at 3:40 p. m., Walter Odell, a New York Central engineer, set the craft adrift in the current opposite Chippewa. At precisely 3:50 the barrel headed up toward the brink of the Horseshoe Falls and rode nicely over. In the rapids it was not so severely used by the waves as the heavier craft was, but it met the same fate at the foot of the falls. In two minutes pieces of the barrel came to the surface. It had been crushed into fragments by the tons of water which had poured over the cataract with it.

People on board the steamer Maid of the Mist, who saw the barrel slide lightly over the centre of the Horseshoe, were surprised that it was wrecked. Graham had gone up along the gorge with friends to rescue the boat, but he felt less certain of success than on the last occasion. Then he said if he failed he would like to die in the boat. He was rather despondent early in the day, and said that he had staked everything on going over the falls. He was willing to go in the boat without a trial trip, but yielded The Niegara Palls Crank Makes An-

to the advice of his wife and friends.

When the disaster became known, Constable Andrew Horn, of Niagara Falls, went after Graham, whom he found up at Bass' rocks near the falls, contemplating some of the wreckage of his beat. Mr. Horn induced the melancholy navigator to crawl back to the Maid of the Mist landing. Here it was agreed that nothing should be said about Graham's suicidal intentions, but the story leaked out.

William de Vere, a theatrical man, who is summering at the Falls, offered to help Graham build another boat if he wanted to try it again. Graham, after his melancholy had disappeared, said that he had always been afraid of the Horseshoe, and if the barrel had gone nearer the Canadian shore it would have come out all right. He says he can build a boat strong enough to go he can build a boat strong enough to go over. The dog's body was not recovered.

What Secretary Kremer Says. Mr. S. S. Marvin and Secretary J. B. Kremer, of the flood relief committee, were in Johnstown Saturday. They visited the commissary and other headquarters and express themselves as pleased with what they saw. Mr. Kremer says that over $170,000 has already been expended in Johnstown, not including the $500,000 now being paid out. He did not give figures to show clearly where this money had gone, but said it exceeded $170,000. One hun-dred houses had been bought or contracted for, costing $100 each; one hundred costing $207 each, and two hundred two-story-houses to be built by Contractor Hughes at $200 each. In addition, fifty-two business stands had been built at a cost of $125 each. This would make a total of $109,750. In addition some money was spent for coffins, lumber and the like.

Over three-fourths of the money coming into the hands of Governor Beaver direct was for the sufferers in the Conemaugh valley, the balance being for the flood sufferers of Pennsylvania. Mr. Kremer said that it was likely the Williamsport region would get another appropriation, as it seemed they had not received their share.

A New Raffrond's Troubles. The Middletown & Hummelstown rail-road, now about one-third finished, will form a connecting link between the Pennform a connecting link between the Pennsylvania Central and the Philadelphia &
Reading, although operated by a separate company. This will give Middletown, with its large iron interests, the benefit of the Reading and its connections, and the large brownstone quarries at Hummelstown will have the advantage of the Pennsylvania line. Both roads are now manouvring to gain control of the new road.
The "Pennsy" several days ago refused to further allow the engines of the Middletown & Hummelstown railroad to receive or deposit cars on its sidings, and the ceive or deposit cars on its sidings, and the connecting switch was ordered to be locked. The order was subsequently mod-ified so that cars consigned to the new road would be delivered over the Pennsylvania by its own shifting engines.

The Philadelphia & Reading company are now seeking an injunction restraining the new company from building its road on the bed of the old Union canal, which was formerly operated by the Reading. They still claim ownership. The new company, however, have secured right of way over their entire route from the farmers along the line, who claim that the canal reverted back to them as soon as the Reading dis-continued its use for canal purposes.

A Tip From Spirit Land. From the London Telegraph.

We commend to the attention of the Society for Psychical Research the last dreamitory in connection with racing. A well known ex-military sportsman for so weeks past has made up his mind that would "try and dream the winner of the Lincoln handicap." This ingenious idea of his he ammounced to several of his friends, who naturally smiled somewould what skeptically on the would-be seer. However, on Monday night, five times in succession, he dreamt that "No. 13" had won the race. As there was no horse of that name, the sportsman in question came to the conclusion that his vision must refer to the number on the card. He made no secret of his belief, and Tues-day morning he sent a messenger to King's Cross to get the card and back his dream number. There were no cards to be had at the station. Accordingly he wired to Messys. W. H. Smith & Sohns' bookstall at Lincoln for "the name of No. 13 on today's card for the handleap." The answer came back promptly, "Wise Man." The resolute dreamer immediately backed the horse, with the happy result that all wise racing men now wot of. Every detail of this singular story is absolutely true, and there are many who can testify to having heard the prophecy of "No. 13" delivered on Tuesday afternoon. who thinks he can save the other. Returned to Court. Harry Hildebrand was heard by Alderman A. F. Donnelly on Saturday evening on a charge of committing an assault and battery on Abram Eisenberg. The testimony showed that the assault was unprovoked. The case was returned to court and Hildebrand gave ball for trial.

From the Reformed Church Messenger. We were among those who had the pleas-We were among those who had the pleasure of listening to the alumni address delivered by Walter M. Franklin, Esq., on the "Evolution of Jurisprudence," during the late commencement at Lancaster. At the time we regarded it as very decidedly one of the best productions which we had heard delivered on such occasions. Since then we have received a copy of it, which we have read with more than ordinary interest and satisfaction. Mr. Franklin, one of the rising lawyers of the state, gives the precedence to the civil or Roman law over the common law of England, in which statement probably all legal gentlemen will not be willing to concur with him.

The well is 42 feet deep and the bodies were not taken out until the afternoon. A Pointer.
